Air Battle Rages In Kashmir Crisis

—(AP Wirephoto)

BIGGEST AIRPLANE in world is title for 'Super Guppy'. With cargo capacity of nearly 50,000 cubic feet, the rebuilt Boeing Stratocruiser is seen leaving Van Nuys, Calif., airport on its first flight. It will be put into service ferrying rocket boosters and other cargo too large for conventional planes.

CPR Told To Retain 'Dominion'

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners today ordered the Canadian Pacific Railway to call off its plans to discontinue the Dominion passenger train service Sept. 7.

The board clamped a freeze on the cancellation plan pending a series of public hearings at which the railway and communities along its transcontinental line will be given an opportunity to air arguments for and against the proposed move.

Hearings have been set for Winnipeg Sept. 27, Vancouver Oct. 5, Calgary Oct. 12-13, Regina Oct. 14-15, Ottawa Oct. 19-20-21 and Port Arthur at a date still to be set.

The board is reported to have received a flood of complaints, chiefly from Western Canada, since the CPR's announcement early in August that it planned to abandon the Dominion, its secondary transcontinental passenger train.

It ordered a special study of the situation and decided the complaints warranted a full public investigation. A postponement order was issued after a one - hour board meeting this morning.

REPORT ORDERED

The order instructs the CPR to file with the board by Sept. 15 a complete report of its reasons for wanting to cancel the train.

It asks for details of revenues and expenditures on the Dominion in the period between Jan. 1, 1961, and August of this year, a report on the displacement of employees that might result and the railway's alternative transportation arrangements.

Abandonment of the Dominion would concentrate the CPR's transcontinental passenger traffic on its No. 1 train, the Canadian.

The hearings will also look into complaints that the CPR has been rejecting passenger reservations for sleeping and parlor car space when space was available. The board has ordered the CPR to present a full outline of its reservation procedure.

WE'LL KNOW FOR SURE WITHIN A WEEK—PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today he will announce within a week whether or not a general election will be called this fall.

He told reporters after a cabinet meeting that he hopes he can make the announcement before his self-imposed deadline of next Wednesday.

He set the deadline for such an announcement during his visit last week to Western Canada.

Mr. Pearson said he would not answer any questions today about the possibility of a general election in November, speculation about which has been rampant for several weeks.

Pakistan Troops Cross Line

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (CP) — The government claimed Pakistani air force planes shot down four Indian planes supporting retreating Indian ground forces in Kashmir today.

The official announcement said the air battle took place over the Chamb area, which is inside the Indian sector of Pakistan.

Earlier, a government spokesman said Pakistani Kashmir troops had crossed the ceasefire line in that area and had occupied two Indian posts, Chamb and Deva, six to eight miles inside Indian-held Kashmir.

(In New Delhi, an Indian defence ministry spokesman said that Pakistan infantry supported by U.S. - made Patton tanks attacked Indian positions in the Chamb sector. The spokesman claimed three of the tanks were badly damaged.)

A spokesman for the Pakistan government in Rawalpindi said this had been done to forestall any further Indian aggression.

He said this situation had been forced upon Pakistan by continued Indian aggression across the ceasefire line. "This has left us with no choice except to forestall their further aggressive moves," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said the government of Pakistan considered the present situation "very grave," but responsibility for the gravity of the situation lay squarely upon India, who had been aggressing across the ceasefire line during the last few months and then proudly announcing this.

The spokesman said "from today onward, we are in the fighting."

AYUB ACCUSES

In a broadcast speech, Pakistani President Ayub Khan accused India of blatant acts of aggression in Kashmir which, he said, would not be allowed to go unchallenged.

The president also rejected the Indian view of fighting there as the work of infiltrators, calling the attitude a pathetic attempt to delude the world.

Ayub said Pakistan is doing "no more than what we have always pledged to do, which is to support the people of Kashmir in exercising their right of self-determination . . ."

The president said he was making the broadcast under the threat of war which was being forced on Pakistan by India.

He said the people of Kashmir had risen in open revolt and described India's action in crossing the ceasefire lines in Jammu and Kashmir as an adventure in imperialism.

GOV'T SLOWDOWN?

Rising Costs May Hurt B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leaders of the opposition in the legislature said Tuesday a warning by Premier Bennett against financial excesses indicates he is concerned with the rising cost of government projects.

The premier said in a speech at Prince George Monday industry and government leaders must exercise restraint to guard against a recession.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said here the premier made his statement because some government projects are in trouble.

"The costs are ballooning beyond what he told the public and the last session of the legislature," he said.

"He has obviously been given some very sobering information on the effects of rising costs on government projects."

Mr. Perrault suggested the premier could be softening up the public for an announcement of a slowdown in government projects or a cost picture on the Peace River power project.

"Perhaps he is now aware that our dynamic society can be a dynamically expensive society," he said.

BIDS TOO HIGH

New Democrat leader Robert Strachan said the premier's statement indicates he is fearful of the consequences of government policy. Bids on provincial and local projects are too high, he said.

"These estimates are going to cost people millions in extra taxes paid for schools, roads and hospitals.

"The bid on the Mica Dam is $20,000,000 over estimates and that is just for preliminary work."

He said the premier has been successfully hiding much of the Peace project costs in other government accounts.

"Now he's afraid that when it comes time to sell the power the cost is going to be so high that the whole house of cards is going to come down," he said.

The premier told a meeting of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority directors and officials that "a recession builds on itself the same as prosperity.

"Business—private enterprise—must not look for every nickel of profit. Labor leaders, too.

'COULD BE CRASH'

"Unless a balance is kept there could be a crash again."

The premier's warning followed an earlier announcement by Prime Minister Pearson that federal construction projects would be cut back or delayed because of rising costs.

Mr. Bennett warned that if business and labor demand high profits and wages the public could refuse to meet their demands and unemployment and a recession might result.

He warned the public against going overboard on time-payment plans except in cases of "legitimate desires."

WARNING

He said he was issuing his warning after sizing up the situation in B.C., particularly the rising cost of construction.

Hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum has reported costs up 25 per cent. He said about 1,000 men working at the Portage Mountain dam get $5 and $6 every day for the time they spend riding to and from their jobs. The men are paid double time for everything over an eight-hour day.

"Wages are minor compared to the fringe benefits," he said.

John McNiven, assistant secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labour, said wage costs are only a small percentage of rising costs.

"I don't think construction unions are asking too much."

HOSPITAL PLEA IGNORED BY PREMIER

CHETWYND (CP)—Premier Bennett stayed in his railway car here Tuesday night while local residents pressed to see him about a hospital for the area.

A hospital committee said it had contacted the Premier through Stan Carnell, MLA for South Peace, but had received no reply.

The committee says there is only one trained first aid man in this northeastern B.C. community, although there are 700 children of school age.

The nearest hospital is at Dawson Creek, 65 miles away.

Statistics Back Boom Prediction

A monthly review by the provincial bureau of statistics released today showed early-year business activity reports back up Premier Bennett's prediction this year will see B.C.'s biggest boom.

"During May and June the provincial economy remained buoyant in most sectors with indications that 1965 will be a record year," the release from Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark's office said.

It reported that the average industrial weekly wage in May advanced to within two cents of $100, an increase of 5.6 per cent a year. Total labor income that month rose 14 per cent to $223 million. Unemployment fell to 3.7 per cent when the labor force rose by 24,000 persons who found work in July.

Island Crisis Ends; All Sign Peace Pact

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The Organization of American States won a full agreement today terminating the four-month Dominican crisis.

The peace formula ensured the installation of a provisional government Friday as a first step toward general elections in nine months.

Rebel leaders cheered the peace plan. Heads of the armed forces, taking over after the rival civilian - military junta stepped aside, pledged full support to the provisional government.

The peace proposal was signed first by the insurgent regime behind rebel lines Tuesday night. Then Dominican armed forces leaders, meeting at the headquarters of the junta, signed a declaration of support for the peace plan and the provisional government.

The agreement followed nearly three months of peace efforts by the three-man OAS political committee of ambassadors Ellsworth Bunker of the United States, Ramon de Clairmont Duenas of El Salvador and Ilmar Penna Marinho of Brazil.

WILL BECOME PRESIDENT

The formula calls on lawyer-diplomat Hector Garcia-Godoy, 44, to become president of the interim regime. He will be installed Friday.

His provisional government will negotiate withdrawal of the OAS peace force, composed of 9,000 U.S. and 2,000 Latin American troops, still patrolling the battle-scarred capital.

The peacekeeping troops took over after the initial U.S. intervention in the rebellion which erupted April 24 in an abortive effort to bring former president Juan D. Bosch back to power.

U.S. ADMITS SENDING APOLOGY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department today acknowledged that State Secretary Rusk had written a letter of apology to Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew for the "improper activities" of certain U.S. officials in Singapore.

Lee has said a bribe of 10,000,000 Malaysian dollars ($3,200,000) had been offered to him by the U.S. government to keep quiet about the arrest of an American Central Intelligence Agency official from Bangkok who sought to buy secret information in Singapore.

In confirming the Rusk letter, state department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said that a formal denial made Tuesday by the state department was in error.

McCloskey said that "those who were consulted within the government on this matter yesterday were not fully aware of the background of an incident that occurred 4½ years ago."

"The secretary did write a letter expressing this government's regret over the incident," McCloskey said.

McCloskey refused to discuss the subject or comment further.

In another press conference Tuesday Lee said that if the United States did not retract its denial of his original charge he would name the intermediary "who tried to bribe me."

'S. Viet Nam Not Ready For Talks'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times reports today that South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said his country was "not ready now" to begin peace negotiations.'

In a dispatch from Saigon, The Times quotes Ky, in an interview, as saying Tuesday that South Viet Nam would not begin negotiations until there were firm guarantees that North Vietnamese troops would leave his country and that U.S. troops would stay until Saigon asked them to leave.

Ky also told The Times his regime was not yet ready to face the expected threat of Communist political agitation after a negotiated cease-fire.

His regime could not face this threat until it has time to start overcoming what he called the many social and economic injustices in South Viet Nam, Ky indicated.

Ottawa Bids to Halt Strike at CN Hotels

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today a cabinet committee has been set up to deal with the question of payment of minimum wages of $1.25 an hour to employees of Canadian National Railways hotels.

The CNR has refused to apply the $1.25 wage minimum to its seven hotels, claiming it has no legal backing for its insistence the hotel chain does not come under federal law.

Employees of the Chateau Laurier here are threatening to begin a wildcat strike on Labor Day if the CNR does not apply the minimum, laid out in the new federal labor code, to end-of-August pay cheques.

Workers at other CNR hotels are reported ready to stage sympathy walkouts.

'WON'T HAVE PEARSON PLAN RAMMED DOWN OUR THROAT'

Strike Threat Hurled by Doctor

A thinly-veiled threat of a Saskatchewan-style doctors strike against the proposed national medicare program was hurled at the federal government Tuesday by a leading Victoria doctor.

In a public speech, Dr. G. Scott Wallace bitterly attacked Prime Minister Pearson's motives and universal medicare plan — using such terms as "bastard" and "complete abortion" to describe his view of the proposal.

"Although I represent no official body of the medical profession today, I can soberly and seriously warn all politicians — federal, provincial and any other kind—that doctors will not accept any particular medicare scheme as a fait accompli and then have it rammed down their throats," he said.

"If such stubborn and short-sighted attitude by government had not prevailed in Saskatchewan in 1962, the unfortunate impasse between doctors and government, with all its attendant bitterness and suffering to public, doctors and politicians alike, need never have arisen."

Dr. Wallace told the luncheon meeting of Victoria Kiwanis Club that "many of the opinions" he was expressing were entirely personal and he was not representing any organization.

(However, the Victoria Medical Association some time ago appointed him as one of two official spokesmen as far as press enquiries are concerned.)

Dr. Wallace said he and many doctors quarrel with the Pearson plan on two counts: That it will provide coverage for all persons even if they can afford to pay; and that the government had not asked the doctors to participate in planning the program.

"Doctors thus can be forgiven for harboring a deep distrust of federal politicians who appear, for political motives mainly, to be hell-bent to conceive a national medicare scheme, to supervise its confinement and delivery and then expect the doctors to rear and develop their child, even if this offspring proves to be a bastard.

"If delivered with the haste which has characterized recent announcements, their conception might even prove to be a complete abortion."

Dr. Wallace said he and many other doctors are opposed to the welfare-statism philosophy inherent in a compulsory medicare plan although they agree with the object of providing medical services to those who cannot afford it.

He said the federal government should care for those that cannot afford the costs and, in addition, should concentrate its spending on providing more and better training schools and facilities for doctors and nurses.

Dr. Wallace described the Outstanding Servant Takes College Post

OTTAWA (CP) — Norman Robertson, former undersecretary of state for external affairs and one of Canada's most experienced public servants, is resigning from the civil service, Prime Minister Pearson announced today.

Mr. Robertson, 61, will leave his current post as Canada's chief negotiator at the Geneva "Kennedy round" tariff conference Jan. 1 to become the first director of Carleton University's new graduate school of international affairs.

He will be replaced in Geneva by Sydney D. Pierce, now Canadian ambassador to Belgium and the European Economic Community.

Mr. Robertson will remain on the Canadian tariffs and trade committee as a part-time member, but will give up the committee chairmanship to vice-chairman Hector B. McKinnon. The committee acts as a liaison body between the Kennedy round negotiators and Canadian industry.

He also will be available to the external affairs department, again on a part-time basis, as a "special consultant."

Mr. Pearson added that, in his new post at Carleton, Mr. Robertson could make "a unique contribution . . . to Canadian life and thought."

Mr. Robertson, a native of Vancouver, joined the public service in 1929 after attending Oxford on a Rhodes scholarship. He began in the then-fledgling external affairs department as a third secretary one year after Mr. Pearson himself joined the department as a first secretary.

ROBERTSON
. . . part-time

Within 12 years, Mr. Robertson had risen to the top, serving from 1941 to 1946 as undersecretary of state for external affairs, the deputy minister's post in that department. He had a second term as undersecretary from 1958 to 1963 when he was named the country's chief Kennedy round negotiator.

In between, he served two terms—1946-49 and 1952-58—as Canadian high commissioner to London and a three-year stint in between those assignments as clerk of the privy council and secretary to the cabinet. In 1957 he served a brief term as ambassador to Washington.

EASILY RECOGNIZED

A tall, stoop-shouldered individual, easily recognizable with his black droopy-brimmed hat, Mr. Robertson has been one of the country's most influential public servants for the past 20 years. One senior civil servant recently credited him with originating "most of the good ideas which have come out of external, out even of Canadian governments, since the 1940s."

RETIRING today as Manitoba's lieutenant-governor, Errick F. Willis ended 40 years in public life. A lawyer, he began a political career in 1926, was sent to Ottawa as an MP in 1930. He became Manitoba Conservative leader in 1936. A native of Boissevain, in 1960 he became the first native-born lieutenant-governor. He is succeeded by Richard S. Bowles, 52, a Winnipeg lawyer.

Nematode-Infested Farms To Be Posted by Gov't

Signs will be posted in a few days marking areas infested with the golden nematode bug.

The man in charge of the anti-bug program, R. J. Mayers, said the signs will be placed at all known places of infestation.

Two weeks ago, the federal agriculture department said there were nine affected places.

Mr. Mayers said the signs will be one way of helping any spread of the bug by telling everyone where it is.

A quarantine has been imposed on the entire area south of the Malahat with severe restrictions on the movement of field crops.

TWO AREAS

The nematode so far has only been found in two areas of the Saanich Peninsula.

A technical expert is drafting regulations, H. C. Carmody, has been visiting the area to learn of local problems and help in drafting regulations that may be necessary.

Mr. Mayers said new regulations will have to be drafted as they are required if the situation changes.

"It is possible we may be able to relax the regulations depending on how the situation develops," he said.

A meeting of the Vancouver Island Nurserymen and Allied Trades Association Tuesday night was told no one knows how long the quarantine may last.

LONG TIME

"It's going to be with us for a long time," said association president R. A. Williams. "Nowhere in the world has a quarantine for golden nematodes ever been lifted."

He said the only way for growers to sell outside the quarantine area is to grow plants in such sterile material as peat.

B.C. Medical Plan as the "most enlightened approach to medicare in any province" because it was voluntary and was evolved on the basis of the medical profession's recommendations.

"I personally think that Mr. Bennett and his cabinet, along with the B.C. Medical Association, are due credit for this sensible, necessary and well-designed piece of legislation. Certainly several doctors sacrificed many practice and leisure hours to achieve its creation."

His praise for Premier Bennett sharply contrasted with his denunciation—in politically-flavored tones—of Prime Minister Pearson.

RIGHTS

"I repeat most forcibly that the profession feels it is its right and not merely a privilege, for it to be consulted at the highest level by government, through every phase of planning," he said.

"If Mr. Pearson continues to pull medicare rabbits out of the hat, mainly for political gain, and this without any prior consultation with the profession, it is likely the public can anticipate disagreements and disharmony between the profession and the federal government—the outcome of which no one can forsee.

"But let it be known, that although we doctors are a small and vulnerable minority, we will not be bullied or dictated to by the present political opportunists in Ottawa who, by their present behaviour in handing out state largesse on an ever-increasing scale, seem merely to be socialists in Liberals' clothing."

HULL, Que. — The exam-marking machine used by the Quebec department of education to mark papers of grade 11 students of the Outaouais regional school board has a perfect record.

Not one of the 7,000 papers was marked correctly.

Omer Plouffe, general director of schools, told the board Monday the electronic brain seemed to have "upped the low marks and decreased the high marks."

"This created some unusual situations," Mr. Plouffe said.

"For example, students of Pontiac County who normally have high marks in English received unusually low marks in that particular subject." In one case, a mark of 91 per cent had been reduced to 63.

Thirty teachers have studied the examinations and are to report to the board which already has corrected most of the errors.

Island Tug Planning Big Spending

By RON SUDLOW
Times Marine Reporter

Island Tug and Barge today announced it will spend about $2 million next year up-dating and adding equipment.

ITB operations manager Gordon Elworthy said most of the contracts will go to Victoria firms and shipyards.

During the past four years, Island Tug has spent between $1.5 and $2 million keeping pace with B.C.'s changing towboat industry.

Most of last year's money was poured into a $1.5 million self-loading and dumping log barge, the Island Yarder, re-engining of the tug Island Sovereign and construction of a new marine railway.

The Island Yarder is the largest barge of its type on the B.C. coast and the Sovereign is the most fully-automated tug in these waters.

MAIDEN VOYAGE

The Yarder made her maiden voyage last week under tow to the Sudbury picking up logs in Dean Channel near Ocean Falls and transporting them to Ladysmith.

The up-Island port is the dumping and sorting area for Mayo Lumber of Nanaimo.

The Yarder pleased company officials by picking up 2.4 million board feet of lumber on her first trip, running light-loaded.

She will eventually carry between 2.6 and 2.7 million board feet of lumber, depending on the size, shape and weight of the logs, Mr. Elworthy said.

He added ITB "intends to keep abreast of what industry requires to meet growing requirements in towing in the Pacific northwest.

"We are now able to get into more and more areas with new equipment," he said.

ITB planners have sent their ideas for new equipment to head offices in Vancouver and plans could be announced "anytime," Mr. Elworthy said.

HOME GARDEN
Look to Greenhouse For Growing Bonus

By HILDA BEASTALL

The arrival of autumn's fragrant tang reminds those of us who still have squirreling instincts to think of winter food.

Hilda

Unlike the squirrels however we should not forget where the store of goodies is hidden.

The unheated, or cold, greenhouse is a fine place to keep near-hardy food plants growing and producing longer than is usually possible in the open garden.

Some gardeners may like to use deep boxes of well rotted compost, with some coarse sand added for certain plants.

GROUND BED

Others may use one side (the sunniest should be chosen) for a ground bed, well dug and prepared with compost. The bench in the other half of the greenhouse would hold pots, flats, and seedboxes of other food plants.

A point easy to forget in summer, and even in early fall, is that the sun during the next six months will be lower in our southern sky, resulting in sunshine striking only the southern end of the greenhouse.

Unless there is glass to soil level, benches at 36 inches will be more satisfactory. Maximum sunlight is essential to the success of the project.

Clean glass, and ventilation on all but the coldest and windiest days, will be just as important. Vents and door can be closed in late afternoon to hold the day's warmth in the soil.

ADD AN HOUR

This ruse will often add more than an hour's time to the growing period of a winter day.

Here are a few ideas of what to grow; each gardener will have his own preferences, but be reasonably sure that what is chosen has a fair chance to succeed.

Lettuce seedlings, transplanted into the greenhouse bed or into deep flats; sow seed of radishes and onions for salads; plants of particularly well flavored mint; half a dozen clumps of chives; a couple of dozen green peas of an early variety; a few seed of American land cress; and a few spinach-beet seed, any or all of these, with a little luck, could turn the unused greenhouse into a place of winter interest and healthful profit.

'Opinion Polls Favoring NDP' In Federal Vote

The New Democratic Party will send back more members from B.C. than its present nine-man delegation if a federal election is held this fall, Robert Strachan predicted today.

The leader of the party's provincial wing said he based this on the results of "other people's public opinion polls" as revealed to him in confidence.

"We can't afford polls," he replied when asked what the NDP's own survey showed.

He said "dis-satisfaction with old-line parties" appeared to be the underlying reason for expectations that the NDP will increase its B.C. hold—already largest of any of the federal parties.

A weather disturbance is moving over the province from the north today. Its passage was marked by rain along the north coast and showers in the interior. Mandatory Breath Test Splits Bar

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyers of the Canadian Bar Association split Tuesday on whether the reading of a breath analysis machine should render a drinking driver guilty of a Criminal Code offence.

The association's annual convention heard considerable dissent from the association council's official stand that a reading of .08 parts of alcohol per 1,000 parts of blood be made unlawful under the federal legislation.

However, no action was being taken during a panel discussion. It could crop up at a business meeting later in the week-long session. The British Columbia section of the association opposes the council's policy, reached earlier this year, and has been reported ready to fight it.

Under the council proposal submitted to the justice department last April, it would not only be an offence for a driver to have a .08 reading but it would also be an offence to refuse to take the breath test.

Breath tests are voluntary in most parts of the country, though Saskatchewan and New Brunswick make them compulsory. However, there is no reading level for automatic conviction.

LEADS DISSENTERS

Patrick Hartt, a Toronto criminal lawyer, led the dissenters against the council stand. He said it would be a basic mistake to create crimes out of acts that most people think have no moral stigma attached to them.

Of the idea of making it an offence not to take the test, he commented:

"It would be a ludicrous situation if we prepared to send a man to jail because he won't blow into a balloon."

He and Thomas H. Montgomery of Montreal agreed that loss of a driver's licence should be enough deterrent without labelling him a criminal because of his breath reading.

John T. Weir of Toronto, Dominion vice-president of the association and its likely 1965-66 president, upheld the council recommendation. He said licences are taken away now for impaired driving but this did not appear to have any effect on the social habits of drivers.

"What we want to do is persuade a large section of the public to make new arrangements for transportation," he said.

FALL VOTE ILL-TIMED

Creditiste Ready To Fight Scandal

OTTAWA (CP) — Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said Tuesday a November federal election would be ill-timed, but his party was ready for an all-out campaign on scandal and economic issues.

"The people of Quebec don't want any more scandals or scandalous persons in politics," he said in a telephone interview from Val d'Or, Que., where he was launching a three-week fence-mending tour of his Villeneuve constituency.

Mr. Caouette said his party will have a lot to say during the next campaign about the Lucien Rivard-Raymond Denis affair; the corruption charges against former minister without portfolio Yvon Dupuis; union boss Hal Banks' escape from Canadian justice; the resignation of Guy Rouleau as a Liberal MP, and other "Liberal scandals."

Voters were "fed up" with both old parties and he was confident his Ralliement Creditiste would elect between 35 and 50 MPs, up from the present 13.

Mr. Caouette said Prime Minister Pearson would demonstrate "pure political opportunism" if he called an election before redistribution of seats can be completed next year.

His comments indicated he is raring to hit the campaign trail, after recovering from a bout with illness.

READY TO FIGHT

"Our party is the only one in Quebec that is ready to fight an election. Within 10 days after the election is called, we will nominate candidates in all 75 ridings in the province."

The next campaign will be Mr. Caouette's first as undisputed leader of his own party. He and his followers bolted from Social Credit ranks six months after the 1963 election after a series of policy clashes with Social Credit Leader Thompson.

His party's main issue, apart from attacks on corruption, would be Quebec's lag in economic growth.

About 40 per cent of Canada's unemployed were located in Quebec "for no logical reason."

Mr. Caouette, who will turn 48 Sept. 26, collapsed in his Commons office in June and was in hospital for about a week for treatment of his diabetic condition. He rarely spoke at the last session of Parliament, leaving debate chores to his House leader, Gilles Gregoire.

CHARGES he evaded paying income taxes on about $85,000 in earnings for the years 1958-63 have been filed against actor George Raft. He was indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury and faces arraignment Sept. 7 in Los Angeles.

BIG QUESTION IN ASIA

Is U.S. Effort Worth It?

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP)—The U.S. stance in this part of the world is being questioned by many American officials and some wonder if the tasks ahead are perhaps too big.

This is an over-all impression gained in a reporter's talks with American officials in India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Nepal and Ceylon during visits to each country.

Two major questions are being asked:

Is what the U.S. has been doing paying off?

If not, is there any sense in continuing?

In a sense South Asia could be regarded as one of America's biggest foreign policy expenses. More than $11,500,000,000 in economic and military aid has been poured into the five countries since 1951 in an ambitious effort to influence the lives of 622,000,000 Asians.

This followed an initial policy decision that the five strategically located nations and their huge populations simply could not be permitted to slide into the Communist orbit or disintegrate into economic and political chaos that might bring the same result.

AIM FOR ALLIANCE

Washington's first goal was to pull Pakistan and, hopefully, Afghanistan into U.S.-backed, anti-Communist military alliances, and somehow interest India in "joint defence" of the Indian sub-continent against neighboring Communist China ad the Soviet Union.

Afghanistan never did join. Pakistan is growing closer to China. India sees Pakistan, not Peking, as its major foe.

Constant bickering among the five nations made any joint defence a joke.

American diplomats then began talking about a policy to enable South Asians to "choose their own destiny." U.S. aid and protection were to keep the Communists away and build local economies, thus buying time for the democratic process to prosper.

The formula was healthy transfusions of dollars and hard-working American economists and technicians to illustrate the American way.

The wisdom of this immense undertaking and its chances for success are being doubted today by some of the men who must carry the policy forward.

American officials have seen $6,000,000,000 drop into the Indian crucible of over-population and underproduction. But India is far from the "take-off stage" and keeping the country from starving is a major economic problem today—as it was 14 years ago when the big U.S. effort started.

Untold billions will be required in the future and some American officials fear the single-handed salvation of an impoverished nation of 480,000,000 is too much.

Pakistan is South Asia's most discouraging example of how a massive (more than $5,000,000,000) American effort can run into the realities of Asian politics.

The United States is on the other side of the world but Communist China and the Soviet Union are next door. Pakistanis say they are going to settle up with their neighbors—U.S. aid or no aid.

In Afghanistan it is clear the Russians, just over the next mountain range, will have a big say about the country's future.

What, then, is U.S. policy toward this area? Is South Asia to be treated as a unit? Is Washington planning further huge expenditure in India?

The men on the spot say they don't know. They are waiting for President Johnson to tip his hand.

DRAFT CARD TEARING NOW FEDERAL CRIME

WASHINGTON (AP) — It now is a federal crime to tear up or mutilate a U.S. draft card. The punishment: Five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The new law, signed by President Johnson, grows out of the recent destruction of draft cards by some pacifists.

Bill to Precede Car Costs Cut?

WASHINGTON (CP)—A bill to authorize integration of the Canada-United States auto-and-parts industry passed easily through the House of Representatives Tuesday.

It now goes to the Senate finance committee with the time table not yet fixed.

Fears of go-it-alone Canadian alternatives — harmful to the U.S. — were cited as primary reasons for approval by major speakers from both Democratic and Republican parties. They cited Canada's initial scheme to boost her auto industry exports, launched in 1962, which gave qualifying exporters tariff cuts and which drew hot opposition from certain American parts makers.

The U.S. government held the view it would have to raise tariffs on Canadian exports and the situation produced a new agreement signed Jan. 16 by Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson.

The House voted 280 to 113—membership is 435—to pass the enabling legislation putting the American side of the agreement into effect.

ABOLISHES TARIFFS

The January agreement, which Canada implemented in a cabinet decree, abolishes North American tariffs on most motor vehicles and their new parts for the industry itself. Consumers, it is hoped, will get the benefit of lower prices later when production patterns have been reshaped in the two countries to produce savings.

The United Auto Workers' union, representing most employees in each country, has pressed hard for immediate price cuts in Canada where car buyers pay an average 17 per cent more. This higher cost is credited mainly to the smaller volume of production by Canadian plants — a situation which the agreement is intended to remedy by opening Canadian plants to the American market for selected models or parts.

President Johnson sent the bill to Congress March 31 and Tuesday's debate echoed most of the arguments raised late last April when it was examined for three days by the ways and means committee of the House of Representatives.

Sponsor Wilbur Mills, ways and means chairman, said Tuesday that the alternative to the agreement is to accept the possibility of retaliatory action by Canada which is determined to expand exports.

John Byrnes of Wisconsin, Republican senior on the committee, said in closing the debate that he holds the same view despite reservations.

Canada might react to defeat of the agreement by closing out American cars and parts.

Mills among others recorded statistics showing Canada had a trade deficit in autos and parts with the U.S. last year of more than $600,000,000 and Mills said this was just about the total Canadian deficit in its international dealings.

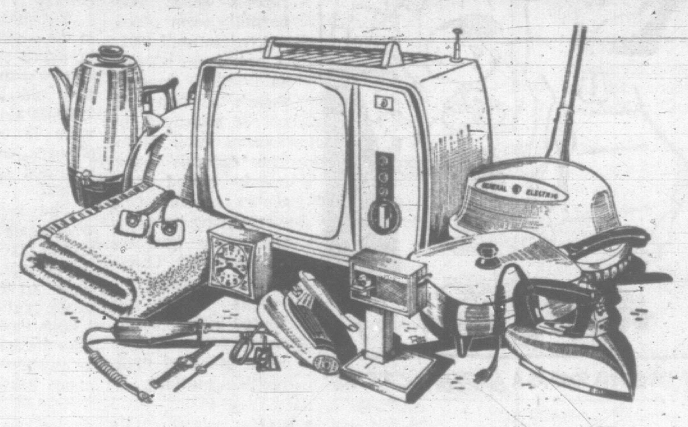

It was entirely possible that a trade war otherwise might result with "this very friendly ally."

But he was confident each country would benefit. He also noted that the four giant car makers—General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American motors—dominate the industry in each country.

The House defeated motions to make the bill open to amendment and—in effect—to kill it by sending it back to committee. The bill was favored by 209 Democrats and 54 Republicans. Opposed were 71 Democrats and 59 Republicans.

How Rich Are We Really?

THERE IS A PARALLEL TO BE drawn between Britain and Canada today. Both are being governed in a pre-election atmosphere, although the Canadian rumors will no doubt prove to be better founded than the British, despite Prime Minister Wilson's precarious parliamentary majority. Both, too, are faced with the problem of controlling economies which currently exhibit inflationary tendencies. The difference between them arises from the respective national measures to master the problem.

The British Labor government has initiated fairly drastic steps to curb the inflationary trend and the consequent decline of the value of the pound in world markets. Even though it meant a reversal of his previous stand, Mr. Wilson has slowed the economy with the intention of balancing Britain's purchases abroad and her ability to pay for them. This has had the unpleasant effects of reducing production, increasing unemployment, postponing public works programs and unsettling the stock market, although these manifestations have not yet reached serious proportions. The slow-down is by no means alarming — unemployment, for instance, remains at only 1.5 per cent of the labor force, which would be considered very low in Canada.

But the point is that Britain has recognized its trend and taken steps to control it. What of Canada? As a nation we appear to take little account of our dangerous course. We still insist on a standard of living which requires us to buy more than we sell abroad, with the result that the difference is made up in borrowing, or selling our resources and industrial plant to foreign investors.

Wages continue to climb, although not always accompanied by the increased productivity which would prevent inflation. And our attention as a nation is directed, not to ways in which we might retrench to some extent, but to plans for larger, better pension and health care programs.

It is true that the federal government has made tentative and minor moves in a deflationary direction. But can such measures in such a minor key be effective? Can they be proposed successfully in a country already slowly rousing to the election campaign tempo, with all its rosy promises and pay-later philosophy?

The example of Britain is before us. Can we afford to ignore it?

Multiplication Table

MEETING THIS WEEK IN BELgrade, the United Nations' World Population Conference has plenty of material for discussion. The most recent UN statistical estimates on population growth show a potentially explosive situation.

Between the years 1960 and 2000, the UN figures, the world population will have doubled to a total of more than six billion persons. The largest increase in population is expected to take place in South Asia, from 858 millions to 2.6 billions, and in East Asia, from 793 millions to 1.8 billions. The Latin American increase is expected to be most rapid with an annual rate of 2.8 per cent bringing the population up from 212 millions in 1960 to 756 millions by 2000. The African population is estimated at 860 millions by 2000 compared with only 273 millions in 1960.

In sharp contrast to the expected population booms in what are now generally economically undeveloped areas of the world, are the estimates for the developed areas. Europe, for instance, is expected to gain in population from 425 millions in 1960 to only 571 millions in 2000. The Soviet Union's population is expected to nearly double over the period but will still total only 402 millions by 2000. Similarly in North America, the population will be almost doubled, reaching 388 millions by 2000.

The problems which will be brought about by the heavier increases in undeveloped countries are formidable, and even frightening. They are not made any the less so by the fact that the potentially most explosive increase is expected to take place in Red China, a country not even represented at this week's conference in Belgrade.

Who Hears the Trumpet?

MR. DIEFENBAKER'S APPEAL to Conservatives to "close ranks and stop fighting within the party" is an indication of his expectation of an early general election. It is also an admission that there is widespread restlessness and doubt within the Conservation organization and even outright opposition to his leadership.

To say, as he does, that unity within the Conservative Party has been "sternly tested" is to put the case most diplomatically. The fact is that the party has moved from the outright rebellion of Conservative cabinet ministers two years ago to the present widespread lack of confidence and consequent reluctance to enter an election battle under the Diefenbaker banner.

Mr. Diefenbaker may well call for unity, but he is not likely to achieve it. And he must know that his continued clinging to the Conservative helm is one imporant factor in Mr. Pearson's assessment of Liberal chances in an election campaign.

COMPARING THE FIGURES — By JAMES GRAY

The Crime Record: Are We Really Worse?

IF there is one thing the wiseacres hereabouts are agreed upon it is that this country is in a moral tailspin headed for perdition. The radio preachers, leaning heavily on American statistics, deplore our preoccupation with sex, booze and criminality. Scarcely a day passes without rebukes to the public from sundry politicians, police chiefs, editorialists, letter writers and deplorers of trends. Well, I accidentally got to pawing over the record and made a flabbergasting discovery. Far from being an age of moral decadence, this is probably the saintliest era in Canadian history. We reek of righteousness and right living, and even the poor benighted juveniles, whom all professional moralists decry, are doing very much better than anyone would suspect, or has any right to expect.

The source for these statements is an old Canada Year Book, the 1939 issue to be exact. The years we compared, for no very good reason, were 1937 and 1961. The latter was the last available.

No Increase

Canada's population grew from 11,000,000 to 18,000,000 in those 24 years. Yet for all practical purposes, there was no increase in crime in that period. In 1937, 37,147 Canadians were convicted of indictable offences and in 1961 the total, excluding Newfoundland, was only 37,976. If we had maintained our 1937 rate of criminality, we would have been convicted of almost 60,000 indictable offences.

When the type of crimes we have been committing is compared, the year books have some startling facts to reveal. We live, allegedly, in a sex-mad age. Well in 1937 there were a total of 540 convictions for sex offences. In 1961 the figure reached 791. But this was only a jump of 42 per cent compared with the increase of 62 per cent in the population.

In another statistic there is an almost unbelievable drop. Convictions for keeping bawdy houses totalled 1,877 in 1937 and only 170 in 1961. A total of 2,674 convictions was registered in 1937 for gambling offences compared with only 552 in the most recent year.

Sexual Morality

Another yardstick of sexual morality is the illegitimacy table. Canada had an illegitimacy rate of 4 per cent in 1961 compared with 3.89 per cent in 1937, among the lowest in the world. There has been a rise in the rate in the prairie provinces, particularly since 1940. This is attributable almost entirely to the inclusion of Indian statistics. There has been a sharp increase in reported illegetimacy among Indians.

Though much concern is being expressed over crimes of violence, there has in fact been a substantial improvement proportionately. In 1937 there were 4,824 convictions for such crimes, compared with 5,583 in 1961. If crimes against persons had kept pace with the growth of population, the total would have been 7,800 convictions.

Burglary and robbery resulted in 4,600 convictions in 1937 compared with 7,860. This is one of the few categories in which there has been a proportionately greater record of convictions in 1961.

Indictable offences are not the whole story, of course. Summary convictions carrying much lighter penalties are also a measure of criminality. Here the physical changes that have taken place in society make the comparisons almost meaningless. Drunkenness and highway traffic offences have increased substantially, but the classifications of scores of other offences are no longer comparable.

Different Definition

When we come to the juveniles the comparisons, at first glance, give the modern youngsters the worst of it. For example, the crude total for delinquency convictions in 1937 was 7,716 for all offences compared with 15,215 in 1961. In proportion to growth in population, the 1961 figure would have been 12,474. However, the definition of juvenile has been changed in the interval.

In the earlier year, "juvenile" was strictly defined as under 16 years of age. Today some provinces count persons up to 18 as juveniles. The Canada Year Book, recognizing the problem, reports that 2,588 juveniles 16 and 17 years of age were included in 1961. If that figure is subtracted from the 15,215 total for 1961, the remainder is 12,627.

Now for the shocker! While the Canadian population increased by 62 per cent in the period, the juvenile population rose by almost 90 per cent. So if juvenile delinquency had kept pace with juvenile population growth, there should have been 14,760 convictions of juveniles under 16!

Radical Changes

None of the crude figures, however, takes any account of the radical changes 24 years have made in our society. The nation has been largely converted from a rural to an urban society. Our liquor laws have been liberalized everywhere. There are infinitely more things lying around to be stolen and infinitely more opportunities for young people to go astray.

Yet there has been very little change in the pattern of delinquency. Theft and breaking and entering still account for three-fourths of the juvenile offences, as they did in 1937. Among the almost 7,000,000 Canadian juveniles in 1961, there were 75 convictions for major sexual offences, compared with the 40 that were recorded among the 3,600,000 juveniles of 1937.

That increase turns out to be exactly what would have been expected with the rise in juvenile population had there been no change in Canadian mores. So it turns out that regardless of the blizzards of temptation that blow their way, temptations beyond anything any other Canadian generation ever faced, our juveniles as a class are doing little to merit the abuse being heaped upon them.

Looking Back

From The Times of Sept. 1, 1890:

Ottawa: Sir John Macdonald has decided to dissolve Parliament within a short time and appeal to the country for re-election, say reports here. The normal term does not expire until 1892. A prominent official said the government's position will not be improved by waiting until then. The Liberals have openly stated that next session they were going to open the whole question of extending Canadian commercial relations with the United States, which they have made the main plank of their political platform.

LONDON:

Election Pressures

By IVAN YATES

A general election in Britain this autumn is possible but unlikely. Certainly the Tory Opposition is eager to have one, which is hardly surprising since the evidence of opinion polls suggests they would win.

In any event, the Conservatives are getting ready to unveil the results of their policy thinking since their defeat last October. Mr. Edward Heath, the new leader, had been responsible for this side of the party's activity and he plans to use the Conservative conference in mid-October to launch both himself and the new policy.

The Labor government, despite its slender majority of three, temporarily reduced to two by the death of a back-bencher, is continuing its attempt to govern regardless. On September 16 it will publish its long-awaited National Plan. In one sense, this has been discounted in advance by all the argument about whether it is possible or even meaningful to plan the progress of the economy, industry by industry, from now until 1970.

But Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his colleagues, particularly Mr. George Brown, whose baby it is, are convinced that the enterprise is not only worthwhile in itself but will be a powerful instrument in giving a sense of purpose to the nation as well as, of course, a boost to their party's fortunes.

In September the government will publish its proposals for taking over land ripe for development, for reforming the leasehold system and for setting up an Ombudsman to hear the grievances of those who claim to suffer injustice at the hands of administrators and civil servants.

Mr. Wilson's chief headache is the need to assess the nature of the present stagnation in industry resulting from the Chancellor's cumulative measures designed to take the heat out of the economy and to reassure the country and his own supporters that Britain is not heading for a full-blown recession.

Seeming Confidence

The government seems to have a good deal of confidence in its ability to ride the storm and control the economy, but is worried about its failure to hold back the movement of wages and prices. Strictly speaking, it is no failure, the government has simply not tried to do so.

It has staked everything on its long-term policy in this field, trying to win sufficient confidence in its intentions by its social policies and taxation reforms in the last nine months, while it worked out the national plan and perfected its plans to raise productivity. Unfortunately, as so often, the short term has proved to be the enemy of the long term—partly, it must be said, because of the legacy left by the Conservative government in the shape of an $800 million deficit.

Mr. Wilson's ministry now has to decide whether it can afford to continue its present patient course, or whether the wage settlements, amounting to an average of nearly eight per cent so far this year, have been so great that some form of statutory control of wages and prices, or some temporary freeze on any increases may not be necessary.

There is a lively dispute going on at the moment on this issue, with the Treasury on the one side and Mr. Brown's Department of Economic Affairs—which is responsible for the plan and the incomes policy—on the other. It seems likely that the solution will depend not a little on the temper which is shown when the Trades Union Congress meets in a few days.

To the Editor

Peace Marchers

The peace marchers who have been protesting nuclear stockpiling at Comox deserve sober consideration. Their orderly actions publicize a step for Canada to take toward a saner world: forbidding these weapons to be stored in Canada. This policy would not appreciably weaken the deterrent strength of NATO or NORAD, which are not permanent solutions to the threat of war to begin with.

This policy would encourage efforts at non-proliferation of atomic weapons to more and more nations.

Presently our country seems two-faced: selling its nuclear products abroad for peaceful purposes only, but harboring at home the potential death of millions. Canada should not tolerate hypocrisy in the matter of human survival. The peace marchers point out the need for change. —R. F. Holland, Arts III, 1164 Greenwood Ave.

Why Does CNR Delay Dropping Its Uneconomic Passenger Services Despite Advice?

By Maurice Western, From Ottawa

ONE of my CNR friends, objecting to a recent suggestion on this page that the company's passenger policy directly contradicts the recommendations of the Macpherson report, has called my attention to the text of a speech by Mr. D. V. Gonder, vice-president of the Great Lakes region, delivered in Moncton on July 26. It is an interesting speech and, as Mr. Gonder was defending CNR management against precisely this accusation, the argument deserves to be placed on record.

Western

To refute suggestions that Canadian National is "out of tune" with the report, Mr. Gonder quotes long passages from the "authoritative and definitive work." He evidently relies, however, upon a few scattered words and phrases underlined in his text or otherwise emphasized. The effect is peculiar. The quotation begins:

"We conducted no independent study of the relative impact of competition on rail passenger operations, but sufficient evidence was brought before us to make it abundantly clear that the competition for passenger business from airlines, bus lines and private passenger cars has rendered the railway passenger business as a whole unprofitable and a burden which at present must be borne by the users of rail freight services . . ."

A very significant finding. But Mr. Gonder sees nothing here worth underlining. He completely omits the next sentence which reads (Vol. 1 page 45): "The competitive environment in the transportation industry has made it impracticable for the railways to continue to accept the great burden—dictated not by economic considerations but by social, political and traditional pressures—which is involved in the maintenance of rail passenger-train services." The CNR has, of course, been zealously tackling the "impracticable" ever since.

"Therefore, our conclusion is that the railways must eventually withdraw all uneconomic (underlined) rail passenger services, subject to similar time limitations imposed in connection with the abandonment of uneconomic plant. Immediate and abrupt withdrawal of rail passenger services, where they are unprofitable (phrase underline), would cause dislocations far outweighing the advantages to be gained . . ."

The inference, presumably is that the continuing services are economic—which the CNR has yet to prove. It speaks indeed of making them profitable by 1968 at earliest. As for the cautionary sentence about dislocations, Mr. Gonder again omits its immediate successor. "But the pressing necessity of relieving the railway freight shipper of inequities arising out of the competitive environment causes us to make immediate recommendations for the removal of the financial burden of maintaining uneconomic passenger service, with the necessary incentives to see that these services are withdrawn as rapidly as possible."

Why the pressing necessity of editing Mr. Macpherson's text? To continue: "The evidence we have gathered and the criteria we have developed for testing it indicate that the burden of passenger traffic is the most onerous of all those which have been left on the railway because of the legacy of traditional, social and national obligations. (No comment by Mr. Gonder.)

"It is our considered opinion that the recommendations we shall make regarding measures to lift the burden of passenger losses from the shoulders of rail users are necessary to bring about a reduction in the inequities we are commissioned to advise upon. (No comment by Mr. Gonder.)

"It is impossible to view the railway problem apart from railway operations in their entirety and we find that there is little social justification and less economic for the permanent provision of railway passenger services as we know them today. (Last 13 words underlined with comment: That was prior to 1961.) The public, by and large, has already indicated its preference for other modes of travel and, except in a few instances where no alternate form of overland travel exists, we look forward to the time when the railways will be supplying passenger services only in those areas where they find economic justification for them." (Last six words underlined.)

"The railways in the evidence they brought before us indicated that they regarded the provision of passenger services essentially as a matter of managerial discretion. In evidence, and in private consultation, officials of both transcontinental railway companies expressed their belief that the passenger problem could be brought within manageable proportions over a period of about five years. This is not a long period of time in the history of a nation and it might be argued that, under these circumstances, the railways be left to manage the problem alone.

"But we would point out that to those freight shippers already burdened with high freight rates and the possibility of increases in freight rates, five years may prove to be long enough to have serious consequences. It will, therefore, be our recommendation that the Government of Canada should, in the interests of the nation as a whole, absorb in declining measure for a period of five years this most substantial of all obligations now incumbent upon railway management. Unless remedial action (phrase underlined), attended by a change in public attitude, is introduced, a significant and inequitable burden will continue to rest upon the users of railway freight services."

Thus, while the commissioners were not prepared to instruct the railways in detail as to specific eliminations of services, neither did they accept the argument that the railways should be left "to manage the problem alone." They did not think that it could be met by dropping a few local lines. As they said (Page 57): "Uneconomic passenger services exist over the whole length and breadth of the nation, but with different degrees of intensity." Moreover, they were very specific in the "remedial action" proposed.

The recommendation was that the railways should be paid adjustment grants over a five-year period during which they were to eliminate their passenger deficits. They were to submit annual estimates of their passenger deficits, a point which the CNR appears to have overlooked. (We find in the annual report statistics on the number of passengers carried, on passenger revenues, percentage increases and so forth but not on what matters, the net gain or loss.)

These subsidies were to be on a declining scale so that no passenger subsidy whatever would be paid in 1966. For the CNR, they were to start at $40 millions and drop by $8 millions annually. In fact, the government made an interim arrangement and the first subsidy, covering more than the passenger deficit "related"—according to the railways—to the Macpherson recommendations, amounted to $27.9 millions.

The fourth (1964 payment was to have been $16 millions. Remarkably, it was $29 millions—over a million more than the starting subsidy. How is this to be explained?

According to a recent article in the Financial Times, the CNR incurred a $43 million passenger loss in 1963 "which has been held during the initial years of fare-cutting and which CN hopes to eliminate by raising traffic." But the Macpherson commission did not contemplate a holding operation.

Mr. Gonder maintains that the report did not say to railway pepole, "get out of the passenger business" and in any event prelated the CN's new fares, aggressive selling tactics and exciting statistics. The subsidies also preceded the new policy. Having accepted the subsidies, the CNR has apparently ignored the commissioners' views and instead embarked upon a course which they did not contemplate in a report described as "exhaustive" by Mr. Gonder.

It is utterly unconvincing to cite a few underlined words and phrases as evidence that CN policy is in tune with the Macpherson report. If the commissioners were wrong, Mr. Gonder would be better advised to say so and to offer the public a break-down, showing the net loss year by year and indicating the means by which the CNR is to dispense with its passenger subsidy in 1966 as the commissioners intended. This would be much more persuasive than the current effort to justify policy by standing Mr. Macpherson on his head.

African Girls Get 'Back to Nature' Call

Sandpaper Treatment for Ruby Lips

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

ZOMBA, Malawi — Figure-hugging skirts, tight sweaters and makeup can get an African girl into trouble these days.

Many black African countries, traditionally touchy about how their womenfolk appear in public, have declared war on some types of artificial glamor.

Hip-swinging African girls who try to imitate their white Western counterparts are coming under heavy fire, not only from their menfolk but also their governments.

"Back to nature," was the call from one government-controlled African newspaper, deploring the use of Western beauty aids.

African youths in the Malawi capital, Zomba, took the law into their own hands, scouring the city for sexily-dressed girls.

Tight-fitting dresses were ripped off. Lipstick-smeared mouths were scrubbed with sandpaper.

●

In neighboring Zambia, the government stepped in. Dozens of girls were brought before the country's ruling political party and warned that disciplinary action would be taken if they continued to use revealing dresses and makeup.

Tight jeans, short skirts, peeking petticoats and high-heeled shoes are definitely out, they were told.

Some Tanzanian males consider un-African all forms of artificial aids to beauty. Many a smarlty-dressed girl has been warned that Western beauty aids are a legacy of colonial days and undermine new-found African freedom.

Some of South Africa's more sophisticated girls spend hours in hair-straightening salons, but many are having second thoughts about whether it's all worthwhile.

Razor-wielding African youths shaved the locks of straight-haired girls recently.

Kenya is also up in arms. Many girls found themselves in jail when a roundup of sirens took place in Nairobi.

One African newspaper headlined the question: "Why do you girls use lipstick and powder? Are you ashamed of being African? Take it off."

TROUBLE FACES the African girl, right, who puts forward a western-styled glamor these days. Women are expected to preserve the native mode, left. MARINES RETRIEVE 'THE THING'

By JOHN G. NORRIS

WASHINGTON — U.S. Marines in Viet Nam are finding their Ontos multi-barrel anti-tank gun—an army cast-off—to be ideal for fighting the Viet Cong even though the Communist foe has no tanks.

Ontos has become well-nigh the indispensable weapon in Viet Nam, Marine officers say, employed in ways for which it was not designed. The self-propelled lightly armored vehicle can stay out of range of enemy small arms fire and blow concrete bunkers, pill-boxes and fortified huts to shambles.

"It's the greatest thing since sliced bread," commented one enthusiastic marine regimental commander just back from Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The army developed the weapon after the Second World War to fight tanks. It dubbed it Ontos—Greek for The Thing. When it was ready, army chiefs decided to scrap it. They decided the best anti-tank weapon was another tank, or a single recoiless rifle carried on a jeep or by infantrymen.

But the Marine Corps liked the army reject and bought it to fight tanks on a beachhead. Six 106-millimeter recoilless rifles are mounted on the 9½ ton tracked vehicle, each packing the wallop of an artillery shell. It can climb a 60 per cent grade, crawl over a 30-inch vertical obstacle and plow through two feet of water at its 30 miles-an-hour top speed.

★ ★ ★

One feature is a new ammunition-saving aiming device. The gunner of the three-man crew fires a .50 calibre spotting rifle, coupled by co-axial mount to the 106-millimeter firing tubes. When he hits the target, another pull of the trigger puts the artillery in the bulls-eye with pinpoint accuracy. Each marine regiment has 15 Ontos.

Army officials are watching the successful performance of the Ontos with interest but say they have no present intention of ordering any.

'The Old Man' Makes Way For 'The Chief'

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — Probably the most important result of John Diefenbaker's cautious pre-campaign flutter into French Canada has been its effect on Conservative Party morale outside Quebec.

Newman

What gives a leader his internal political leverage is the amount of control he can exercise over the party machine. The doers and shakers of his party must be willing to minimize their individual differences for the sake of maintaining hs leadership.

By demonstrating that he's still a great campaigner, Diefenbaker has provided Conservative workers in Ottawa and across the country with a badly needed psychological lift. The party is far from united behind him, but he has once again established his claim as "The Chief" and is no longer being dismissed cavalierly as "The Old Man."

Reconciliation

Already, the reconciliation process is under way. Several of Diefenbaker's former enemies in the party have been informally approached to stand with him, this one last time. And even hardheaded Conservatives are beginning to talk softly in sentences that begin, "if we win . . ."

Last week's journey into politically hostile Quebec displayed the sense of renewal sparked in the man from Prince Albert by his clamorous contact with "the people."

If his magic can so effectively penetrate the barriers of language and background, what's to stop him from becoming once again an irresistable political force in the rest of the country?

The answer may be that the voters will perceive the fact that the Diefenbaker of the platform in soaring rhetorical flight becomes an indecisive and timorous Diefenbaker when faced with the problems bewildering this nation.

The John Diefenbaker who is irresistible as a campaigner is demonstrably inept as a governor.

He is a politician who belongs to the era of the barricades but finds himself operating in the age of the bureaucrats.

It was this insoluble dichotomy which toppled the Conservative regime so soon after Diefenbaker gained his overwhelming parliamentary majority in 1958. In that great campaign, John Diefenbaker centred in himself the nation's power and hopes. But when his time for greatness came, he dissipated his mandate and the administration he headed never achieved any clear purpose, except to perpetuate its power.

Many of Diefenbaker's postures on public issues look far better in retrospect than they did at the time. His failure was not so much the curse of bad policies as an inability to carry on the ordinary functions of government.

Fashionable

It is now becoming fashionable in some sectors of the Canadian academic community to follow the thesis of George Grant's "Lament for a Nation," in which he blames Diefenbaker's defeat on the intervention of the U.S. state department and the influence of Canadian corporations controlled by American parent companies.

But as Prof. W. L. Morton, himself a leading conservative philosopher-historian has written, "the truth is that Diefenbaker was defeated by his own incompetence as prime minister. He was the most inadequate of Canadian prime ministers since Mackenzie Bowell." (Bowell who was prime minister from 1894 to 1896 was so ineffectual that the business of government virtually ground to a halt during his stewardship. He was forced to resign when half of his ministers left the cabinet in protest.)

John Diefenbaker's greatest challenge is to convince the opinion-makers of this country that he has changed, that he now believes in government as well as politics.

One difficulty he faces in such a massive conversion is the doubtful quality of his potential cabinet team. With the exception of Alvin Hamilton, most of his really able former ministers are either dead, out of politics or disillusioned with his leadership.

Still, the Conservatives' problems don't make the questionable ethics or shaky performance of the Pearson team look any better. The main question for the voters will be to decide which party is more capable of basic reforms.

International Hit for Canada

STOCKHOLM — A $250,000-movie series that Canadians paid for but won't see is getting rave notices here at the third United Nations' Crime Congress.

The six movies — in both English and French — have lots of four-letter words and sex references.

There is violence and brutality.

The Swedes want to buy or rent them.

U.S. Solicitor-General Thurgood Marshall is going to recommend them to President Lyndon Johnson.

And A. J. MacLeod, QC, Canadian Commissioner of Penitentiaries, and National Film Board producer Wally Hewitson are walking a few feet off the ground.

Guard Training

The movie series for the Department of Justice is one intended for the training of new prison guards.

It is unique in the world and was pushed through by MacLeod, at a federal cost of $250,000 and with considerable misgivings by some officials.

But from reaction here in the first overseas showing—there was only one other showing and that in Vancouver last month—the money was well spent and some of it could be recouped.

One movie runs almost an hour and the five others about a half hour.

Apart from a few professional actors, the rest of the cast are convicts. But the movies have a high professional quality.

The men agreed to have themselves appear on the understanding that the films would not be shown for public viewing, and that's why the average Canadian will not see them.

But they would make good television viewing any time as dramatized documentaries.

Each film has a story line, and there is background music for dramatic effect, but both MacLeod and Hewitson point out all incidents portrayed are based on fact.

The movies convey many moods. The clang of the gates shutting at Kingston Penitentiary have a chilling effect. Long shots of the walls and armed guard, and the tiers of cells with their open toilets, show the stark realization of man behind bars.

The movies were shot at Kingston and St. Vincent de Paul in Montreal. And in their showing Canada admits frankly that some of its institutions are not as up to date and modern as would be liked.

Shows Escape

One movie shows how an escape—again based on fact—was made, and how slipshod checking and the lack of routine procedural methods made it possible.

Another shows the different types of inmates a new guard will meet and work with—tough guys, manipulators, and the feeble and misfits that are to be found anywhere, anytime.

One scene shows a diversion made by prisoners while others crowd around to slash the throat of an informer. The series is stark, if not beautiful.

It is impressed on the penitentiary service recruits that prisons can be places full of hate and tension, with the two distinct factions—those incarcerated and those in charge—with no middle ground.

But the series does not convey a feeling of hopelessness in either the system or the men it confines.

The movie points out that guards, using the right approach and motives, can possibly help change a prisoner's attitude and increase his chances of rehabilitation hopes.

There was a special screening of one movie to the whole congress and it was received with acclaim. Some British penal experts also were highly impressed.

Another showing at the Canadian Embassy in Stockholm brought along Solicitor-General Marshall and a large delegation, with invited representatives from some other of the 80 nations at the congress.

First Mistake

Marshall watched one showing the early careers of three new guards. The movie shows how one is too strict, another too pliant, and how only one uses his authority well and commands prisoners respect.

"Oh no," said Marshall as he watched the weak man making his first mistake by taking a cigarette from a prisoner. The guard later is trapped into becoming a smuggler for the prisoners.

After the showing, the solicitor-general—the first Negro in the U.S. to attain a cabinet post—said he will recommend to the President that the U.S. obtain the films for training of its new guards.

U.S. Judge Luther Youngdahl, former governor of Minnesota, is a member of the president's 19-man National Crime Commission.

He said he will recommend to Johnson that the committee travel to Canada to view the movies, and that they be incorporated into the U.S. system.

The Swedes, who pride themselves on a progressive system of penology, also want them, and other countries are voicing interest.

And all this is sweet music to the Canadian delegation, particularly McLeod and Hewitson.

"We are trying to do something different and worthwhile and I think we have achieved it," said MacLeod.

MACLEOD
. . . sweet music

Hewitson, a 45-year-old British-born producer now living in Montreal, spent about 18 months in planning and filming.

Hewitson said the film making was a welcome diversion for the inmates.

"And there are a few of them that professional theatre could use," he said.

The Canadian Penitentiary Series will never win an Oscar, but it's winning acclaim.

'The Weaker Sex' And Its Balance of Power

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Modern woman has been lifted out of the obscurity of the ages and exalted to a position of unprecedented privilege and power. The destiny of the human race is largely in her hands; the weight of the future is largely on her shoulders.

Forbes

The man who expressed these ideas was sitting in an easy chair sipping after-dinner coffee. With him were men and women he knew well. They had talked together like this on many occasions.

Something had happened to women in the last 50 years, he insisted. Something full of destiny and danger.

To prove his point he quoted Will Durant, the American philosopher: "When the historian of the future looks back across the period which we call the modern age to evaluate the many revolutionary changes which have come to pass within it, he will set forth as one of the most important and far-reaching of all, the change that has come to pass in the status and position of women."

★ ★ ★

This after-dinner host dipped into ancient history to show how women had for centuries been "subject to the will of their masters."

"She was not a person," he reminded us. "She could not call her soul her own. She belonged to somebody. She was subject to the will of another. She was held under bondage."

At this point his wife said softly: "In some parts of the world womankind is in that condition still."

"Ah-h-h-h!" said her husband. "But the majority of women have been emancipated, exalted, and given new freedom. You can't deny that."

Talk became general as everyone tried to pinpoint the different ways in which women hav been emancipated.

Education came first, of course. Modern woman goes to school and college. We are so accustomed to this that it's hard to realize there was a time when she did not enjoy this privilege.

Only a little over 100 years ago half the women, even in the Western world, could not read or write. They signed the marriage register with an "X." Our British forefathers gave us the Magna Charta, yet British freedom did not include the right of women to share in education.

Politically, the modern woman has been emancipated. She goes to the polls. She has a voice and a vote. She can hold public office in her own right.

It was only in 1918 that women were given the vote in Britain and in 1920 that they received it in North America.

From a legal standpoint women have been emancipated. A little over 100 years ago a woman couldn't sue anybody, couldn't own anything, couldn't even inherit anything.

Everything she had naturally and automatically belonged to her husband and father.

"Don't forget that we've been emancipated economically," said the hostess as she refilled the coffee cups.

"That's right," said a businessman. "Insurance companies tell us that more than half the wealth of the nation is owned today by women."

He put his cup down and started to tick off some points on his fingers.

"They buy and sell real estate, diddle about with stocks, and they've got healthy savings accounts.

"They are responsible for at least three-fourths of the money spent on consumer goods and their collective holdings amount to billions of dollars."

"Modern woman has come of age vocationally too," said another voice.

★ ★ ★

"She not only goes to college, goes to the polls, goes to the bank to cash her own cheque and her husband's, she also goes to work."

She is free now to express herself in many forms of work, it was suggested. A century ago less than 20 occupations outside the home were open to women. Today there are hundreds.

"Modern woman enjoys a degree of freedom and opportunity unique in the annals of human society," said the host. "Now comes the great question. What is she going to do with this freedom?"

There was complete silence.

He stirred his coffee contemplatively.

"Women have always served as the conscience of the race," he said. "They, more than men, are aware of the ultimate objectives of life, its decencies, its enduring values, its meaning and purpose. By what women stands for and how they speak, the soul of the human race lives or dies.

"Today women hold the balance of power to an extent greater by far than they realize. Do you wonder then that I say the weight of the future is largely on their shoulders?"

THE GALLUP POLL

Compulsory French

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

There is an ever-growing school of thought in Canada that the French language should be a compulsory subject, like reading, writing and arithmetic, in all grades of our public schools.

In 1943, when a survey on this subject was first done by the Gallup Poll, only 36% said French should be compulsory in all public schools. Today 64% feel this way.

Naturally enough an overwhelming majority of Canada's French population (more than 9 in 10) are in favor of compulsory French language instruction in English-Canada.

This French-Canadian average of 91% in favor of compulsory French is considerably reduced by attitudes in the western provinces where only 35% want to see compulsory French in their schools and 63% are against it.

In the Maritimes and Quebec together, more than 8 in 10 are in favor of compulsory French in all Canadian public schools.

The question: "Do you or do you not think French should be a compulsory subject, like reading, writing, arithmetic, in all grades of public schools in English-speaking Canada?"

ROWDYISM MUST STOP

REGATTA BOYCOTT THREATENED

Yacht Club Calls in Judo Experts

MAPLE BAY—Judo experts and a German Shepherd dog will patrol the yacht club grounds here for the Labor Day regatta.

The special security patrol has been called in by club commodore Alan Stewart.

His unprecedented action follows a threat by Vancouver and Seattle Yacht Clubs to boycott the annual affair.

Their move to strike the event from the official calendar came as a result of rowdyism on club premises in previous years.

Last year one man almost drowned and there was a knifing incident.

In a bid to clean up the event, Mr. Taylor has called off the traditional evening dance.

It was here that most of the unruly behavior took place.

Although officially open to members only, the dance attracted fun-seeking youths from Duncan and neighboring areas.

Said Mr. Taylor: "We have been slack in keeping discipline in the club.

"Things were done which did not please our visitors.

"This year we are going to be absolutely insistent no member of the general public is allowed on club property."

His plan to call in judo experts from Duncan Judo Club, and a patrol dog, were announced in a Maple Bay Club bulletin put out Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Stewart said today: "If the public wants to watch and enjoy the regatta from other vantage points, fine. But we are not a public club."

Last year the regatta attracted 250 power and sail boats.

Present indications are there will probably be more this year.

Vancouver and Seattle have agreed to attend with the new restrictions in force.

Said club member W. Bradshaw Harrison: "When an event gets as big as the Maple Bay regatta has done, it needs patrolling.

"The club should have foreseen this and surely from some 700 members find enough to undertake such a patrol on Labor Day.

"I blame the club for some of the past trouble.

"When there are so many people about, and so much liquor, some control should be exercised."

The regatta is the second largest on the Pacific Coast.

SIDNEY RATEPAYERS UPSET

No-Confidence Voted In Depleted Council

By HUMPHREY DAVY

Sidney Ratepayers Association has lost confidence in the three remaining village commissioners.

A meeting Tuesday night attended by 65 persons voted 3 to 1 for a no-confidence motion.

It was directed at Douglas Taylor, acting village chairman, and commissioners Andries Boas and L. R. Christian—remaining members of the five-man council.

Former chairman A. A. Cormack and F. S. B. Heward resigned last week when the three commissioners approved a $225,000 road referendum without first submitting it to the public works committee.

ELECTION SOON

Byelection for a village chairman and a commissioner will be held between Sept. 29 and Oct. 9, a village official said.

The ratepayers also voted against holding the road building referendum until the public has been given details.

Most members felt the whole village commission should have resigned.

"What's the use of anyone running in the byelections," said a ratepayer. "We will have the same feuding as before. They should all be asked to resign."

Lt. Col. J. H. Laroque, president, said the association could not ask for this.

"They were elected by the people and it is their privilege to resign or stay on," he said.

However, he accepted a motion that a letter be sent to the three commissioners, saying the association had lost confidence in their ability to discharge their duties satisfactorily.

SHOULD HAVE STAYED

One ratepayer felt that Mr. Cormack and Mr. Heward should not have resigned until the end of the year.

"I agree," said Col. Laroque, "but there is a limit to what men can stand."

Joseph Mitchell, who resigned from council earlier this year for similar reasons as Mr. Cormack and Mr. Heward, said:

"Regardless of what the issue was it was always a vote of three against two," he said.

FIVE-MILL INCREASE

He said the showdown came when commissioner Andries Boas brought down a budget which would have meant a five-mill tax increase.

"I opposed it," said Mr. Mitchell. "Mr. Boas said the people of Sidney were stinking rich and could stand that."

The day after his resignation, he said, council reduced the increase to one mill.

Ratepayers strongly criticized council for approving a road building referendum without first making details known to the public.

But the program was strongly supported by Thomas Aiers, a former commissioner who served on council between 1957 and 1960.

'BADLY NEEDED'

"We should support the referendum," he said. "Our roads are badly in need of improvements."

He charged that for a number of years council has been accumulating surpluses.

He estimated that the village would have a surplus of $105,000 this year.

"This is not a good policy," he said. "It's your money."

"Then why borrow $225,000 for roads if we have such a surplus," shouted a ratepayer. "Let's spend that instead."

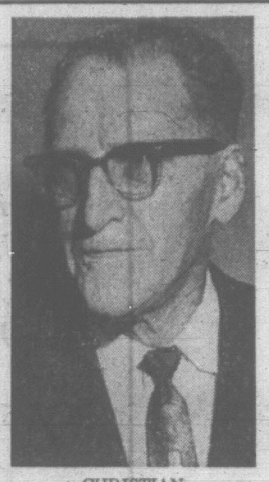

WRONG SLANT

Mr. Mitchell said Mr. Aiers was not giving a true picture of the surpluses.

"The surplus is used to pay employees their wages and to carry on certain public works until we received government grants in June," he said. "If council did not do that it would have to borrow the money."

L. A. Christian, the only commissioner at the meeting, said members were unfair in criticizing the present council.

"You will be given all the facts," he said. "But it is a waste of time saying anything here."

2nd Trustee Resigns

SOOKE—School trustee Percy Buttrum Tuesday submitted his resignation.

Mr. Buttram disqualified himself from holding office when he moved from the district and sold his property.

A member of the board for less than a year, he is the second trustee to resign in the past two months.

Trustee Fred Boulter left in protest over allaged harassment of school boards by municipal and provincial politicians.

The board will ask the municipal affairs department if it can defer election of two new members until the December elections.

Businessmen Protest Liquor Store Shift

DUNCAN — A group of city businessmen will protest to city council the proposed moving of the liquor store from downtown to the Trans-Canada Highway.

Norman Gourlay will lead a delegation of downtown merchants. He will submit a 72-name petition.

The Liquor Control Board is considering locating its Duncan outlet in a proposed new shopping complex at the intersection of Trunk Road and the highway.

Besides petitioning council, the downtown merchants have sent copies of the petition to the LCB, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black and Works Minister W. N. Chant.

Mr. Gourlay said Tuesday the only acknowledgment so far received was from the Liquor Control Board.

The protest will be considered at the next board meeting.

City clerk Gordon Berry said council only had power to make a recommendation to the LCB.

Meantime council has referred the proposal to its advisory planning commission "for study and recommendation."

The commission meets Thursday and council does not meet again until Sept. 13.

Mr. Gourlay said Tuesday: "Most of the city's revenue comes from the downtown section and if council does not look after it the downtown will become a distressed area."

He said the merchants were not trying to fool anyone.

They wanted the liquor store to remain in the downtown area because it was a good drawing attraction for business generally.

CAR VICTIM HAD GLASSES IN HER PURSE

PARKSVILLE — A woman who died in a traffic accident here Aug. 1 had been told to wear glasses at all times, a coroner's jury learned Monday night.

Eye specialist Dr. E. E. McKerricher told the inquest Mrs. Lucia Cianflone, 85, had diminishing vision due to cataracts.

Her glasses were found in her handbag after the mishap.

The jury attached no blame to drivers John William MacLuskie and John Gregg Young, whose vehicles struck her in the downtown area about 10 p.m.

Both drivers are from the Nanaimo area.

Mrs. Cianflone died of a fractured skull, the jury ruled. It also recommended more crosswalks for the accident scene and pedestrians carry flashlights while walking at night.

SHARP DISAGREEMENT

Synod Debates Divorce Stand

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP) — The strict canons against remarriage of divorced Anglicans may be changed tonight by the church's reform-bent general synod.

This 22nd council of bishops, clergy and leading laymen has already taken a step toward union with the United Church and slimmed down its executive bodies for faster action and better planning.

These decisions were close to unanimous. Disagreement is guaranteed in tonight's debate.

A commission of the church proposes a vast revision and enlargement of ecclesiastical canons on marriage, not only making possible the remarriage of a person divorced, but making provision for marriage counselling and for attempts to save marriages in danger of failure. The proposals would establish a tribunal to weigh elaborate applications for remarriage.

The diocese of Toronto, believing these proposals are too cumbersome, sets out a much simpler system. It gives a bishop or ecclesiastical court authority to declare that a previous marriage had no sacramental validity in the church's eyes.

This declaration would permit remarriage.

OFFER THIRD PROPOSAL

A third proposal comes from church lawyers, who would make the decision of civil courts the basis of the church's decision on remarriage. A person found guilty of adultery in the court's ruling would not be allowed to remarry in the Anglican church.

This judgment of guilt in the previous marriage is expected to doom the proposal to defeat.

The church's deep division on remarriage turns up in the membership of the commission that formulated the canonical revisions.

The majority of members believe the best way to uphold the Christian doctrine of lifelong marriage is to carefully define exceptions to the rule prohibiting remarriage during the lifetime of a former partner.

This majority interprets New Testament teaching as saying that marriage ought not to be dissolved other than by death, although it may be terminated otherwise under certain conditions. The key words are "ought not."

The minority group says the bond of marriage cannot be dissolved by any human authority. The key word is "cannot." The group believes the marriage bond is best upheld by recognizing no exceptions.

The synod took time out Tuesday to absorb the provocative words of Mollie Batten, one of the church's prominent teachers and insistent critics.

Miss Batten, pipe - smoking principal of William Temple College at Rugby, England, said the church must barge into the world to meet both a crisis of communication and a crisis of Christian belief.

It must not resign itself to providing an ark of safety and refuge for people who cannot succeed amid society's conflicts, she said.

She also advocated fewer church clubs and organizations.

"Why should men get together and be churchmen so much? . . . Why couldn't you get together as people and be the church? People do it, you know, in golf. We have pubs in England. Get together as people—not as men and women—in purposeful gatherings. I would think it would be more exciting."

Miss Batten said at a press conference Tuesday she smokes her pipe only in private, and then to cut down on the number of cigarettes.

Inadequate Income For Clergy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Income of clergy in the Anglican Church of Canada has been termed "far from adequate" by a report presented to the general synod of the church.

The report said the annual stipend ranges from $2,950 to $3,800 with an average of $3,188.

When free house utilities and other benefits are taken into consideration the report said a clergyman's stipend of $3,000 is equal to a layman's income of about $5,400.

Investigators asked the Bank of Canada for a chart of relative values which showed that an increase in consumer prices made minimum stipends far from adequate.

"Most of the clergy in the Canadian church have a difficult time to be free from world anxieties so as to devote themselves wholly to the preaching of the gospel," the report said.

Barbs Hurled At Penal, Legal System

MONTREAL (CP)—A psychiatrist and a magistrate hurled barbed shafts at Canada's legal and penal systems Tuesday during the second day of the international criminological congress here.

Dr. Ronald Edward Stokes, a Toronto psychiatrist, said certain potential killers are free to walk the country's streets. Magistrate E. W. Kenrick of Haileybury, Ont., called the prison system a failure.

Magistrate Kenrick said in an interview that it is "obvious that our whole prison system has failed and that there are far too many people in our jails."

Dr. Stokes, assistant director of the forensic clinic of the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, said borderline homicidal cases can roam about free as there are no institutions to put them in, and no legal methods to force them to accept extended treatment if there were.

Magistrate Kenrick said recommendations of the Archambault (1938) and Fauteux (1935) royal commissions on Canada's penal system have not yet been fully implemented and that "I feel like a surgeon with a poised scalpel every time I hand down a sentence."

Pre - sentencing and clinical reports on accused persons were essential "because one fast decision, like that of a surgeon holding a scalpel, can actually mean a person's life.

"We are powerless and frustrated because we cannot fully implement the enlightened suggestions contained in those reports. If we don't improve our sentencing techniques we are going to kill a lot of patients.

"The only way we can reduce our jail population is to better define our sentencing techniques by providing better pre-sentencing information."

'MAJORITY INTERESTED' IN FORD CRUSA DE

Few Brush-Offs, No Hostility for Blitzers

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Church Editor

Is Victoria indifferent to the Leighton Ford Crusade?

This has been suggested in some quarters, but many of the 800 men and women who are conducting a door-to-door canvass of homes in the Greater Victoria area say the response is encouraging.

The canvass, styled Invitation Blitz, is to get as many people as possible to attend the two-week evangelistic crusade opening in the Memorial Arena Sunday at 3 p.m.

It is being carried out by members of 51 Victoria churches who are supporting the crusade.

"The majority are interested," said Duncan Henderson, a deacon of First Baptist Church, who has distributed more than 2,000 leaflets in the Fairfield and Oak Bay area since Sunday.

"In a few cases I have been brushed off by people who say frankly they are not interested in religion. Many admit they do not attend church but would like to hear Dr. Leighton Ford.

"Some say they already belong to a church but are not interested in crusades because they think they are emotional rather than spiritual. We try to persuade them there is a need for organized evangelism outside the church."

Mr. Henderson said one woman told him she was a lifelong Roman Catholic but intended to support the crusade because it was aimed at many people who have no religious life.

"There is a great need for missionary enterprise outside the church," she said.

Rev. F. R. Fleming, minister of the Assembly of God Pentecostal Church, 9182 East Saanich Road, is canvassing homes in the Sidney area.

"About 80 per cent of the people I've met are genuinely interested," he said. "I have met with no hostility but some try to brush you off by saying they are not interested.

"A great many have been impressed by the TV broadcasts of crusade meetings conducted by Dr. Billy Graham and Dr. Ford."

A spokesman at crusade headquarters said the majority of callers have had a friendly reception.

"We expect a capacity crowd at Sunday's opening rally in the Arena, with a choir of more than 1,000 voices."

BUSY FALL SEEN FOR YARROWS

September was going to be a busy month anyway for work crews at Yarrows Shipyards.

But during the last 10 days last month the firm has picked up two more short-term contracts—one for repairs and another for adjustments — valued at $130,000.

Monday Yarrows outbid Victoria Machinery Depot for repairs to the Philippine freighter Don Ramon.

Her hull was slashed open 270 feet along the starboard side when she collided with the loaded Greek freighter Diamantis Gafos in dense fog Wednesday off Beechey Head.

Between 80 and 100 men working two shifts will try to complete the job by Sept. 15, Yarrows' general manager John Wallace said today.

Cost of the repairs will be $110,000.

Another job due for completion in mid-September is the installation of bilge keels to correct rocking in heavy seas of the marine physics research ship Endeavour.

The $20,000 contract was announced last week by the navy.

Mr. Wallace said today he hoped the extra work would not affect the yard's production schedule.

Nearly ready to slide down the ways is the 140-foot tug Gibraltar Straits, largest towboat ever constructed on the B.C. coast.

She will be launched Sept. 28 by Mrs. Frank Brown, wife of one of the directors of Straits Towing Ltd. of Vancouver.

The $1.3 million vessel is a beamy 34 feet and her twin screws will be powered by 3,800-hp. engines.

Construction of the towboat was designed to go hand-in-hand with the launching earlier this year of the 10,000-ton self-loading and dumping log barge, Straits Logger.

The big tugs and huge barges, which can carry about 2.5 million board fet of lumber, will ensure sawmills year-round production, regardless of weather conditions.

Also nearing completion is the first of two $1.6 million newsprint barges under construction for MacMillan-Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

Each of the 356-foot barges will have a capacity of 6,500 tons of newsprint and their cargo houses will provide open cargo space equal to the length of a football field.

They will have an 82-foot beam and will be of all-steel construction as is the Gibraltar Straits.

Loading will be done through four side doors which open on to a floor area of 23,000 square feet.

First is due to go into operation in October to transport newsprint from Powell River 1,200 miles to Long Beach and San Francisco, Calif.

Sales Tax Revenues Ahead of Last Year

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal government sales tax revenues are running ahead of last year at more than four times the speed of general revenues.

If the pace keeps up for the balance of the fiscal year, running to next March 31, it seems clear that the buoyancy of the economy will push revenues ahead of Finance Minister Gordon's April 26 budget forecasts.

Sales tax collections normally run high at mid-summer and towards the end of the calendar year.

But in the first four months of the current fiscal year—April, May, June and July—they amounted to $573,700,000 in the same period of the 1964-65 fiscal year.

Part of this increase reflects the imposition Jan. 1 of the final three percentage points of the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials and production machinery.

Three percenta e points of the sales tax are earmarked for the old age security fund, from which old age pensions of $75 a month are paid to everyone 70 and older. These collections for this fiscal year, to the end of last month, ran to $156,800,000, compared with last year's comparable figure of $120,300,000.

COLLECTIONS AHEAD

Sales tax collections, on both normal budget account and for the old age security fund, are running 16 per cent ahead of 1964-65 figures, while total tax revenues on both accounts, amounting to $2,838,000,000 at the end of July, are up 3.6 per cent on the year.

In the normal budgetary revenues, sales tax collections amounted to $416,400,000 in the four-month period, up 11.2 per cent. Finance Minister Gordon forecast in his budget speech that for the whole fiscal year, these collections would run to $1,300,000,000, up about nine per cent from 1964-65's $1,193,000,000.

The federal sales tax is, in effect, a manufacturer's sales tax. It applies to all goods manufactured or produced in Canada or imported into Canada with a few exceptions, most essential foodstuffs, fuels and electricity, and many materials going into manufactured goods.

Building materials and production machinery were exempt until June 14, 1963, when Mr. Gordon announced the imposition of the 11 per cent rate on them. Later, he announced the tax would be imposed gradually, first at four per cent until March 31, 1964, and then at eight per cent until the start of this year.

Longest Runway

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—Prime Minister Tengku Abdul Rahman today opened Kuala Lumpur International Airport, which is believed to have the longest runway in Asia.

The runway at the $17 million airport is 11,400 feet long. Rahman called the new airport "a great step forward in the economic development of Malaysia."

Bankruptcy Act To Be Tightened At Next Session

TORONTO (CP)—Justice Minister Cardin said today the federal government has plans to tighten the operation of the Bankruptcy Act.

Mr. Cardin, addressing the annual convention of the Canadian Bar Association, said in his speech that a revision of the act will be undertaken shortly.

Later he told reporters that the general revision — which might take a year or more to get ready for Parliament—would be preceded by about five amendments to the act, having the major aim of giving trustees more power in getting information from those engaged in bankruptcy proceedings.

He expected they would be ready for the next session of Parliament.

MINE SUSPENDS WORK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Copper Ridge Mines Ltd. announced Tuesday it has suspended exploration work on its Peacock copper property near Cuprum, Idaho.

Rumors of the work stoppage started a wave of selling on the Vancouver Stock Exchange Tuesday morning as the company's stock dropped 28 cents in the first hour to 38 cents before rallying to 44 cents.

Earlier this year the stock hit a record high of $1.43. On Friday it was selling for 79 cents a share.

Copper Ridge bought the Peacock property in March 1964, from Jay Bettles of Council, Idaho. Payments for the property are still being made to Bettles and one of $22,000 falls due today.

Copper Ridge president Lee Bennett said the payment will be made because the company must give Bettles 60 days notice.

He said engineer L. G. White recommended suspension of work on the property.

He said Copper Ridge has about $300,000 in the treasury.

Contract Awarded By B.C. Hydro

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Hydro and Power Authority announced Tuesday that Delle of France, represented by Federal Pacific Electric of Canada, has been awarded an $844,588 contract to supply major transmission line electrical equipment for the Peace River project.

Federal Deficit Hits New Low

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's 1964 - 65 deficit, originally forecast nearly 18 months ago as running to $455,000,000, has finally been reported at exactly $37,964,765.

Finance Minister Gordon reported Tuesday night another $44,000,000 swelled the government's coffers at the end of the fiscal year, just before the books closed March 31.

He released a treasury statement Tuesday with final figures for the 1964-65 fiscal year, showing revenues of $7,180,309,787 and expenditures amounting to $7,218,274,552.

Mr. Gordon also made public a statement of the government's assets and liabilities as of March 31, 1965, showing a net debt of $15,504,472,544.

'Meet Rioters With Firmness'

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — After using horse-whips and drawn swords to quell a weekend teen-age riot, police here today prepared to use new tactics—"calmness and firmness"—to deal with future outbreaks.

Stockholm Police Chief Nels Luning, announcing the new strategy, said:

"We will meet the ringleaders and their followers with ice-cold nerves, taking little or no action so that any attempts to riot will fizzle out of their own accord."

Tuesday night police with dogs quickly stopped a threatening riot after several hundred youths had blocked traffic.

It was the third night in a row in which teen-agers both here and in the Norwegian capital of Oslo had rioted.

Oslo police said they thought the worst was over, after they threatened to deny driving licences and passports to anyone arrested in the riots.

Meanwhile social workers and youth experts tried to pinpoint causes of the unrest.

HIT AT CONFORMITY

Dr. Gustave Jonsson, well-known Stockholm psychiatrist, said the behavior was protest against middle-class conformity. "They are proud of the sensation they have caused in the press," he said.

Others said the dullness of the welfare state lay near the root of the problem.

In Oslo, Prof. Anders Bratholm, a legal expert, said:

"Teen-agers of today find themselves in a growing attitude of protest against their parents. This attitude is transferred to authorities in general."

In both Scandinavian capitals, about 100 long-haired boys and girls in their early or late teens have been arrested. Dozens have been injured.

One of the rioters, a 14-year-old girl, asked:

"The Greeks had long hair, so why shouldn't we? It is a free country so why can't we choose our own way of life without grownups interfering?"

A 17-year-old Norwegian boy said:

"Why should I be nice-looking. I want to be different from those angel - like conventional figures."

Peaceniks Awarded Grant by 'Company'

OTTAWA (CP)—The embryo Company of Young Canadians has stepped into the breach to aid a student group whose plea for financial assistance was rejected by another government agency.

Working through the Privy Council office, the company has provided $4,000 to the Student Union for Peace Action (SUPA) to finance a week-long conference at which SUPA members will assess results of their voluntary community development work during the summer months.

The student group is the one whose members picketed the late Adlai Stevenson in Toronto and staged sit-down demonstrations at the U.S. consulate in Toronto and the RCAF nuclear bases at La Macaza, Que., and Comox, about 140 miles north of Victoria.

In return for the $4,000, the company will receive a detailed report on SUPA's findings which, CYC officials say, will help the government-sponsored peace corps agency in planning its own operations.

Company secretary Duncan Edmonds arranged the financial aid in the form of a "contract" between SUPA and the Privy Council office after SUPA's request for a $10,000 grant was rejected by the centennial commission.

The commission decision brought charges from some SUPA spokesmen that their group was being blacklisted because of its political activities in protesting against Canadian possession of nuclear weapons, United States racial problems and U.S. and Canadian policy toward Viet Nam.

A commission spokesman said Monday these charges are "completely untrue."

Scrip Money Replaces U.S.

SAIGON (Reuters) — United States and South Vietnamese authorities Tuesday moved to put black market money-changers out of business by outlawing the use of U.S. currency in South Viet Nam.

Instead, 90,000 troops and 3,000 U.S. government officers will be paid in military payment certificates scrip. Some 8,000 Australian, New Zealand, South Korean and Filipino troops, along with the Nationalist Chinese technicians, also will come under the new regulations. They, too, had been paid in U.S. dollars.

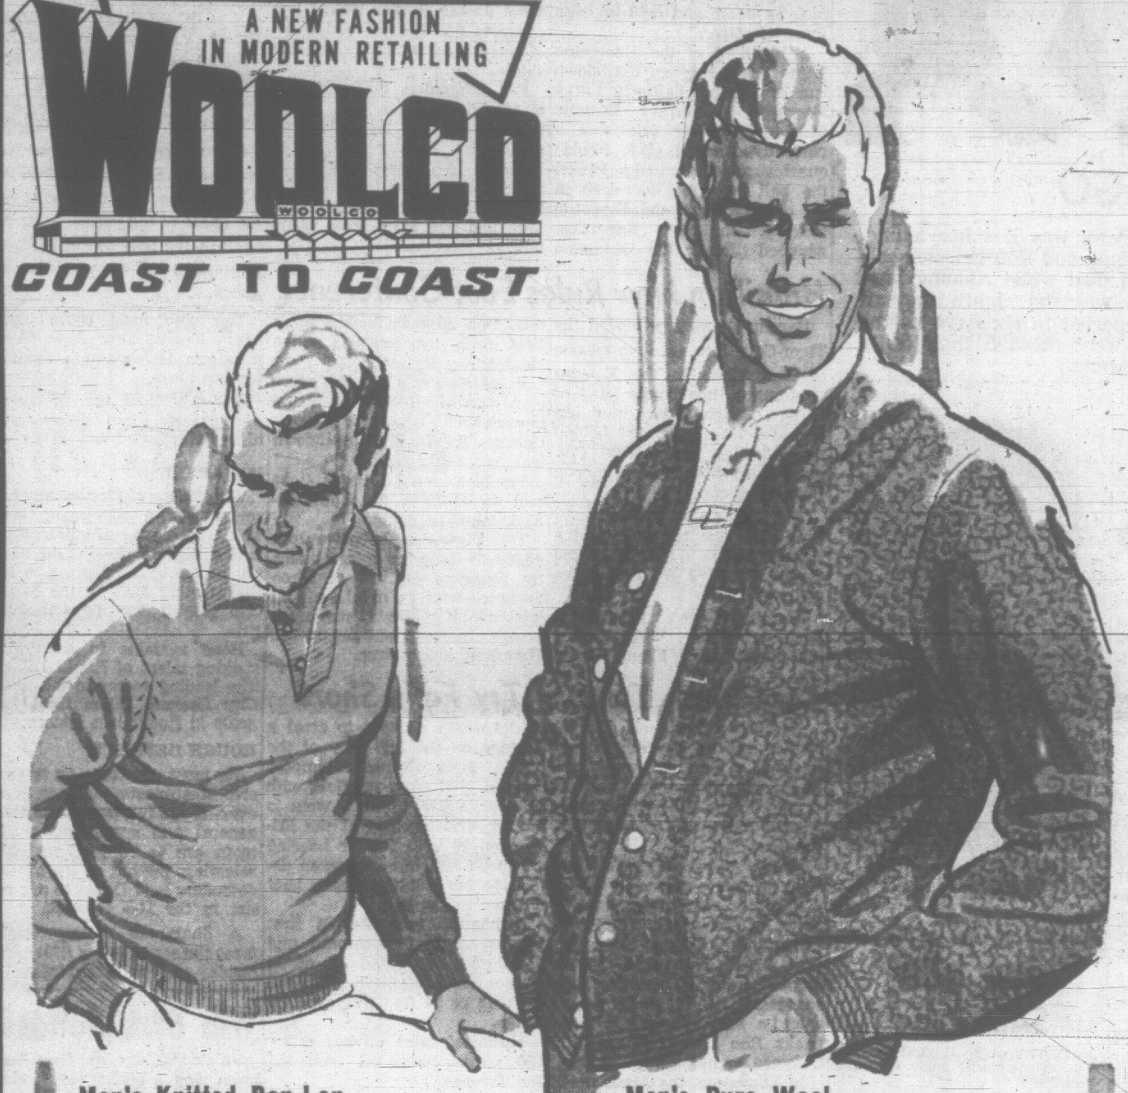

The scrip certificates will have to be exchanged for South Vietnamese piastres at official American-run pay - offices and at a fixed rate.

A top - secret operation was mounted by U.S. military authorities to fly in the scrip and distribute it by armed couriers to the 100 pay-officers throughout the country.

U.S. and South Vietnamese authorities made the move to put an end to the monthly exchange of an estimated $3,500,000 into piastres on street corners at double the official rate of 73.5 to a dollar.

The move was also aimed at checking soaring prices, stabilizing exchange at the new rate of 118 piastres to $1 in scrip certificates and stopping the annual flow abroad of millions of dollars through illegal channels.

Anti-Trust Bill Faces Dim Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Limited exemption from anti-trust law restrictions would be granted to professional hockey, baseball, football and basketball under a bill passed by the Senate.

The Senate's voice vote approval Tuesday sent the measure to the House of Representatives where it faces a less than bright future. House members have shown no great interest in similar legislation introduced there.

★ ★ ★

The bill was described by Senator Philip A. Hart (Dem.—Mich.), its floor manager, as designed to grant equal treatment to the four team sports.

Baseball has enjoyed complete exemption from anti-trust actions under a 1922 Supreme Court decision, but a more recent decision cast some doubt whether the court would allow that status to continue.

The bill as passed would place the business aspects of the four professional sports under anti-trust jurisdiction, but would exempt their purely sports activities. Baseball thus would lose some of its questioned exemption, but the others would benefit.

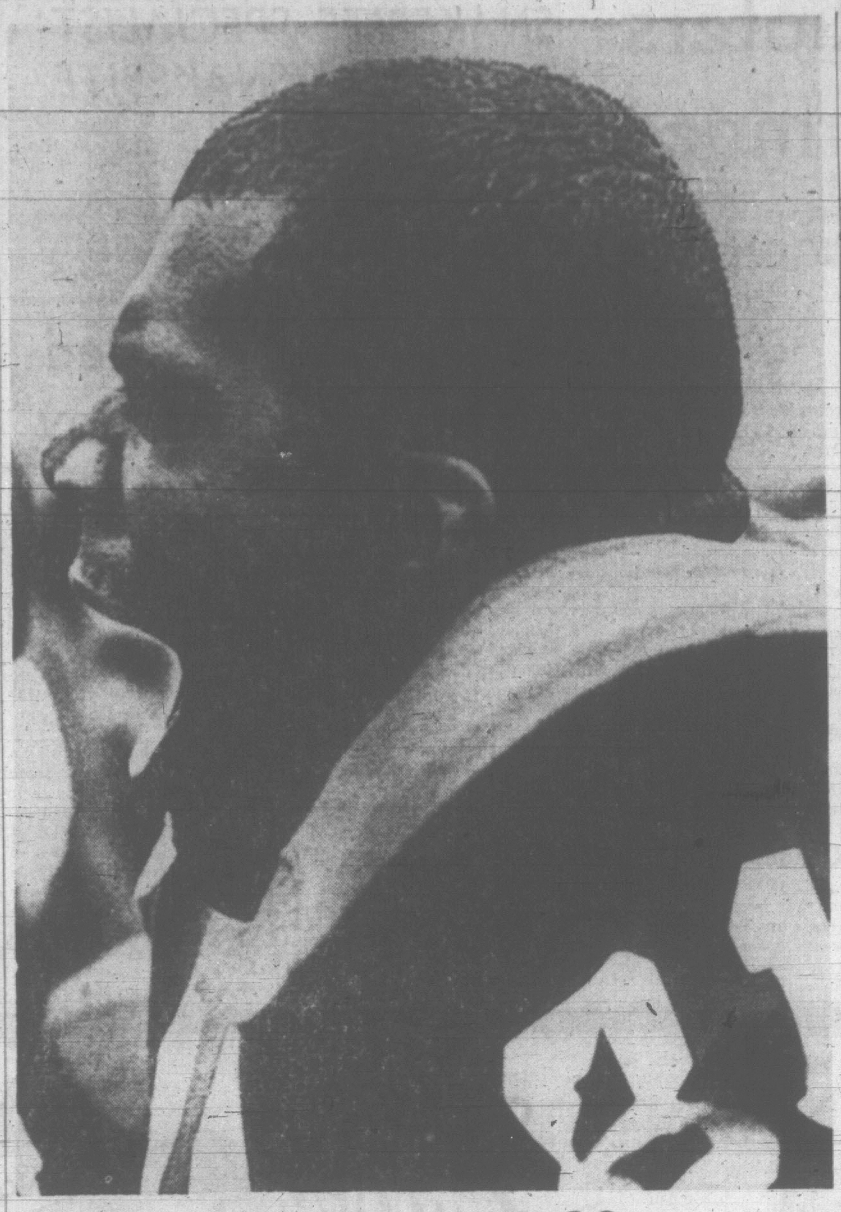

★ ★ ★

The exemptions would apply to:

—Player drafts and other steps to equalize the playing strength of league teams.

—League franchise agreements guaranteeing teams exclusive territorial rights in their areas.

—Arrangements to police the conduct of teams, players and officials through the employment of commissioners with broad disciplinary powers.

HE'S ALL A-GO-GO

Though it may have been the first day of fall football practice at Notre Dame, end Alan Page showed midseason form in the holler league. If Notre Dame plays like Page shouts, the Fightin' Irish may never lose. Elsewhere on the grid grapefruit circuit, the news was less heartening. At Mississippi, end Bob Priester collapsed and died while running laps. His death was the eighth football fatality reported in six days as the collegians went through their drills. (AP Wirephoto.)

Eskies Squeeze Argos In 'Battle of Nothings'

Ticats Stress Defence To Overwhelm Roughies

By CANADIAN PRESS

An airtight pass defence and a last-minute field goal were the keys to victory for Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Edmonton Eskimos Tuesday in two Canadian Football League games.

Hamilton intercepted seven Saskatchewan passes, equalling the CFL record for interceptions in one game, as they downed the Roughriders 30-6 at Regina before 17,530 fans.

In Edmonton, Tommy - Joe Coffey kicked a 23-yard field goal with 46 seconds remaining to give the Eskimos their first 1965 victory, a 23-21 triumph over still-winless Toronto Argonauts. A crowd of 16,745 took in the Edmonton game.

Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio said after the Regina game: "Our defence was great. They kept us in the ball game, although we didn't capitalize on all the opportunities we had.

"If we had, we could have had the game on ice at least by the end of the third quarter. We have to get better offensively."

Saskatchewan coach Eagle Keys stated the obvious in the dressingroom: "They whipped us and whipped us good."

Edmonton coach Neill Armstrong started Bill Redell at quarterback for the first time this season after cutting Jon Anabo, who piloted the Esks in their first five games.

Armstrong Impressed With Redell

"I didn't really want Redell to run with the ball as much as he did," Armstrong said. "But he likes to run and is tough to handle once he gets moving. When he begins finding open pass receivers, he won't be running as much and he'll be even more effective."

A highlight of the Edmonton game was a 104-yard touchdown run by Toronto halfback Larry Ferguson, a former Eskimo, which Armstrong said was a perfectly-executed play. Rookie quarterback Pete Liske lobbed the ball over the line deep in his own territory and Ferguson took it on his fingertips, whipped through the Edmonton secondary and out - distanced pursuers to score.

The Argos, playing their second game in three days, got touchdowns from Dick Shatto and Marv Luster as well as Ferguson. Former Eskimo great Jackie Parker kicked two converts for Toronto and Dave Mann booted a first - quarter single.

For Edmonton, Coffey caught a touchdown pass and added two converts to his field goal while Jim Fauver and Butch Pressley got one touchdown apiece. Edmonton led 6-1 after the first quarter, 13-8 at halftime and 20-8 after three quarters.

Hamilton Now Rules East Conference

Hamilton's victory moved the Tiger-Cats into sole possession of first place in the Eastern Conference, two points head of Ottawa Rough-Riders, and left Saskatchewan one point behind the co-leaders in the West—Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The Tiger-Cats led 9-0 at halftime after the teams played a scoreless first quarter and stayed ahead 13-6 after three quarters.

Hamilton got touchdowns from Art Baker, Willie Bethea and quarterback Frank Cosentino. Don Sutherin kicked three field goals, two converts and a single.

Saskatchewan's only score came on a 37-yard off-tackle touchdown run by fullback George Reed. The touchdown was not converted.

Fumbles and interceptions told the story of the Hamilton-Saskatchewan game.

The Tiger-Cat defensive unit added to its seven interceptions by pouncing on two of three Saskatchewan fumbles and knocking down numerous passes. Interceptions set up two Hamilton touchdowns.

Last-Ditch Toronto Try Falls Short

Defensive halfback Garney Henley set up the other when he took a Saskatchewan punt at his own 53 year-line and ran it back to the Rider three, from where Consentino carried over the goal-line.

Henley also set up a field goal with an interception.

Hamilton rolled up a total offence of 376 yards, 219 in the air and 157 rushing. Saskatchewan made 235 yards, 155 of them passing. Cosentino was successful on 10 of 22 passes while Saskatchewan quarterbacks Ron Lancaster and Hal Ledyard completed 14 of 28.

In Edmonton, the Argos made a desperate attempt to steal a victory on the last play of the game. John Vilunas attempted a field goal from midfield with Parker onside. The ball went to Coffey who fumbled at the Edmonton 19 with Parker bearing down on him but Edmonton defensive back John Sklopan beat Parker to the ball.

Edmonton managed 24 first downs to 16 for Toronto and Redell completed 10 of 14 passes for 160 yards compared with 12 of 24 for 264 yards by Liske.

Eskimos' total offence was 350 yards compared with 356 for Toronto.

Baby Shamrocks Face Tough Test

The ability to come back—a quality which has made Victoria Shamrocks a strong contender in the Junior Lacrosse playoff series with New Westminster—must not vanish from the Irish' ranks tonight at Memorial Arena if the club is to stay alive in the battle for the B.C. championship.

Shamrocks, who lost a two-goal lead and succumbed to an 8-7 overtime defeat in the opening game of the series, bounced back in the next game with an impressive 13-7 win at Memorial Arena.

The club must come back again tonight after New Westminster's 14-7 triumph Sunday in Coquitlam.

But this time the pressures are greater, the stakes are higher starting at 8.

WIN OR ELSE

With Salmonbellies leading the series 2-1, a Shamrock loss would decide the championship in the visitors' favor and dash all hopes of a Victoria team representing B.C. in the Minto Cup playoff for the Canadian title.

Hope remains in the swift-striking talent of Ranjit Dillon. The leading scorer in the Inter-City League, Dillon fired four goals in Rocks last victory.

ROUGH DEFENCE

He must overcome an aggressive Westminster defence, however, if his full powers as floor general and spark-plug of the team are to be realized. The relentless pursuit of Royal City defenders held Dillon to one assist in the 14-5 set-back.

A Shamrock victory would force the series into a fifth game Sunday at New Westminster.

BOMBERS NAB LION TACKLE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Norm Winton, 245-pound rookie tackle with British Columbia Lions, was claimed by Winnipeg Blue Bombers several hours after he was placed on waivers.

Winton, from Oregon State, had been taken off the Lions' 30-day injured list Monday and placed on waivers. Bombers claimed him later for $350.

Winton injured a knee during training camp.

Will the Real Ontario Champs Please Stand?

By PAT DINEEN

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — The four-man Ontario team captured its third inter-provincial junior golf championship Tuesday, but four golfers who failed to make the team came in 20 strokes lower.

Ontario, led by provincial junior champion Graham Cooke, finished the 36-hole competition with an aggregate score of 629, six strokes ahead of second-place Quebec.

Cooke, 18, a Grade 12 student from Cooksville, fired Tuesday's only sub-par round over the soggy and difficult 6,600-yard Brantford Golf and Country Club course. He had a one-under-par 71 for a two-round total of 147 to lead a field of 156 in the qualifying round.

The 36-hole qualifying round determined the 64 golfers who advanced to match play competition starting today for the individual Canadian junior title.

Scores in the qualifying rounds also counted in the team competition.

Four golfers who failed to make the Ontario team had a combined score of 609 and chided the regular team members by placing a sign on the scoreboard declaring themselves winners of the competition.

Peter Turner of Toronto, the individual leader after 18 holes, led the non-members with a 148, one stroke behind Cooke. Wayne McDonald of Milton, carded a 151, Peter Knechtel of Kitchener a 153 and Gordon Stollery of Toronto a 157.

John Nugent of Toronto and Ian Thomas of London, both with second-round 79s, and Jim Short of Toronto with an 85 combined with Cooke to resist a rally by Quebec and capture the team crown. Thomas had a 36-hole total of 157, Nugent 161 and Short 164.

Doran Doucet of Windsor Mills fired a one-over-par 73 to lead the Quebec team to an aggregate score of 312 Tuesday, the best 18-hole team score of the competition.

ALBERTA DROPS BACK

Quebec took over second spot from fading Alberta, which trailed Ontario by only two strokes after the first round Monday. Alberta finished third, 11 strokes behind the winners with 640.

Pierre Rossignol of Bathurst, N.B., had a 36-hole score of 154 to lead the combined New Brunswick - Prince Edward Island team to fourth place with 645. Manitoba, third after the opening round, fell to fifth with a 650.

Eleven strokes behind Manitoba was British Columbia with 661 followed by Nova Scotia with 671, defending champion Saskatchewan with 678 and Newfoundland with 724.

Newfoundland, made up of three 16 - year - olds and the youngest player in the tournament, Peter Stirling, 14, of Grand Falls, competed for the first time in the tournament's seven-year history.

A score of 165 or better was needed to enter match play. The tournament continues with one round today, two rounds Thursday, two more Friday and a 36-hole final Saturday.

ROUGHIES' REED TOPS IN WEST

By CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan Roughrider fullback George Reed scored all his team's points with one touchdown Tuesday night as the Roughriders lost 30-6 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats to move into a four-way tie for fourth place in the Western Football Conference scoring race.

Reed's touchdown gave him 24 points in six games. He shares fourth spot with British Columbia's Bob Swift—who has a game in hand—teammate Hugh Campbell and Edmonton's Jim Thomas.

WHL Will Use Own Referees

SEATTLE (AP)—The Western Hockey League will employ its own referees this season instead of taking those assigned by the National Hockey League, WHL presidential Al Leader announced Tuesday.

Leader made the announcement after returning from a directors' meeting in San Francisco, at which the decision was made.

The NHL began assigning referees for the WHL, as well as other professional hockey leagues, last year. Leader said other leagues were continuing the arrangement.

"Our reason for our decision was that they were not going to send any of the men west who were working in the National Hockey League, only those in the Central and American Leagues," Leader said.

IN HAMBLETONIAN

Canadian Filly Second Favorite

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Rain pelted Du Quoin's clay mile oval Tuesday, preventing 11 highly-tuned three-year-old trotters entered in today's $122,245 Hambletonian from taking their final workouts.

This threw a burden on the grooms in keeping the 10 colts and the big filly. Ambro Flight, voted Canada's harness horse of 1964, content in their stalls as tension rose for the start of harness racing's spectacular.

The weatherman predicted clearing skies Tuesday night leaving today unblemished. The sun would be needed to dry out the sticky, slippery track by the time the first mile heat goes off at 5:55 p.m. PDT. The entire grand circuit card was washed out Tuesday.

Unofficial odds remained a strong 1-to-2 for Noble Victory, driven to 20 straight triumphs by Stanley Dancer, who will be aiming for his first Hambletonian win after five misses.

Ambro Flight, driven and trained by Joe O'Brien, a native of Alberton, P.E.I., twice a Hambletonian winner, is second choice at 3-to-1.

O'Brien, a 48-year-old harness racing veteran who now lives in Shafter, Calif., won the Hambletonian in 1955 with Scott Frost and in 1960 with Blaze Hanover.

Ambro Flight, a towering black filly, has won 22 consecutive races stretching back to her last defeat, which was to Noble Victory a year ago at Indianapolis.

Ralph Baldwin, a native of Lloydminster, Sask., will drive Nimble Boy, a 5-to-1 pick in the No. 1 post position.

Ready to Pitch

MARICHAL WANTS TO FORGET 'IT'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Juan Marichal wants to forget all about "it."

"I just want to pitch, that's all," the pitching star of pennant - hungry San Francisco Giants said Tuesday.

Marichal, the National League's top right-hander with a 19-9 record, comes off an eight-day suspension tonight. It was imposed after he hit John Roseboro, Los Angeles Dodger catcher on the head with a bat on Aug. 22. That's the "it" he wants to forget.

Marichal said he was in good shape. Noting "I have been throwing every day, maybe 20-25 minutes before our games. I keep practising. I can pitch."

Will the layoff hurt?

"I hope not," replied the 26-year-old Marichal. "Why should it? I'm in good condition, and not hurt."

Marichal, who missed two pitching turns because of the fracas, whispered "yeah" when asked whether he had paid the $1,750 fine imposed by NL president Warren Giles.

Did he think it was too stiff a price to pay for trying to defend himself against what he termed Roseboro's provocations and threats?

From Marichal, dead silence.

Meanwhile, in Cincinnati, Giles confirmed Tuesday rumors he had directed that Marichal not accompany the Giants when they play in Los Angeles Sept. 6 and 7.

Giles said he issued the order to the Giants on Aug. 23.

'Softball Capital' Aim Of Senior Loop's Oster

By JEFF PINNIGER

Victoria is known as the softball capital of Canada, and the men behind the game here plan to keep it that way.

It's true that the support fans and sponsors gave softball here this season enhanced the status of the sport.

It would be incorrect to say that there was no softball in Victoria last year, there was NOT the organization that makes softball great from the spectators' point of view.

Most fans would have to rate the softball they watched at Heywood Park this season as "good" to "excellent."

Softball is going to be bigger and better in years to come.

President John Oster of the Senior Men's League and his hard-working assistants very rarely missed a game, and were working on ideas for improvement as the season progressed.

Their efforts prove that with hard work and co-operation from teams, a well-organized league can be formed in its first year.

Organization of the Heywood Park Softball League will be the same next year, except for the fact that each club will sponsor a junior team.

This will give young players a chance to get ready for the step into senior softball.

As the league progresses, the calibre of ball gets better and makes it difficult for players to make the league.

Pitching is the major factor in softball. From the juniors, the seniors hope to develop some fine moundsmen.

Softballers will try to combine all Victoria area softball under one administrative body.

This will give Victoria and Vancouver Island a strong say with the B.C. Softball Association.

Colwood area alone has 63 teams, ranging from pee wees to juniors.

Looking back at Victoria's record—in 1947 Esquimalt Meat Market won the Western Canada title, and not until 1957 did Gorge Hotel bring the title back.

John Oster says "it's time that title came back to Victoria." He also said that he figured in two years' time it will be back—he hopes, to stay.

Dean Chance 'Owns' Yanks

Angels' Ace Racks Up Seventh Win In Two Years Over CBS 'Cousins'

Don't believe those reports that CBS bought New York Yankees last winter. The guy who really owns them is Dean Chance.

Los Angeles Angels' southpaw blanked the down-at-heel American League champions 1-0 Tuesday night, racking up his seventh victory over them in two years without a setback. In the three times he has beaten the sixth-place Yankees this season he has compiled a tidy 1.89 earned-run average.

Chance, whose mediocre 12-9 record offers him little hope of recapturing the Cy Young Award he won last year as the outstanding pitcher in the majors, was even more brutal to the Bronx Bombers in 1964, permitting them only one run in 50 innings for a 0.92 mark.

The Yankees' chances for respectability are constantly diminishing. With just 29 games remaining, the perennial champions are 7½ games from fifth place. In the National League the sixth-place Philadelphia Phillies are closer than that to first.

In other AL games Tuesday night, Detroit Tigers edged Minnesota Twins 7-6, Baltimore Orioles swept Chicago White Sox 4-0 and 7-2, Cleveland Indians trounced Kansas City Athletics 8-1 before losing 3-2 in 11 innings and Boston Red Sox took Washington Senators 4-0 and 8-5 in ten.

PEARSON GETS 28TH

Team-mate Albie Pearson got in on Chance's act against New York, hitting a first-inning home run off Bill Stafford for the only run. The homer was the 28th of Pearson's career, nine of them against the Yankees.

Bill Freehan's fourth hit, a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth, boosted Detroit past first-place Minnesota.

Brooks Robinson hit a homer and drove across two runs in each game against Chicago.

Milwaukee Braves must have had their smoke signals crossed when they called Frank Thomas back to the reservation. All they really needed was an umbrella.

The Braves made the only headway in the National League pennant race Tuesday night but it took them almost eight hours in stormy Cincinnati to do it. After beating the Reds 5-3 in the rain-prolonged opener of a doubleheader, the Braves weathered another long delay before Cincinnati's 4-1 lead was washed out in the fourth inning of the second game.

The victory ended a six-game losing streak for the Braves and moved them into a third-place tie with Cincinnati, two games behind league-leading Los Angeles.

Thomas, meanwhile, cracked two homers and drove in five runs as Houston Astros swept a twi-nighter from New York Mets 4-3 and 3-2, then packed his bag for a return trip to Milwaukee and another shot at the World Series share that has eluded him in seven previous stops in 14 seasons.

The 36-year-old slugger has played for the Pirates, Braves, Reds, Cubs, Mets, Phillies and Astros—but never with a pennant winner.

BOLSTER THEIR BENCH

The Braves acquired Thomas, whose two homers against New York lifted his career total to 286, from Houston to bolster their bench. They'll send the Astros a player in return at a later date.

A couple of other former Milwaukee stars, Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette, hooked up in pitching duel at Philadelphia, the Phillies' Burdette topping his former roommate 2-0 in the second game. The Giants won the first game 2-1 in 11 innings.

Home runs by Eddie Mathews, Hank Aaron and Gene Oliver powered Milwaukee past the Reds in a game delayed 24 minutes at the start and held up for more than two hours in the fifth inning. Mathews' 30th homer capped the Braves' attack and tied him with Stan Musial for seventh place on the all-time homer list with 475.

WAILERS TO WAIL AT CITY CLUB

A five-man American singing group with a million seller to their credit will hit Victoria's peaceful, atmosphere this weekend.

The Wailers, pop singers from Tacoma whose disk "Tall Cool One" hit the million mark, are scheduled to make things swing at The Scope nightclub this Thursday and Friday evenings from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The Wailers' most recent recording, "She's a Dirty Robber," was chosen pick hit of the week by a Vancouver radio station.

The group will also be appearing at The Hudson's Bay company each afternoon to perform and sign autographs.

Scope manager Peter Chapman says he expects a large turnout at the nightclub as city youngsters mark the close of summer holidays.

Victoria pop group Bobby Faulds and the Strangers, back from an appearance at the PNE, will appear Sunday at The Scope.

'Frank Hunter for Mayor'

Former city clerk Frank Hunter, who retired Tuesday, was suggested as a mayoralty candidate at a testimonial banquet at city hall.

The suggestion was made by former mayor Claude Harrison, who was one of more than 50 Victoria civic officers, past and present, who gathered for the dinner to mark the end of Mr. Hunter's 38 years of service.

"I would like to see Mr. Hunter as mayor and particularly in the coming year," said Mr. Harrison.

Tributes were also paid by former mayors Herbert Anscomb, Percy George and Percy Scurrah.

Mayor Wilson presented Mr. Hunter with an engraved silver tray.

No Controversy But Maybe Smile

Oak Bay has no intention of "stirring up a hornet's nest" over fluoridation, said Reeve Allan Cox Tuesday, but after their December vote the people may develop an "Oak Bay smile" to set them apart from the rest of Greater Victoria.

The comment was made at an intermunicipal committee meeting Tuesday.

Other committee members sidestepped the controversial issue when a letter read from the Victoria Labor Council which urged fluoridation.

It was eventually decided the matter was a question for each Greater Victoria council rather than the intermunicipal committee.

"It's a pity only one municipality is voting on the subject," said Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele. "This seems to be a matter on which we should all act together."

Reeve Cox said it has been five or six years before the matter has been before the public in Oak Bay and much has been learned about the subject since that time.

Safety Lane Unsafe?

TRAIL (CP)—A coroner's jury here has recommended that safety runaway lanes — side roads which drivers can use to halt runaway vehicles — be lengthened on the Southern Trans - Canada Highway. The jury was investigating the death of Mike Bidinoff of Robson, who died Aug. 12 when his truck crashed at the end of a safety lane after a brake failure.

FOR CENTENNIAL

Saanich, Victoria Air Stadium Plans

Two separate plans for centennial sports stadiums submitted by the city and Saanich were set aside for further study by the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee Tuesday.

The Victoria plan for a stadium complex in Topaz Park included an offer of about $600,000 from the McPherson estate funds. Cost of the entire project was estimated at $1,137,000.

The Saanich offer is mainly a site proposal.

Reeve Hugh Curtis unveiled a plan for a centennial sports stadium on a 40-acre site in the Burnside-Tillicum area and said the municipality was willing to pay for the land if the plan was accepted.

He said approval of the voters for the land purchase would be sought in this fall's capital budget referendum.

But McPherson estate funds could not be used toward building a stadium on the Saanich site.

Mayor Wilson said a condition of the bequest is that the money must be used within city boundaries.

The 25-acre site proposed by Victoria is bounded by Rose Street on the west; Glasgow on the east; Topaz on the south, and what will be the extension of Finlayson Street on the north.

The plan involves a cantilevered, stressed concrete stadium which would seat 3,000 people.

Oak Bay and Esquimalt representatives on the intermunicipal committee said the city and Saanich should settle on one project before the smaller municipalities are asked to take a firm stand on a joint centennial project.

Mayor Wilson and Reeve Curtis agreed to present their proposals in detail to each council.

There was some suggestion an outside consultant would be called in if there was a deadlock on both plans.

'North Kills Women And Horses'

Risking her life to save Indians caught by epidemic and accident, Nurse Amy Wilson travelled thousands of frozen miles from Dawson Creek, B.C., to Whitehorse in the Yukon.

"The Yukon is a wonderful country for men and dogs," she was told, "but it kills women and horses."

Nurse Wilson tells of her intrepid adventures in the book, No Man Stands Alone, published here today by Sidney publisher Gray Campbell.

The book is also being published in Britain and other Commonwealth countries by the London firm of Hodder and Stoughton.

"It is the first time that a Canadian story by a Canadian author has been accepted for such distribution right off the bat," said publisher Campbell.

"Copies are being sent to Hodder and Stoughton, who will make up their own plates for the overseas printing."

The Canadian edition was printed and bound here by the Sidney Review. It is illustrated with 13 pen-and-ink chapter headings, a fold-out map and a jacket design by Annora Brown of Deep Cove.

The book has a new type of durable binding and a washable cover.

Mr. Campbell and his son, Dane, are distributing the book in British Columbia and Alberta and negotiations are in progress for distribution in eastern Canada.

"It is our most ambitious work to date," Mr. Campbell said. "We have great hopes for it."

Toronto Firm To Aid Probe In Arsenic Case

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Toronto laboratory has been asked to help in the investigation of the death of a Vancouver woman whose body was found to be full of arsenic.

Coroner Glen McDonald said today he hoped the tests would indicate the rate, dosage and time of consumption of the poison.

He is investigating the death of Mrs. Esther Castellani, 40, wife of a Vancouver radio personality. She died July 11.

Mr. McDonald said tests done on body tissue in Vancouver established that a massive concentration of arsenic had built up in her system.

MORE OF EVERYTHING OFFERED

New Era for YM-YW

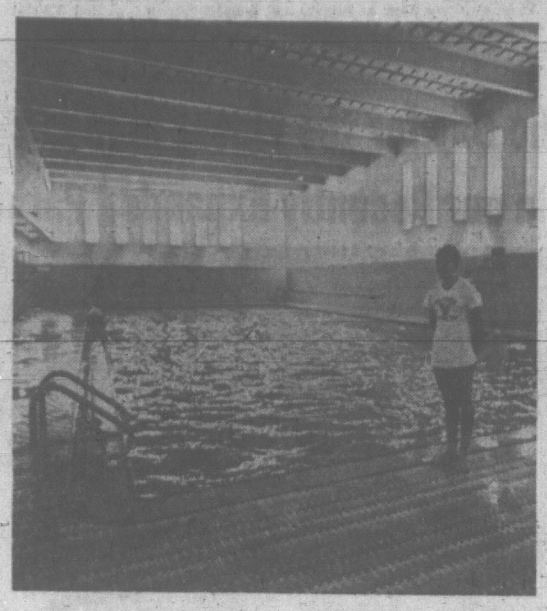

By JACQUES ROUSSEAUX

There is more of everything at the new YM-YWCA.

More staff, facilities and equipment will provide more classes, courses and service for more members beginning this fall.

When Premier W. A. C. Bennett officially opens the new centre, Sept. 10 at 3 p.m., he will be greeted in an airy setting of modern designs and color schemes.

The entire complex has been revamped, with efficiency as its featured theme. In the words of past president Margaret K. Wright, "1965 marks the beginning of a new era for the YM-YWCA of Victoria."

LARGEST Y POOL IN CANADA

Tent Operation

From a one-man, one-tent operation on the shore of Inner Harbor, the Y in Victoria has grown and developed to a $1,387,000 complex manned by a permanent staff of 30. It took 106 years.

The first "Y," the tent on the waterfront, provided shelter, fellowship and a good meal for young prospectors arriving by boat on their way to the northern country. The shelter made Victoria one of the first 10 cities in Canada to form a Young Men's Christian Association.

This first Y flourished only for a time, but 1875 it became a permanent part of the city's community life. The minutes of the organizational meeting stated that possibly in no community was the Y more needed, at the time, than in Victoria.

A small office in a wooden building at the corner of Trounce Alley and Broad Street, 90 years ago, was a far cry from the modern Y building at 880 Courtney Street today.

Raised $100,000

After several meeting place changes the Y men felt the need for a building of its own. A two-week fund raising campaign in 1909 raised more than $100,000, and two years later, Sept. 26, 1911, Premier Sir Richard McBride laid the cornerstone of the Y centre at View and Blanshard.

Thus began an organization through which nearly every prominent athlete and businessman in the city of Victoria has passed.

Briefly, the history of the YWCA in Victoria is this—about 1892 a number of young women connected with the Reformed Episcopal Church of Victoria were meeting once a week for Bible study. At one meeting they were addressed by a YW delegate from England. Soon after the Bible class was formed into a branch of the YWCA.

First public headquarters of the YW was a room on Government Street, adjoining what was then Skeene Lowe's photo studio. The first president was Miss Edith Carr, sister of British Columbia's foremost painter and native Victorian, Emily Carr.

Hot Lunches

Among the first benefits to YW members were hot lunches cooked by the Carr sisters and taken to students by horse and buggy.

The room grew into a flat over Shotbolt's drug store on Johnson Street, which served as boarding house with public rest and offered a reading room for girls.

Subsequent YW facilities were too old and too small to do justice to the many YW projects and in Aug. 16, 1910, Premier McBride used the official trowel to start the former YWCA centre at Blanshard and Courtney Street.

In May, 1960, the YM and YW agreed to amalgamation.

merger was initiated as a means to improving and expanding services to the community and in particular to the 14 to 20 age group.

Five years and one month later on June 21, 1965, the two Y's moved their operations under one roof into the new facilities of the YM-YWCA on Quadra Street, between Courtney and Broughton Streets.

Membership

In 1964 membership rose from 3,309 to 3,687. Users on register during the year was 5,579.

There were 269 members under nine years of age and 468 over 35. The majority of members were between nine and 17 years of age.

Total attendance for all activities was 111,041. Class and course attendance registered 17,356 for informal courses, 23,345 for the gymnasium, 28,844 in swimming and 1,217 for leaders' training.

The food services served 39,916 customers and the residences show records for 31,363 bed-nights occupancy.

The old and new members will benefit from an air-conditioned gymnasium for basketball, volleyball, handball, badminton and gymnastics.

Auditorium

An auditorium with controlled acoustics will serve for dances, ballets, banquets and large meetings. Seven club rooms of various sizes are already heavily booked for the fall educational purposes.

The building has four kitchens of various capacities, with the main one servicing the newly-appointed dining room, which offers a complete menu to residents and outsiders alike.

The fully-appointed adult health club will offer controlled noon-hour exercises under the supervision of qualified physical instructors.

A roof-top grass track is another interesting feature of the new Y.

Residence accommodation is restricted to girls. Y officials have found that today's young men care little for supervised accommodation and transient incidence last year indicated the expenses of a men's residence would not be justified.

Focus point of the complex is the well-lit and tiled, five-lane swimming pool. It is the largest Y pool in Canada.

Simply, the new YW-YMCA says "come and join us and get a kick out of life."

NEW LOOK AT 880 COURTNEY

Dr. 'X' Callous And Negligent

VANCOUVER (CP)—A B.C. Supreme Court judge Tuesday found a Vancouver General Hospital intern negligent for adopting a "casual and perhaps even callous" attitude toward a patient.

In handing down his ruling on the intern, identified only as "Dr. X," Mr. Justice T. W. Brown awarded $1,860 damages to retired lumber executive Clifford Crispin, 63.

Court was told Mr. Crispin's blood pressure dropped dangerously after a December, 1962, abdominal operation. Intravenous injection of an antidote proved successful, but Mr. Crispin complained of pain in his right arm and it was found that not all of the substance was going into the vein.

Corrective measures were taken, but Mr. Crispin complained of pain four days later. When informed by telephone, Dr. X ordered what he called symptomatic treatment.

In a written judgment, Mr. Justice Brown said Dr. X failed in his duty by not seeing the patient personally when informed of the patient's condition.

"I have no hesitation in finding there was negligence on the part of Dr. X . . . I don't think there can be any justification for (his) casual and perhaps even callous attitude . . ." the judgment said.

Court was told Mr. Crispin has a three-inch scar on his arm, occasional numbness of the fingers, and difficulty in writing.

Traffic Tickets Fixed

TORONTO (CP)—A sheriff's officer was remanded Tuesday to Sept. 9 on $500 bail when he appeared in court on a charge of obstructing justice.

Douglas Henderson, 50, of Toronto was arrested Monday at city hall in connection with a traffic summons fixing racket.

Two other men were arrested last week in connection with the same case, police said. George Miller, 27, a clerk in the summons office, and Sydney Winick, 36, both of Toronto were remanded on $1,000 bail each.

Police are still questioning city hall employees to determine the extent of the offence.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1965—PAGE 23

BACK FROM THE PNE are South Pacific and owner Bob Shanks to seek more laurels at the Saanichton Fair this weekend.

Saanich Must Stick With Central Court

Bonner Not Swayed By Reeve's Protest

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today indicated Saanich will not be able to back out of a centralized magistrate's court just because it will be moved into downtown quarters.

But he pointed out there is a possibility the centralized family and juvenile court session will be held in the Saanich facilities, if the municipality consents.

Mr. Bonner also hinted that an entirely new aspect may be introduced soon—a centralized prosecutor's office. He said the municipalities may, in time, realize the logic of such a move which would both save them money and improve efficiency.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis recently wrote the attorney-general's department to protest the decision to move the centralized magistrates court from the Saanich police building into the new and larger quarters built in Victoria's Centennial Square. The letter said Saanich wanted its cases to be heard in its own courtroom.

'WON'T BE IDLE'

Mr. Bonner, answering a Times' inquiry today, said:

"The principle of a centralized court was established in this area when, for a time, all cases were heard in the Saanich courtroom.

"But with the introduction of new and larger facilities, the thinking is that the centralized court should move into the new quarters.

"However, the facilities which Saanich has are not expected to become idle."

He explained a study is under way to see if Saanich's courtroom would be suitable, physically, for accommodating the family court.

'LOGICAL OUTCOME'

Mr. Bonner also said that centralization of the prosecuting services "would be a logical outcome although, perhaps, more difficult to achieve" under the new set-up which includes appointment of a three-magistrate bench for the joint court.

"In a small and integral unit there really is no need for a variety of prosecuting staffs and this is one area where intermunicipal co-operation could produce more efficiency and less cost to the individual municipalities."

He said this was his department's thinking on the subject and it was hoped to enter joint discussions with the Greater Victoria councils—in time.

HEAVY TRAVEL

Busy, Busy Weekend In Offing

Victoria seems set for one of the busiest Labor Day weekends in its history.

Most downtown hotels are booked out, reservations on buses and planes are heavy and record traffic is expected on the B.C. government ferries.

Weekend attractions include the famous Saanichton Fair, track racing at Western Speedway, concerts in Beacon Hill Park and a province-wide archery contest at Hampton Park and Colwood.

Labor Day being the last public holiday before schools reopen, Victoria attracts thousands of visitors from not-too-distant points.

"Starting Friday, we expect heavy loads off the steamer from Seattle," said Leslie Parkinson, manager of the Empress Hotel, "and most of our rooms are booked.

BEST SEASON

"We are winding up our best season since 1962 and this could be the busiest Labor Day weekend we have ever had."

Other downtown hotels, including the Dominion, the Strathcona and Douglas Hotels, report capacity bookings.

From Friday to Monday, Air Canada will operate six extra flights daily between here and Vancouver and Seattle.

"Reservations are coming in fast," a spokesman said, "and there is every indication we shall get heavy loads from both Seattle and Vancouver."

Vancouver Coach Lines are also preparing for record traffic, with extra buses operating on all routes.

"Every passenger will be taken care of," said manager Conway Parrott. "Buses will be laid on according to the need."

The hourly service on the B.C. government ferries will continue until Sept. 12.

FAIR CROWDS

MORRAN WALLER
. . . the man next door

No. 2 Clerk Job Still Vacant

The sign on the office door at city hall reads: "For Rent. Apply next door."

Next door is the office of Morran Waller, Victoria's new city clerk and the sign is posted on the door of the assistant city clerk's office which he vacated Tuesday.

The position of assistant city clerk as not yet been filled and the city clerk's office is operating with a staff of three persons, Mr. Waller, a departmental secretary and another secretary.

Retired city clerk Frank Hunter last week offered to continue working for an extra month to catch up on the work load which he said was far behind schedule.

His offer was declined.

Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of the Civic Service, said: "We cannot impose our problems on one who has given so ably of his time and talents. We deeply appreciate the magnificent offer and the deep sense of loyalty which prompted it."

The city has advertised unsuccessfully up to this time for an assistant city clerk.

'He Would Have Ended Up In Hospital'

Two inmates who planned a breakout at the Juvenile Detention Home on the night of Aug. 2 said today if the guard had not obtained a gun they would have escaped.

They gave evidence at the trial of the guard, Kenneth Russell, who is accused of unlawfully pointing a gun.

One witness said: "I think he (Russell) would have ended up in the hospital."

The other agreed with defence lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood that, if Russell had not obtained the gun, "there would have been a tragedy that night."

Both youths gave their testimony under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act, which means their evidence may not be used in support of any charge against them.

LEFT ALONE

The 15-year old said he found out that Russell did not know judo and then asked the night matron to go out and buy him candy so that Russell would be left alone at the home.

This witness admitted, under cross-examination by Mr. Owen-Flood, that he has a record for assaulting his mother, his sister, a teacher and a police officer, and that he has also been convicted of car theft and escaping from custody.

He said that if Russell had not got a gun he would have attacked him that night and escaped.

HIT OVER HEAD

The other witness, who is 16, said he was asked to join the breakout by the first witness and another inmate. He said the plan was to lure Russell from the kitchen into the recreation room where he would be hit over the head with a piece of wood.

The witness said his friends planned to obtain Russell's keys and get out. He said, "I might have gone along."

The witness said the plan misfired because Russell refused to leave the kitchen and go into the recreation room. He said the inmates started shouting and fighting in an attempt to lure him.

The witness said Russell left the kitchen and came back with a gun. He said Russell cocked the gun and pointed it through the partition from the kitchen at one youth's head. But, he added, Russell did not have his finger on the trigger.

The youth said the incident was caused by the planned breakout. He added that if Russell had not had the gun "I think he would have ended up in the hospital."

FORMER RACE HORSE FINDS NEW CAREER IN RING

Win, Place and Now It's All Show

• • •

A nine-year-old big, brown, beautiful ex-race horse who won her share in three years of campaigning, has hit the high spots in a new career as a show horse.

Her name on the tracks was Wonder Roll which has been changed for the show ring to South Pacific.

Purchased nearly three years ago at a dispersal sale on the mainland by Bob and Marjory Shanks, 4111 Cedar Hill Road, South Pacific returned home from the Pacific National Exhibition Tuesday with two major championships — the "Queen" of Thoroughbreds at the exhibition and the top hunter of the show.

In the first win she was shown in hand, and in the hunter championship she compiled top points in performance over jumps as well as in conformation, and condition.

CLOSE CONTEST

Both Mr. and Mrs. Shanks rode her in hunter events leading to the championship which she won in a nip and tuck battle with a mainland half-Thoroughbred well known in show rings here, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wright's Copper Cal of Richmond.

South Pacific won the ladies' hunter and open hunter classes, was fourth in hunter hack and fifth in conformation hunter under saddle.

DARBYSHIRE BRED

The mare, who has been working out over the trails of Mount Douglas Park for show ring condition, was bred as Wonder Roll by the late Dr. K. R. Darbyshire of Victoria.

Other island horses showed well at the P.N.E., among them another Thoroughbred, Lady Associate, who was ridden by Allison Robb of McTavish Road.

NOVICE WIN

"The Lady" won the novice hack class, was second in show hack, and placed third in the female Thoroughbred halter class. Second place to South Pacific in the latter class, bringing the first three ribbons to the island, was Lucera owned and ridden by Miss Peter Williams of Victoria. Lucera was fourth in registered model Canadian hunter class.

In the Morgan section of the exhibition horse shows, Jet Traveller owned by E. B. Pallister of Millstream Road took a second ribbon in Western pleasure, a third in stallion two years and over and a fourth in Morgan horse performance.

ARTHUR MAYSE ON VACATION

IT STARTED HOT BUT PETERED OUT

August came in with a sizzle and left with a shiver here this year.

Its first day was its hottest, with a temperature of 76.7 degrees. Coolest was Aug. 29 when the mercury hit 46.8.

Last month, which usually ranks second to July in sunshine, failed to produce its normal quota this year.

The total of sunny hours was only 225.6, compared to the average of 298, and August 1964's total of 256, according to figures compiled by the Dominion weather bureau on Gonzales Hill.

Insurance Firms Ease Restrictions

Insurance companies are shifting their stance to provide coverage for more B.C. motorists, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

He said this was a direct result of a recent top-level meeting between car insurance company representatives and his department.

Informal assessments of the insurance market showed that the "partial famine" of car insurance policies in B.C. was being eased, Mr. Bonner said.

"The problem was to convince the head offices of these companies that a problem was taking shape in this province and they should take steps to correct it," he recalled.

IMPROVEMENT

"I think there is an improved situation to be seen now and the full measure probably will be in view by late autumn."

Before the meeting, the attorney-general had accused insurance companies of trying to rule off the road all drivers except "little old ladies" who presented almost no insurance risks.

Mr. Bonner this morning said he did not raise the possibility of the government itself entering the car insurance field when he met the company representatives.

"It was not discussed," he said. "Our purpose was to discuss the availability of insurance."

City Postmen To Vote Against 'Fumbling Chiefs'

The two Victoria delegates to the Canadian Postal Employees Association convention next month likely will support a movement to oust three national leaders.

The Vancouver branch of the association has voted to instruct its delegates to the Oct. 22 convention in Toronto to vote for anyone who runs against president Les Hood, secretary-treasurer Godfrey Cote and national secretary Rick Otto.

"I imagine it will be the same here," said Gerald Kenny, president of the Victoria branch.

"The feeling in Victoria is that there was a lot of fumbling and bungling by national leaders in the recent strike."

Flashy PNE Showing Sets Up 4-H Teams For Saanichton Fair

It's out of one fair and into another for south Vancouver Island members of 4-H (Junior Farm) Clubs.

Back from the Pacific National Exhibition with a large share of awards and ribbons, members of beef, dairy, home arts, sheep, goats, tractor and garden clubs are preparing for a big weekend at the Saanichton Fair.

They will have their big day on Monday, Labor Day, at Saanichton, although they will have their animals on display all weekend. Open showing at the fair this year is on opening day, Saturday.

While all local clubs won attention at the PNE this year, the most outstanding performance was turned in by a new Saanich club—the Saanich Peninsula 4-H Beef Club.

Led by Mrs. Tom O'Reilly of Woodwynn Farm, West Saanich, the club includes a number of 4-H "veterans" who decided to change from dairy to beef last year.

●

Among its wins was in project demonstrations where its team of Susan Street and Cathy Godfrey scored highest over 34 other clubs.

The club also won the 4-H herdsmanship competition which includes daily judging of its show stall for cleanliness, neatness and general presentation of animals and equipment.

The young "beef-eaters" were awarded the Vancouver Kiwanis Club trophy for the most points in herdsmanship, demonstrations and showmanship.

Grand champion senior showman of the beef section was one of the club's older members, Ken Smith. Another member, Greg Baker, was second in senior beef showmanship. And still another member, Steve Dorran, won the junior beef showmanship competition.

The club placed second in inter-club competitions, and two of its members won third-place ribbons for their animals standing in the ring—Shirley Raper in the heavyweights and Susan Street in the middleweights.

Another beef club, the Three-S (Sooke, Sidney, Saanich) Beef Club, came away with a number of ribbons also, and was a high fourth in the project demonstrations. A senior member, Don Alberg, was third in showmanship.

●

Metchosin 4-H Sheep Club was first in herdsmanship while the Saanich 4-H Sheep Club was third.

A popular win for the Saanich 4-H Jersey Calf Club was Kathy Tribe's grand champion calf. Miss Tribe will receive a registered calf from the mainland herd of William Savage as part of her prize.

Saanich 4-H Goat Club won two firsts—in herdsmanship and in judging. In the latter Margaret Lord won a silver medal.

Saanich clubs banded together to enter two groups in square dancing, one of which took first place in dancing and first in dress.

PAST SECONDARY LEVEL

Student Meet Calls For Free Education

Times reporter Sue Pelland, one of four University of Victoria delegates at a national student conference, reports on the proceedings.

By SUSAN PELLAND

Free education for all students past the secondary level in Canada was urged this morning by delegates to a student conference in Lennoxville, Que.

A motion calling for elimination of all "direct financial barriers" to higher education was passed 25 to nine by one of three commissions at the 29th Congress of the Canadian Union of Students.

Direct financial barriers to a university education were defined as tuition fees, cost of room and board, books and travelling expenses.

MAJOR POLICY

After going to the student congress as a whole for approval later today, the motion will be adopted as a major policy by the student organization.

Immediate goal is the elimination of tuition fees.

Proposed by McGill University delegates, the motion received thunderous applause from the students.

The Congress is attended by 200 student delegates from 40 member universities of CUS across Canada.

Quebec universities, who have formed their own organization, are not represented.

ACTION PROGRAM

Later today western delegates, including those from the University of Victoria, will present an "action program" for putting the first motion into effect.

CUS hopes to achieve increased financial aid for students by drawing attention of both federal and provincial governments to their cause.

'Arf and 'Arf For City's Beer Parlors

More than half the beer parlors in Greater Victoria were shut this morning.

Heavy demands were reported at several pubs, quickly drying up depleted stocks caused by the 10-day strike of 500 brewery workers.

A spokesman for Local 513 of the Beverage Dispensers Union said about 100 members including permit, or temporary, men are out of work.

The rest of the beer parlors were expected to be closed by the weekend, although several are rationing supplies to regular customers only.

In Vancouver, two liquor stores sold 1,800 cases of beer brought from a strike-free brewery in Prince George in one hour.

There was no report of a similar importation into beerless liquor stores in Victoria, although at least one has an order in.

RATIONED

Four taverns on the mainland have managed to stay open by limiting customers to one beer every four hours. The other 124 pubs were closed, leaving 1,500 waiters and tapmen without work.

Underseas Gardens Stay Put As Spat Ended With Marina

Oak Bay Marina and the Undersea Gardens have settled their differences over a new lease following a two-hour meeting called by former Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch.

Charles White, owner of the Gardens, and Bob Wright, operator of the marina, said they met and "settled all the points that stood between us."

A new lease has been signed which remains unchanged from the old lease and the Undersea Gardens will continue to operate on its present site.

30-DAY NOTICE

Several weeks ago marina president Wright had given the Undersea Gardens 30 days to vacate their present site following a breakdown in lease negotiations.

Garden officials said they would move and establish the tourist attraction elsewhere.

Stuffed Animal Really Turns Younger Set On!

By Penny Saver

For the teenage girl who has everything, it's a safe bet she hasn't got the latest in novel ideas. Just arrived in town are little stuffed dogs—but there's a distinct difference in the stuffing!

It's a transistor radio, operated of course with batteries, and the little, long-eared, short-tailed puppy is really the most adorable creature. The tuning and volume knobs are well concealed so junior miss can have a marvellous time fooling her friends. The dog is selling at $19.95.

Most original of any television lamps I've ever seen are the beautiful arrangements of roses in a variety of rainbow hues in a brass container.

In the centre of each artificial rose is a little light bulb so the roses give off a lovely glow when the lamp is plugged in.

There are two sizes in the lamps, one very dainty type at $3 and a larger more elaborate one at $6.

Here are some novelty gifts for the bowlers in the family circle or amongst your friends. Generous-sized coffee mugs with ten pins and bowling balls decorating the outside are selling at this shop for $1 each.

There are salt and pepper shaker sets too, one in a pin-shape—the other a bowling ball. These would make marvellous shower gifts for the bride-elect who is an avid bowler.

This bridal shower business can get pretty frustrating when it comes to original gift ideas.

It's always simple to be practical, but knowing one friend who received six can openers in different shapes and sizes before her marriage, I like to stick to gifts that I can almost be sure won't be repeated.

An item I discovered in one shop was a unique type of salad bowl, shaped like a shell with a replica of a lobster perched on one side. In heavy china, this bowl dish would make a good background for a seafood salad. It's priced reasonably at $2.95.

Kiddies who "snitch" biscuits from the family cookie jar will literally be in the dog house now!

A large kennel-shaped china cookie jar is the feature and it's just the answer to petty thievery by tiny paws! The cover makes a terrible racket when it's lifted—a clatter that could be heard all over the house!

It's selling at $2.95.

Other different shower gifts are the hand-painted china cheese boards with wooden handles and cheese knives that fit into a special groove. They are priced at $1.05.

BIRKS JEWELLERS

Pattern of Lotus Flowers . . . . . Accent of Obi Sash

GOWN EMBROIDERED IN HONG KONG

A panel of sequins, pearls and aurora borealis, embroidered in lotus designs in Hong Kong, highlighted the white peau de soie gown worn by May Wong when she exchanged marriage vows and rings with Edward Chow recently.

Similar appliques starred the bodice and elbow-length sleeves of the bell-skirted gown, which she made herself. A full overskirt extended to a chapel train from a double obi sash. Her hand-rolled veil of silk illusion net misted to waist-length from a headpiece of lotus flowers that sparkled with pearls and aurora borealis. Only jewelry was a pearl necklace. She carried a crescent bouquet of white orchids, centred with one mauve orchid. All the flowers for the wedding were flown in from Hawaii.

Baskets of white and pink gladioli decorated First United Church when Rev. M. Fowler and Rev. Arthur Anderson, North Surrey, B.C., officiated at the candlelit ceremony uniting the daughter of S. K. Wong, 2990 Gordon Head Road, and the late Mrs. Wong, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chow Shoon, 3156 Quadra Street. Mr. Wong gave his daughter in marriage.

SILVER BROCADE

Chinese silver brocade gowns with contrasting peacock blue obi sashes were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. Hoy Yip; bridesmatron, Mrs. John Wong, and bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Chu. Their headpieces were blue flowers, edged with tulle, and they carried crescent bouquets of mauve orchids.

Sarah and Marlene Wong were flower girls for their aunt, in frocks of white nylon crystallette with contrasting blue sashes. They wore headpieces of white and blue flowers and carried mauve orchid bouquets.

Thomas Chow was best man for his brother. Ushering the guests were Jimmy Wong, Alan Louie and Daniel Wong.

A miniature pagoda, made by Bill Renfrew, topped the three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's sister, Miss Lana Wong. It centred the bride's table for the reception following in the Union Centre.

Orchid leis and antherium, sent by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dung, and white, blue and pink wedding bells completed table decorations. Jack Tang proposed the toast to the bride.

The day following the wedding, the couple was honored at a Chinese banquet, given by the groom's parents in Don Mee's Restaurant. The couple wore traditional Chinese wedding dress.

A two-piece wool boucle suit of turquoise, accented with a toning hat and white accessories, was the choice of the bride for travelling on honeymoon to California.

The couple will make their home in Victoria.

The superb and elegant beauty of a genuine Persian rug is shown by two young Iranian weavers, Mr. Rafiallah, 22 years old, at left, and 24-year-old Mr. Naderallah. The men are presenting an exhibit of 100 rugs in the Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel today until 11:30 p.m. and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Included in the exhibition will be a lecture by Mr. Naderallah tonight and Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Two Iranian Weavers With Magic Carpets

By JUDY CREIGHTON

They may not be "magic carpets" but the exhibition of genuine Persian rugs at the Empress Hotel today and Thursday has a magical quality which is unsurpassable.

Showing the "bag," which is valued at $150,000, are two representatives of the Associated Brotherhood of National Rugs of Iran, Mr. Rafiallah and Mr. Naderallah.

"The art of weaving beautiful rugs is dying quickly," explains Mr. Naderallah. "This is why we are endeavoring to promote Persian rugs in Canada."

Added Mr. Rafiallah, "As Iran becomes more and more industrialized, it is now accepted that the true hand-made Persian rug will no longer be created in 25 to 30 years."

All the rugs are woven in private homes and take anywhere from four to 100 years to make.

The size of the rug is determined by the size of the house the weaver lives and does his or her work in.

"One six by nine-foot silk Kashan rug in the exhibit is worth $25,000 alone and took 17 years to make," says Mr. Naderallah.

No two Persian rugs are alike, unless a weaver specifically copies and "twins" an original. "This is most rare," says Mr. Rafiallah. "The designs are all different and in the case of a rug taking many years to weave, it is passed down through the members of the family to be worked on."

Most colors used in the rugs are vegetable dyes except where natural tones like the beiges of the camel hair, the brown of the sheep or the black of the mountain goat prevail.

"Most of the rugs are woven by women, as they have more patience to spend the many years that it takes to make a rug," says Mr. Naderallah.

Asked why the Persian rugs were so expensive, Mr. Rafiallah answers: "Because they are hand-made which is rare today."

As promoters of the exquisite carpets, the two men were emphatic on the value and investment which the owner has in the rugs.

Stressed Mr. Daderallah, "The older a Persian rug is the more valuable it becomes —like a good painting, it is an antique and something which cannot be reproduced."

Mother Travels to City For Son's Marriage Vows

Mrs. F. Bulman travelled from Hines Creek, Alta., to attend the wedding of her son, Delphin Adolf Bulman, to Janet Marie Kerr in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church. Many guests from Edmonton also attended.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Kerr, 1022 Chamberlain Street, Victoria.

White and red gladioli were at the altar of the church for the ceremony at which Rev. J. A. Roberts officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, William Kerr, the bride wore a full-skirted gown of white nylon over taffeta, styled en train. The lace bodice was highlighted with a scallop-edged neckline and lily point sleeves. Lace panels accented the front and back of the skirt. The three-tier veil of illusion net misted to her shoulders from a white satin rose headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli, centred with red roses.

Mrs. Warren Sweeney was matron of honor for her sister in a turquoise gown accented with appliques of gold peau de soie.

Bridesmatron Mrs. Steven Sallos and bridesmaid, Miss Lynda Norman, were in similar gowns of gold peau de soie, topped with matching jackets. All wore headpieces of white roses, edged with tulle, and carried bouquets of white gladioli.

Sidney Fournier, Nanaimo, was best man. Ushering guests were Melvin Klymchuk and Glen MacCambridge, both of Edmonton.

Gold candelabra and arrangements of gladioli in red and white tones surrounded the three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table at the reception in the Club Soho. Peter Allen proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip travelling to their new home in Edmonton, the new Mrs. Bulman donned a two-piece linen suit, complemented with a pink feather hat, white accessories and a corsage of white gladioli and red roses.

NEWLYWEDS TO LIVE IN TRAIL

Patricia Wills Becomes Bride

Following a honeymoon trip to Seaside, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Leslie Samuel Osborne will make their home in Trail, B.C. The couple was married recently in St. Philip's Anglican Church.

Arrangements of carnations and gladioli in white and pink tones decorated the church for the ceremony when Rev. R. O. Wilkes heard marriage vows exchanged between Patricia Arlene Wills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Wills, 2125 Neil Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Osborne, 3115 Rutledge Street.

WEDDING MUSIC

"The Hawaiian Wedding Song" was played by organist, Lt.-Col. H. G. F. Morgan during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of organza, styled with a detachable court train of lace sweeping from her shoulders. The gown was topped with a lace bolero which featured lily point sleeves. A floral rosette held her veil of silk illusion net and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and heather.

Matching pink lace gowns, accented with toning floral headpieces and bouquets of pink carnations and heather, were worn by bridesmaids, the Misses Jeanne Wills and Nancy Rowlandson.

Frocks of norganza over taffeta in aqua tones, complemented with toning circlet headpieces, were worn by flowergirls, Pam Wills and Susan Wilson. They carried baskets of aqua carnations and pink rosebuds.

Best man was Monty Gilchrist. Ushers were Bill McDonald and Jim Despot.

Pink tulle and rosebuds surrounded the three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table for the reception following at the Uplands Golf Club. Pink sweetheart roses topped the cake.

Cmdr. George Gray proposed the toast to the bride.

A white boucle dress, accented with a black picture hat, black accessories and red sweetheart roses en corsage was the new Mrs. Osborne's choice for travelling.

Belonged to Grandmother . . . . . . Made of Gold Filigree

BRIDE WEARS HEIRLOOM NECKLACE

An heirloom gold filigree necklace which had belonged to her grandmother fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Doris Edna Mooney when she became the bride of Gordon James Meyer.

Her floor-length gown of silk tulle over taffeta was styled with a chapel train and was an original design by Oleg Cassini. The bodice of the gown featured an appliqued neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Her full tiered veil misted to her waist from a coronet of pearls and rhinestones and she carried a bouquet of carnations, red roses and stephanotis.

St. Aidan's United Church was decorated with arrangements of fall flowers when Rev. A. G. MacLeod heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of Ald. and Mrs. Millard Mooney, 1647 Hollywood Crescent, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meyer of Duncan. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. J. Campbell was organist.

The bride's three attendants, Mrs. John Meyer, Mrs. Don Mooney and Miss Cheryl Hudson wore identical floor-length gowns of gold crystal charm over taffeta with matching bouffant headpieces and bouquets of chrysanthemums en tone.

John Meyer was best man for his brother. Ushering guests to their pews were the groom's brothers, Don and Gerry Meyer.

Jack Mooney proposed the toast to his niece at the reception following in the Pacific Club. A three-tier wedding cake, topped with a white floral arrangement, centred the head table.

A camel-hair and grey Italian knit suit was the new Mrs. Meyer's choice for travelling on a honeymoon trip to California. She complemented the ensemble with brown accessories and yellow rosebuds en corsage.

The couple will make their home at 4973 Cordova Bay Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey H. Barrick, 621 Judah Street, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Corinne Lillian, to Brian Walter Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Hughes, 3800 Miramontes Drive. The wedding will take place on Friday, Sept. 17 at 8 p.m. in the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints with President Earl Smith officiating. STAR'S WIFE SPEAKS OUT

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Bob Hope, in Toronto with her husband who is headlining the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand show, believes a woman's life should be centred on the home.

But she said that doesn't mean the home should be a woman's only interest.

"It isn't fair for an educated, intelligent girl to be locked away and allowed to become bored. She needs a few hours a day for a job or a hobby."

Mrs. Hope told a press conference Monday she "would like to see show business attract more of the educated young people."

She has four adopted children of her own—three girls and a boy—and the girls seem headed for show business careers themselves.

Linda, 26, is attending school in Paris and hopes to become a film director. Nora, 18, hopes to become an actress, and Kelly, 19, is interested in production. Tony, 25, is a graduate of Harvard Law School and now is serving his term in the United States Air Force.

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Beeching, 3826 Merriman Drive, wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Mary Margaret, to Mr. Gary Thomas Beveridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar G. Beveridge, 1680 Howroyd Street. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Sept. 11, at 2 p.m. in Sacred Heart Church. Rev. J. Planeta will officiate.

TODAY'S RECIPE

GLAZED PEACH TARTS

Six large baked tart shells, 3 medium large peaches, ½ cup water, ½ to 2/3 cup sugar, few grains salt, 1 cup thinly sliced peaches, 4 teaspoons cornstarch and 2 tablespoons cold water.

Blanch and peel peaches, cut in half and remove pits. Heat water, sugar and salt, drop in peach halves, cover and simmer for 1 to 2 minutes, depending on firmness of flesh. Remove peaches and reserve syrup. Drain peaches, cut side down, on a rack. Add sliced peaches to syrup, cover and simmer until slices are very tender, about 5 minutes. Press mixture through a sieve, then measure and, if necessary, add enough water to bring up to 1¼ cups. In saucepan, mix cornstarch and remaining water, add syrup mixture and cook until clear and thickened, 3 to 4 minutes. Cool slightly. Spoon 1 tablespoon of glaze into each tart shell, top with a peach half, cut side down, and cover with 1 to 2 tablespoons more of the glaze. Chill thoroughly. Makes 6 servings.

Note: To make large tart shells use rounds of pastry about 4½ inches in diameter.

In the long run your Packard dealer will save you money and worry

First comes the worry.

Do those new shoes really fit your child? The length and width may be fine, but are they too loose around the heel, or too tight across the instep?

A Packard dealer knows that your child's foot has an individual shape, as well as size. That's why he stocks and sells a shoe that fits in six different places.

You can buy a wide heel or a narrow heel; a high instep or a low instep; a high arch or a low arch. And you get plenty of toe room in every style.

Now the money. Packard shoes cost a little more to buy because they cost more to make. But in the long run, they last longer.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Bicycles have had a great zoom in popularity during recent years. More and more grown-ups are finding them a pleasant form of exercise and transportation. In our country alone it is estimated that many students will be using bikes each day, from kindergarten through college.

Because of car bans and sprawling campuses as well as thrift, the bicycle is today a college favorite. Many colleges have bicycle lanes and bike parking lots. In view of the fact that it is almost time to begin thinking about going back to school, and the number of bikes there will be on the road, it seems appropriate to bring you the following safety rules.

Traffic regulations for bicycles vary from province to province and in some instances even from town to town. The safety officer of your school or the local police department can tell you what the law is in your community.

The following are the bicycle rider's "12 Rules of the Road" which have been approved and accepted by thousands of communities. Learn them for the sake of your safety and that of others.

1. Obey all traffic regulations, signs and lights.

2. Keep to the right and ride in a straight line. Always ride single file.

3. Have a white light in front and a red light or reflector in back.

4. Have a working signaling device, such as a horn or a bell.

5. Give pedestrians the right of way. Avoid sidewalk riding.

6. Look out for parked cars pulling out into traffic. Watch for doors opening on parked cars.

7. Never hitch on other vehicles, stunt or race in traffic.

8. Carry no passengers or objects which interfere with vision or control.

9. Make sure that brakes are functioning smoothly. Keep your bike in perfect operating condition.

10. Look to the right and left at all intersections.

11. Always use proper hand signals for turning or stopping.

12. Don't weave in and out of traffic or swerve from side to side.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Explain!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a newspaper carrier. My problem is that one of my customers went away on vacation without telling me so I kept right on delivering the newspaper. When they came back home and saw all the papers piled up on their porch, they were very angry with me. I told the man that since I had no orders, I thought the best thing to do was to keep on leaving the paper. He called me a "dummy" and threatened to quit the paper. My route is small because of summer anyway, and if this customer quits me I'll be in trouble with my district manager. What should I do?

WORRIED CARRIER.

DEAR WORRIED: Tell your district manager what happened and ask him what the policy of the newspaper is when customers leave town and papers pile up. A collection of newspapers on a porch is an announcement that no one is at home. This is more helpful to burglars than a key to the front door. If the customer quits (and I doubt that he will), you are blameless.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a couple who have been married for six years, have five children and have their marriage certificate framed and hanging in their living room?

JUST ASKING.

DEAR JUST: Framing a marriage certificate is pretty square. Maybe they want the world to know that they are not practising without a licence.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has just come home from a 22-day stay at a hospital, following extensive surgery. Since he has been home, friends come here at all hours to visit him. One couple arrived at 4 p.m. and stayed until 7:30. Since we were not prepared for dinner guests, we just sat through the dinner hour and nobody ate. This was especially hard on my husband. How can people be taught to be more considerate at a time like this?

EXHAUSTED.

DEAR EXHAUSTED: I would be more concerned about my husband's health than teaching insensitive clods "consideration." Visitors who don't know when to go home should be politely told. Your timidity under the circumstances is as inexcusable as your friends' temerity.

DEAR ABBY: I am an amateur orchid grower and I enjoy sharing my flowers with friends, usually as corsages for gala occasions. Could you please instruct women in the proper wearing of an orchid, or any flower for that matter?

Everywhere, I see orchids worn UPSIDEDOWN!

When one has worked over a plant and watched its development for anywhere from four to seven years, it is more than a shock to see the flower worn incorrectly. All flowers should be worn as they grow. Orchids grow with the large, frilled lip positioned at the BOTTOM, and should be worn that way. Thank you.

ORCHIDIST.

DEAR ORCHIDIST: Or to put it more simply—a flower should always look UP at its wearer.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

CBS-TV, which is introducing at least nine new program series during its prime-time weekly schedule, plans to disrupt as many as possible with a list of some 40 entertainment, sports and news specials during the upcoming season.

Stephen

"All in all," said network president John Schneider, "it marks the greatest number of special programs scheduled for presentation on the network in many seasons . . ."

So don't fall in love with any series characters because it could turn out to be a hit-and-miss affair.

Truthfully, many of the specials will be more than worth catching from the National Geographic Society programs, A Salute to Stan Laurel, The Strollin' Twenties with an all-Negro star lineup of Harry Belafonte, Sidney Poitier, Sammy Davis and Diahann Caroll to the Sir John Gielgud one-man Shakespearean program, and many others of diversified nature.

●

Pierre Berton will be the busy boy this season, according to his producer, Elsa Franklin (wife of Stephen Franklin, the Time's Weekend Magazine movie star interviewer). In September, it's off to New York. In late October and early November, it's London, England. In early December, to Washington for interviews with political bigwigs. In January, Hollywood; February, Paris.

Squeezed in betwgen the exciting global stops will be specials from such drab Canadian locales as Ottawa, Montreal and Pierre's place at Kleinburg.

Long Steel Strike Would Hurt Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Government sources indicate that a prolonged steel strike in the United States eventually would hit hard at Canadian industry but the country can withstand a short-term stoppage of American steel supplies.

One senior economist said that Canada is in a much better position today to withstand the effects of an American steel strike than it was five or 10 years ago.

SOME EXPORTS

Canada now produces the equivalent of most of its own steel requirements. Some steel now is exported. But Canada steel depends on imports of special alloys, sizes and shapes.

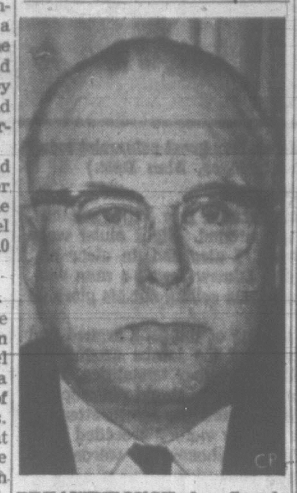

An industry department spokesman said officials have discussed the possible effects on Canada of a steel strike scheduled to begin Tuesday night in the U.S. However, the spokesman said, it is too early to predict the full impact on Canada.

ORDERS PLACED

A trade department official said it seemed apparent that most orders have been placed with Canadian suppliers for big construction projects for the balance of the year, and these would not be seriously affected initially.

However, smaller projects tend to order steel supplies closer to the required date of delivery, and short-term ordering would soon deplete warehouse stocks of steel.

Canadian steel mills have been working for months at close to or in excess of normal capacity.

Special Meet Will Decide Etchells' Pay

Juvenile Detention Home Committee will submit definite proposals to municipal councils before next Wednesday on the case of dismissed superintendent Charles Etchells.

Esquimalt Coun. Gerald Horne, chairman of the committee, told intermunicipal council members Tuesday the committee would hold a special meeting this week to discuss severance pay and salary owed Mr. Etchells.

Committee members agreed to call special council meetings before next Wednesday to dispose of the case.

"We must proceed with as little delay as possible in this matter," said Mayor Wilson.

Mr. Etchells was fired last month over an "unauthorized" holiday from his duties and certain things that took place at the home during his absence.

Reward Offered For Killer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A business partner of a man clubbed to death in Stanley Park has offered a $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of his slayer.

C. W. Kelly, president of Kellys on Seymour Ltd., a record store, announced the reward Tuesday after the death of Nicholas Pierre Williamson.

The victim, a transport department controller at Vancouver International Airport, died in hospital Saturday six hours after he was found bludgeoned near an entrance to the park. A man later questioned by police has been released.

Mr. Kelly said he, Williamson and Barry Spring had completed an agreement Friday whereby the trio would enter into a partnership to expand a small record shop owned by Williamson and Spring in suburban Richmond.

Building Values In Saanich Up At $9.3 Million

Total construction value in Saanich this year is ahead of last year.

Eight-month totals show the value at $9.3 million, compared with $9 million in the same period last year.

But home building is falling off. This year 286 homes have been built, compared with 325 last year.

In August, the value of all construction was $1.1 million, compared with $1.4 million last year.

Nearly half of this was for the $500,000 Red Lion Motor Hotel, now being built on a site adjoining and including the old CCF Hall on Douglas Street.

Ninety-three permits were issued in August, 27 of them for homes worth $401,000. Last August 90 permits were issued, including 37 for homes worth $758,000.

LAST-MINUTE AUCTION N

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

(Dorothy Kilgallen is on vacation. Her guest columnist today is the nightclub entertainer and singer, Alan Dale.)

By ALAN DALE

NEW YORK—The kids screamed and tore at my clothes, I needed a police escort to get around. Night clubs were offering me up to $10,000 a week. I also had an ulcer and hated every minute of it because I knew I was a man who, like all the other stars around me, was selling out his glorious dreams.

I didn't seem to fit into the scheme of things, I argued and fought about important things while the lambs around me roared like lions only about billing or other trivialities. They called me neurotic, hoodlum and, at best, stupid philosopher.

In my autobiography "The Spider and the Marionettes," I say that stardom to me was a shallow victory preceded by a lifetime of illogical, incongruous, dishonorable words and deeds unto others and unto one's self.

All around me my colleagues were living lies and boasting absurdities in the pursuit of nothing! They walked and talked alike. They did and said the same things. These envied creatures who were so easily identified by their admirrs had really lost all identity.

They were wooden soldiers, marionettes who had traded integrity, honor, dignity, pride, personal values and individual choice for collective stardom.

* * *

I was torn by a constant torment as I perceived that there was no way to be a star and a man true to himself. It was one or the other! Some fooled themselves that they would sell out only until they were in a position to change things.

I had tried it their way. I resented it and showed it. But I had tried. It made me sick. There was no meaning. I faced the truth—I was born to entertain, but since I was born I had been able to do nothing that could insure my success as an entertainer.

Whatever reward or happiness was due a performer was out there, among the marionettes. I could not join them without antagonizing them or hating myself. My talent and my sense of values belonged in two separate worlds. These two worlds had meshed together and I was caught in the web of neither!

* * *

Now I had to make this web a home with one final decision or die! I realized that the deterioration of individual values and the sacrifice of personal integrity were voluntary! Some blamed God, Country, the rat race. Nonsense!

I made my decision and it became my own glorious dream which will not be put aside. I demanded the right of individual choice in showbusiness, without irrelevant consequences and without banishment!

I made my decision and they made theirs. Slowly they recognized me as an "outsider," a rebel with a cause which they had abandoned. The doors began to close for me.

Now I am relegated to the many smaller cafes that feature "name" talent in and around New York.

My decision probably means that my boyhood dream of stardom must die. But there comes a tmie when dreams, individuals and, even, nations die.

If that dream must die I must not be sad. I must be proud, instead, because now that the boy has matured to manhood there is a greater dream. The dream that we might grow in number and recognize each other and someday, with multiplying battering rams of integrity, we might slowly penetrate the wall set up by those who insist that all who enter must walk the same way.

The price I paid was to lose the dubious reward called stardom, but I regained my identity. It was better than an even swap!

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Daniel J. E. Szybist, age 12, of Williamsport, Pa., for his question:

How does fire produce heat?

A crackling fire is somewhat like a busy market where something is exchanged for something else. In a market, we exchange money for food and other items. In the fire, fuel is exchanged for flames and heat. It is a chemical change that yields heat energy by converting wood to ashes.

A blazing fire is a very busy chemical operation though most of the activity is invisible. Its original chemicals are molecules of wood, coal or other substances used as fuel. The chemical changes occur within the fuel molecules, and in this scaled down world the changes are stupendous, because these molecules are shattered and exist no more in their original forms.

Let's fancy, for example, a friendly fire of flaming logs. Its fuel is wood, made mostly of cellulose molecules. Like all molecules, they are packages of atoms bound together with ties of energy. Cellulose is a carbohydrate related to the sugary and starchy chemicals. Each of its molecules is a union of atoms of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen.

The energy that binds the molecule packages is strong enough to hold them together at normal temperatures, but heat is a form of energy and in the heat of the fire the wood reaches its kindling point. At this dramatic temperature, the heat severs the bonds that hold the molecule units and the atoms are freed to go their separate ways. The solid wood disappears in exchange for heat and flames and sooty smoke.

Chemicals Always Changing

The operation is a chemical change in which molecules of cellulose break apart into other chemicals. The simpler chemicals may be invisible, but they are not hard to trace. Hydrogen and oxygen are gases, and some of the freed atoms go off and mingle with the other invisible gases of the air. Some of the carbon becomes sooty specks of smoke, and a few woody substances become ashes.

Nothing of the fuel is lost, not even the energy that held its original molecules together. When the molecules shatter, this energy is released as heat. The heat from a fire is merely the freed energy that formerly united the original molecules of fuel.

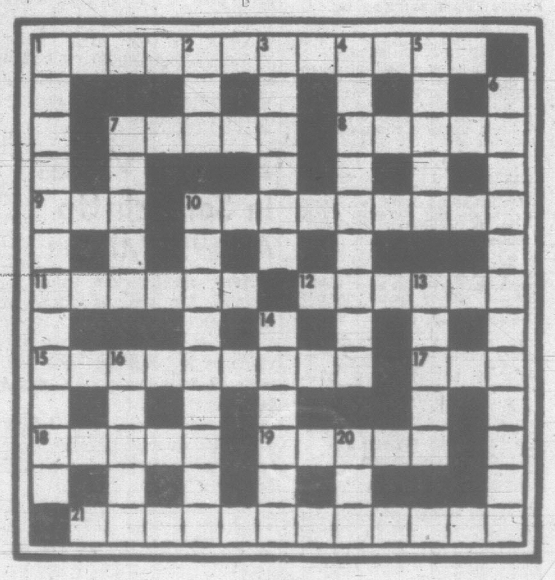

Chemical changes of many kinds work constantly in nature. Some break up molecules, releasing the energy that held them together. These changes account for the processes of rust and decay, fire and the slow combustion our bodies use to get energy from food. Other chemical changes use up energy to create new molecules. Plants use solar energy to make sugar, and similar chemical operations support growth and other tissue activities.

PM Hinting About OAS; No New Move

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite recent statements by Prime Minister Pearson, there is no indication Canada is seriously considering any early move to join the Organization of American States.

Mr. Pearson, who has said for several years he favors the move in principle, raised the subject anew during last week's western trip and used the words "before long" and "soon" to describe the timing he had in mind for Canada's entry into OAS.

Checks with knowledgeable external affairs department officials, however, indicate the prime minister was employing a historian's—if not a politician's—sense of timing in discussing the subject.

"You have to take these statements at their face value," said one external source, "but you shouldn't read anything imminent in them. There's no iceberg of developments lying under the water."

In fact, less than 24 hours before the prime minister addressed his Banff, Alta., audience, another member of his government publicly committed to Canadian membership in the hemispheric organization was "throwing some cold water on the idea of early action.

ALREADY IN FIVE

External Affairs Minister Martin, speaking in Kitchener, Ont., said membership in OAS itself is not "all-important." He noted Canada already has joined five auxiliary organizations, implying that this step-by-step stroll into hemispheric affairs is a fast enough pace for the time being.

Mr. Martin a year ago described Canadian membership in OAS as "part of the ultimate destiny of Canada as a country of this hemisphere."

All in all, these statements seem to some observers to amount to little more than another round in what has become one of the hoariest chestnuts in Canadian foreign affairs.

The idea of this country joining OAS has been kicked about since the 1920s. In recent years, in particular, it has built to periodic peaks under both Mr. Martin and his pro-OAS predecessor, Howard Green, only to subside each time in the face of some new doubt-provoking Latin American crisis.

Under Mr. Green and the Conservative government, OAS membership was jarred by the Cuban crisis and fears that Canada would be confronted with a drive to isolate Premier Fidel Castro with which it did not wholly agree.

GOT A SCARE

For the present administration, the main scare came with recent troubles in the Dominican Republic. In some Canadian eyes, these events showed, at the same time, both the ineffectiveness of the OAS and the constant pressure within it between U.S. and Latin American viewpoints.

"There was no encouragement for us in the Dominican situation," said one external source.

With actual OAS membership still caught in that apparently endless web of "active consideration," the likelihood appears to be more gradual links for Canada with South America, centred on subsidiary organizations, trade and possibly more personal contact at the ministerial level.

This country now belongs to five regional groups covering such subjects as statistics, geography and postal affairs, regularly sends observers to other hemispheric gatherings and has begun to participate indirectly in economic development through the Inter-American Development Bank.

Singapore Back In Family?

LONDON (CP) — Arnold Smith says it is likely that Singapore shortly may become a full member of the Commonwealth.

The Canadian-born diplomat, taking over the reigns of office as the Commonwealth's first secretary-general, said in an interview today he has received Singapore's application for membership and passed this along to member governments for their approval.

The 21-country Commonwealth operates not through a formal vote but through a concensus. Attempts to block Singapore's bid for membership could arise but the 50-year-old Smith said he did not believe this would occur.

Singapore formerly was part of the Malaysia Federation but withdrew earlier this month following continuing differences between the Malayan and Singapore leaders.

The split in the Malaysian Federation and the Indian-Pakistani clash over Kashmir which some observers predict may turn into a military crisis has turned Smith's attention to the Far East. But he emphasized that while he can take an active interest in the Kashmir issue, he cannot intervene.

"I can only intervene in a bilateral issue when I am asked to do so by both sides and this hasn't happened in the Kashmir case," Smith said.

30 Per Cent Of Car Owners Buy Key Tags

Thirty per cent of Greater Victoria's car owners contributed this year to the TB and Chest Disabled Veterans Association key tag campaign.

Association manager G. Roy Wilson reports that 82,300 key tags were mailed to Victoria car owners this year and 24,702 responded to the appeal for contribution.

The average key tag contribution from the area was 66 cents, versus 47 cents for the province.

Up to July 30, the association received $106,171 from British Columbia car owners, $6,000 over last year's campaign for the same period.

Tag proceeds are used to finance year-round work of education, rehabilitation and welfare of chest disabled veterans and their dependents.

For the first time this year the association awarded four scholarships of $500 each to sons and daughters of disabled veterans.

FALLOUT EFFECT NEGLIGIBLE

Little Strontium-90 in Teeth

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto scientists says a five-year study of baby teeth gives proof that the effects on humans of strontium-90 fallout from nuclear weapons has been negligible.

Dr. A. M. Hunt of the University of Toronto said Tuesday the study of more than 30,000 teeth began two years ago after the 1962 nuclear test ban treaty between the United States and Russia. Fallout rose after the treaty signing—because of a reservoir of radioactive material high in the atmosphere—but now is dropping, he said.

Dr. Hunt said his University research team was able to determine that the amount of strontium-90 absorbed by the teeth was so small "as to pose negligible effects." Dr. Hunt is head of the university's dental public health department, and a professor in the dentistry faculty.

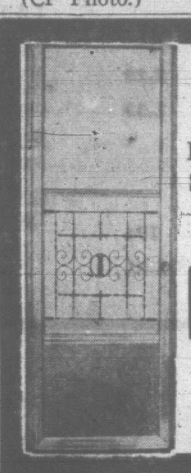

He said the maximum radioactivity measured in any of the teeth the team examined was 60 times lower than the safe limit established by a United Nations study.

The teeth they studied were developed in 1958. Dr. Hunt estimates that teeth now developing may show up to 10 picocuries, still 30 times below the level established as dangerous by the United Nations health authorities. A picocurie is a minute part of a curie, which is the amount of radiation in a gram of radium.

Dr. Hunt said the developing teeth of young children provide a permanent record of the amount of strontium-90 absorbed. When tooth development is complete, no further strontium is absorbed.

His team collected 10,000 teeth from Montreal and Toronto alone. The tooth was accompanied by the child's date of birth, and whether it was a breast- or bottle-fed baby. Breast-fed babies receive slightly less strontium. Cows' milk contains higher amounts because of the animals' grass diet.

Refugee Crisis Blamed on U.S.

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—The Palestine Liberation Organization Tuesday accused the U.S. of creating an artificial financial crisis in the United Nations Relief and Works Agency because it opposes Palestine refugees returning to their homeland.

The organization issued a statement commenting on the announced intention of the U.S. to reduce by $1,800,000 its contribution to the UNRWA budget.

The statement said the U.S. had been prepared to contribute hundreds of millions of dollars for the resettlement of Palestinian refugees in the Arab countries.

"But the insistence of the Palestinians on repatriation and their rejection of individual, collective, agricultural and industrial projects as a substitute to their homeland prompted the United States to create an artificial financial crisis in UNRWA" it added.

Air Battle Rages In Kashmir Crisis

—(AP Wirephoto)

BIGGEST AIRPLANE in world is title for 'Super Guppy'. With cargo capacity of nearly 50,000 cubic feet, the rebuilt Boeing Stratocruiser is seen leaving Van Nuys, Calif., airport on its first flight. It will be put into service ferrying rocket boosters and other cargo too large for conventional planes.

CPR Told To Retain 'Dominion'

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners today ordered the Canadian Pacific Railway to call off its plans to discontinue the Dominion passenger train service Sept. 7.

The board clamped a freeze on the cancellation plan pending a series of public hearings at which the railway and communities along its transcontinental line will be given an opportunity to air arguments for and against the proposed move.

Hearings have been set for Winnipeg Sept. 27, Vancouver Oct. 5, Calgary Oct. 12-13, Regina Oct. 14-15, Ottawa Oct. 19-20-21 and Port Arthur at a date still to be set.

The board is reported to have received a flood of complaints, chiefly from Western Canada, since the CPR's announcement early in August that it planned to abandon the Dominion, its secondary transcontinental passenger train.

It ordered a special study of the situation and decided the complaints warranted a full public investigation. A postponement order was issued after a one - hour board meeting this morning.

REPORT ORDERED

The order instructs the CPR to file with the board by Sept. 15 a complete report of its reasons for wanting to cancel the train.

It asks for details of revenues and expenditures on the Dominion in the period between Jan. 1, 1964, and August of this year, a report on the displacement of employees that might result and the railway's alternative transportation arrangements.

Abandonment of the Dominion would concentrate the CPR's transcontinental passenger traffic on its No. 1 train, the Canadian.

The hearings will also look into complaints that the CPR has been rejecting passenger reservations for sleeping and parlor car space when space was available. The board has ordered the CPR to present a full outline of its reservation procedure.

WE'LL KNOW FOR SURE WITHIN A WEEK—PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today he will announce within a week whether or not a general election will be called this fall.

He told reporters after a cabinet meeting that he hopes he can make the announcement before his self-imposed deadline of next Wednesday.

He set the deadline for such an announcement during his visit last week to Western Canada.

Mr. Pearson said he would not answer any questions today about the possibility of a general election in November, speculation about which has been rampant for several weeks.

Pakistan Troops Cross Line

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (CP) — The government claimed Pakistani air force planes shot down four Indian planes supporting retreating Indian ground forces in Kashmir today.

The official announcement said the air battle took place over the Chamb area, which is inside the Indian sector of Pakistan.

Earlier, a government spokesman said Pakistani Kashmir troops had crossed the ceasefire line in that area and had occupied two Indian posts, Chamb and Deva, six to eight miles inside Indian-held Kashmir.

(In New Delhi, an Indian defence ministry spokesman said that Pakistan infantry supported by U.S. - made Patton tanks attacked Indian positions in the Chamb sector. The spokesman claimed three of the tanks were badly damaged.)

A spokesman for the Pakistan government in Rawalpindi said this had been done to forestall any further Indian aggression.

He said this situation had been forced upon Pakistan by continued Indian aggression across the ceasefire line. "This has left us with no choice except to forestall their further aggressive moves," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said the government of Pakistan considered the present situation "very grave," but responsibility for the gravity of the situation lay squarely upon India, who had been aggressing across the ceasefire line during the last few months and then proudly announcing this.

The spokesman said "from today onward, we are in the fighting."

AYUB ACCUSES

In a broadcast speech, Pakistani President Ayub Khan accused India of blatant acts of aggression in Kahsmir which, he said, would not be allowed to go unchallenged.

The president also rejected the Indian view of fighting there as the work of infiltrators, calling the attitude a pathetic attempt to delude the world.

Ayub said Pakitsan is doing "no more than what we have always pledged to do, which is to support the people of Kashmir in exercising their right of self-determination . . ."

The president said he was making the broadcast under the threat of war which was being forced on Pakistan by India.

He said the people of Kashmir had risen in open revolt and described India's action in crossing the ceasefire lines in Jammu and Kashmir as an adventure in imperialism.

GOV'T SLOWDOWN?

Rising Costs May Hurt B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leaders of the opposition in the legislature said Tuesday a warning by Premier Bennett against financial excesses indicates he is concerned with the rising cost of government projects.

The premier said in a speech at Prince George Monday industry and government leaders must exercise restraint to guard against a recession.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said here the premier made his statement because some government projects are in trouble.

"The costs are ballooning beyond what he told the public and the last session of the legislature," he said.

"He has obviously been given some very sobering information on the effects of rising costs on government projects."

Mr. Perrault suggested the premier could be softening up the public for an announcement of a slowdown in government projects or a cost picture on the Peace River power project.

"Perhaps he is now aware that our dynamic society can be a dynamically expensive society," he said.

BIDS TOO HIGH

New Democrat leader Robert Strachan said the premier's statement indicates he is fearful of the consequences of government policy. Bids on provincial and local projects are too high, he said.

"These estimates are going to cost people millions in extra taxes paid for schools, roads and hospitals.

"The bid on the Mica Dam is $20,000,000 over estimates and that is just for preliminary work.

He said the premier has been successfully hiding much of the Peace project costs in other government accounts.

"Now he's afraid that when it comes time to sell the power the cost is going to be so high that the whole house of cards is going to come down," he said.

The premier told a meeting of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority directors and officials that "a recession builds on itself the same os prosperity.

"Business—private enterprise—must not look for every nickel of profit. Labor leaders, too.

'COULD BE CRASH'

"Unless a balance is kept there could be a crash again."

The premier's warning followed an earlier announcement by Prime Minister Pearson that federal construction projects would be cut back or delayed because of rising costs.

Mr. Bennett warned that if business and labor demand high profits and wages the public could refuse to meet their demands and unemployment and a recession might result.

He warned the public against going overboard on time-payment plans except in cases of "legitimate desires."

WARNING

He said he was issuing his warning after sizing up the situation in B.C., particularly the rising cost of construction.

Hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum has reported costs up 25 per cent. He said about 1,000 men working at the Portage Mountain dam get $5 and $6 every day for the time they spend riding to and from their jobs. The men are paid double time for everything over an eight-hour day.

"Wages are minor compared to the fringe benefits," he said.

John McNiven, assistant secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labour, said wage costs are only a small percentage of rising costs.

"I don't think construction unions are asking too much."

HOSPITAL PLEA IGNORED BY PREMIER

CHETWYND (CP)—Premier Bennett stayed in his railway car here Tuesday night while local residents pressed to see him about a hospital for the area.

A hospital committee said it had contacted the Premier through Stan Carnell, MLA for South Peace, but had received no reply.

The committee says there is only one trained first aid man in this northeastern B.C. community, although there are 700 children of school age.

The nearest hospital is at Dawson Creek, 65 miles away.

Statistics Back Boom Prediction

A monthly review by the provincial bureau of statistics released today showed early-year business activity reports back up Premier Bennett's prediction this year will see B.C.'s biggest boom.

"During May and June the provincial economy remained buoyant in most sectors with indications that 1965 will be a record year," the release from Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark's office said.

It reported that the average industrial weekly wage in May advanced to within two cents of $100, an increase of 5.6 per cent a year. Total labor income that month rose 14 per cent to $223 million. Unemployment fell to 3.7 per cent when the labor force rose by 24,000 persons who found work in July.

Island Crisis Ends; All Sign Peace Pact

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The Organization of American States won a full agreement today terminating the four-month Dominican crisis.

The peace formula ensured the installation of a provisional government Friday as a first step toward general elections in nine months.

Rebel leaders cheered the peace plan. Heads of the armed forces, taking over after the rival civilian - military junta stepped aside, pledged full support to the provisional government.

The peace proposal was signed first by the insurgent regime behind rebel lines Tuesday night. Then Dominican armed forces leaders, meeting at the headquarters of the junta, signed a declaration of support for the peace plan and the provisional government.

The agreement followed nearly three months of peace efforts by the three-man OAS political committee of ambassadors Ellsworth Bunker of the United States, Ramon de Clairmont Duenas of El Salvador and Ilmar Penna Marinho of Brazil.

WILL BECOME PRESIDENT

The formula calls on lawyer-diplomat Hector Garcia-Godoy, 44, to become president of the interim regime. He will be installed Friday.

His provisional government will negotiate withdrawal of the OAS peace force, composed of 9,000 U.S. and 2,000 Latin American troops, still patrolling the battle-scarred capital.

The peacekeeping troops took over after the initial U.S. intervention in the rebellion which erupted April 24 in an abortive effort to bring former president Juan D. Bosch back to power.

U.S. ADMITS SENDING APOLOGY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department today acknowledged that State Secretary Rusk had written a letter of apology to Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew for the "improper activities" of certain U.S. officials in Singapore.

Lee has said a bribe of 10,000,000 Malaysian dollars ($3,200,000) had been offered to him by the U.S. government to keep quiet about the arrest of an American Central Intelligence Agency official from Bangkok who sought to buy secret information in Singapore.

In confirming the Rusk letter, state department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said that a formal denial made Tuesday by the state department was in error.

McCloskey said that "those who were consulted within the government on this matter yesterday were not fully aware of the background of an incident that occurred 4½ years ago."

"The secretary did write a letter expressing this government's regret over the incident," McCloskey said.

McCloskey refused to discuss the subject or comment further.

In another press conference Tuesday Lee said that if the United States did not retract its denial of his original charge he would name the intermediary "who tried to bribe me."

NGUYEN KY

'S. Viet Nam Not Ready For Talks'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times reports today that South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said his country was "not ready now" to begin peace negotiations.

In a dispatch from Saigon, The Times quotes Ky, in an interview, as saying Tuesday that South Viet Nam would not begin negotiations until there were firm guarantees that North Vietnamese troops would leave his country and that U.S. troops would stay until Saigon asked them to leave.

Ky also told The Times his regime was not yet ready to face the expected threat of Communist political agitation after a negotiated cease-fire.

His regime could not face this threat until it has time to start overcoming what he called the many social and economic injustices in South Viet Nam, Ky indicated.

Ottawa Bids to Halt Strike at CN Hotels

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today a cabinet committee has been set up to deal with the question of payment of minimum wages of $1.25 an hour to employees of Canadian National Railways hotels.

The CNR has refused to apply the $1.25 wage minimum to its seven hotels, claiming it has no legal backing for its insistence the hotel chain does not come under federal law.

Employees of the Chateau Laurier here are threatening to begin a wildcat strike on Labor Day if the CNR does not apply the minimum, laid out in the new federal labor code, to end-of-August pay cheques.

Workers at other CNR hotels are reported ready to stage sympathy walkouts.

'WON'T HAVE PEARSON PLAN RAMMED DOWN OUR THROAT'

Strike Threat Hurled by Doctor

A thinly-veiled threat of a Saskatchewan-style doctors strike against the proposed national medicare program was hurled at the federal government Tuesday by a leading Victoria doctor.

In a public speech, Dr. G. Scott Wallace bitterly attacked Prime Minister Pearson's motives and universal medicare plan — using such terms as "bastard" and "complete abortion" to describe his view of the proposal.

"Although I represent no official body of the medical profession today, I can soberly and seriously warn all politicians — federal, provincial and any other kind—that doctors will not accept any particular medicare scheme as a fait accompli and then have it rammed down their throats," he said.

"If such stubborn and short-sighted attitude by government had not prevailed in Saskatchewan in 1962, the unfortunate impasse between doctors and government, with all its attendant bitterness and suffering to public, doctors and politicians alike, need never have arisen."

Dr. Wallace told the luncheon meeting of Victoria Kiwanis Club that "many of the opinions" he was expressing were entirely personal and he was not representing any organization.

(However, the Victoria Medical Association some time ago appointed him as one of two official spokesmen as far as press enquiries are concerned.)

Dr. Wallace said he and many doctors quarrel with the Pearson plan on two counts: That it will provide coverage for all persons even if they can afford to pay; and that the government had not asked the doctors to participate in planning the program.

"Doctors thus can be forgiven for harboring a deep distrust of federal politicians who appear, for political motives mainly, to be hell-bent to conceive a national medicare scheme, to supervise its confinement and delivery and then expect the doctors to rear and develop their child, even if this offspring proves to be a bastard.

"If delivered with the haste which has characterized recent announcements, their conception might even prove to be a complete abortion."

Dr. Wallace said he and many other doctors are opposed to the welfare-statism philosophy inherent in a compulsory medicare plan although they agree with the object of providing medical services to those who cannot afford it.

He said the federal government should care for those that cannot afford the costs and, in addition, should concentrate its spending on providing more and better training schools and facilities for doctors and nurses.

Dr. Wallace described Ha-

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1965—PAGE 23

BACK FROM THE PNE are South Pacific and owner Bob Shanks to seek more laurels at the Saanichton Fair this weekend.

FORMER RACE HORSE FINDS NEW CAREER IN RING

Win, Place and Now It's All Show

• • •

A nine-year-old big, brown, beautiful ex-race horse who won her share in three years of campaigning, has hit the high spots in a new career as a show horse.

Her name on the tracks was Wonder Roll which has been changed for the show ring to South Pacific.

Purchased nearly three years ago at a dispersal sale on the mainland by Bob and Marjory Shanks, 4111 Cedar Hill Road, South Pacific returned home from the Pacific National Exhibition Tuesday with two major championships — the "Queen" of Thoroughbreds at the exhibition and the top hunter of the show.

In the first win she was shown in hand, and in the hunter championship she compiled top points in performance over jumps as well as in conformation, and condition.

CLOSE CONTEST

Both Mr. and Mrs. Shanks rode her in hunter events leading to the championship which she won in a nip and tuck battle with a mainland half-Thoroughbred well known in show rings here, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wright's Copper Cal of Richmond.

South Pacific won the ladies' hunter and open hunter classes, was fourth in hunter hack and fifth in conformation hunter under saddle.

DARBYSHIRE BRED

The mare, who has been working out over the trails of Mount Douglas Park for show ring condition, was bred as Wonder Roll by the late Dr. K. R. Darbyshire of Victoria.

Other island horses showed well at the P.N.E., among them another Thoroughbred, Lady Associate, who was ridden by Allison Robb of McTavish Road.

NOVICE WIN

"The Lady" won the novice hack class, was second in show hack, and placed third in the female Thoroughbred halter class. Second place to South Pacific in the latter class, bringing the first three ribbons to the island, was Lucera owned and ridden by Miss Peter Williams of Victoria. Lucera was fourth in registered model Canadian hunter class.

In the Morgan section of the exhibition horse shows, Jet Traveller owned by E. B. Pallister of Millstream Road took a second ribbon in Western pleasure, a third in stallion two years and over and a fourth in Morgan horse performance.

ARTHUR MAYSE ON VACATION

IT STARTED HOT BUT PETERED OUT

August came in with a sizzle and left with a shiver this year here.

Its first day was its hottest, with a temperature of 76.7 degrees. Coolest was Aug. 29 when the mercury hit 46.8.

Last month, which usually ranks second to July in sunshine, failed to produce its normal quota this year.

The total of sunny hours was only 223.6, compared to the average of 298, and August 1964's total of 256, according to figures compiled by the Dominion weather bureau on Gonzales Hill.

Insurance Firms Ease Restrictions

Insurance companies are shifting their stance to provide coverage for more B.C. motorists, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

He said this was a direct result of a recent top-level meeting between car insurance company representatives and his department.

Informal assessments of the insurance market showed that the "partial famine" of car insurance policies in B.C. was being eased, Mr. Bonner said.

"The problem was to convince the head offices of these companies that a problem was taking shape in this province and they should take steps to correct it," he recalled.

IMPROVEMENT

"I think there is an improved situation to be seen now and the full measure probably will be in view by late autumn."

Before the meeting, the attorney-general had accused insurance companies of trying to rule off the road all drivers except "little old ladies" who presented almost no insurance risks.

Mr. Bonner this morning said he did not raise the possibility of the government itself entering the car insurance field when he met the company representatives.

"It was not discussed," he said. "Our purpose was to discuss the availability of insurance."

City Postmen To Vote Against 'Fumbling Chiefs'

The two Victoria delegates to the Canadian Postal Employees Association convention next month likely will support a movement to oust three national leaders.

The Vancouver branch of the association has voted to instruct its delegates to the Oct. 22 convention in Toronto to vote for anyone who runs against president Les Hood, secretary-treasurer Godfrey Cote and national secretary Rick Otto.

"I imagine it will be the same here," said Gerald Kenny, president of the Victoria branch.

"The feeling in Victoria is that there was a lot of fumbling and bungling by national leaders in the recent strike."

Flashy PNE Showing Sets Up 4-H Teams For Saanichton Fair

It's out of one fair and into another for south Vancouver Island members of 4-H (Junior Farm) Clubs.

Back from the Pacific National Exhibition with a large share of awards and ribbons, members of beef, dairy, home arts, sheep, goats, tractor and garden clubs are preparing for a big weekend at the Saanichton Fair.

They will have their big day on Monday, Labor Day, at Saanichton, although they will have their animals on display all weekend. Open showing at the fair this year is on opening day, Saturday.

While all local clubs won attention at the PNE this year, the most outstanding performance was turned in by a new Saanich club—the Saanich Peninsula 4-H Beef Club.

Led by Mrs. Tom O'Reilly of Woodwynn Farm, West Saanich, the club includes a number of 4-H "veterans" who decided to change from dairy to beef last year.

●

Among its wins was in project demonstrations where its team of Susan Street and Cathy Godfrey scored highest over 34 other clubs.

The club also won the 4-H herdsmanship competition which includes daily judging of its show stall for cleanliness, neatness and general presentation of animals and equipment.

The young "beef-eaters" were awarded the Vancouver Kiwanis Club trophy for the most points in herdsmanship, demonstrations and showmanship.

Grand champion senior showman of the beef section was one of the club's older members, Ken Smith. Another member, Greg Baker, was second in senior beef showmanship. And still another member, Steve Dorran, won the junior beef showmanship competition.

The club placed second in inter-club competitions, and two of its members won third-place ribbons for their animals standing in the ring—Shirley Raper in the heavyweights and Susan Street in the middleweights.

Another beef club, the Three-S (Sooke, Sidney, Saanich) Beef Club, came away with a number of ribbons also, and was a high fourth in the project demonstrations. A senior member, Don Alberg, was third in showmanship.

●

Metchosin 4-H Sheep Club was first in herdsmanship while the Saanich 4-H Sheep Club was third.

A popular win for the Saanich 4-H Jersey Calf Club was Kathy Tribe's grand champion calf. Miss Tribe will receive a registered calf from the mainland herd of William Savage as part of her prize.

Saanich 4-H Goat Club won two firsts—in herdsmanship and in judging. In the latter Margaret Lord won a silver medal.

Saanich clubs banded together to enter two groups in square dancing, one of which took first place in dancing and first in dress.

Saanich Must Stick With Central Court

HEAVY TRAVEL

Busy, Busy Weekend In Offing

Victoria seems set for one of the busiest Labor Day weekends in its history.

Most downtown hotels are booked out, reservations on buses and planes are heavy and record traffic is expected on the B.C. government ferries.

Weekend attractions include the famous Saanichton Fair, track racing at Western Speedway, concerts in Beacon Hill Park and a province-wide archery contest at Hampton Park and Colwood.

Labor Day being the last public holiday before schools reopen, Victoria attracts thousands of visitors from not-too-distant points.

"Starting Friday, we expect heavy loads off the steamer from Seattle," said Leslie Parkinson, manager of the Empress Hotel, "and most of our rooms are booked.

BEST SEASON

"We are winding up our best season since 1962 and this could be the busiest Labor Day weekend we have ever had."

Other downtown hotels, including the Dominion, the Strathcona and Douglas Hotels, report capacity bookings.

From Friday to Monday, Air Canada will operate six extra flights daily between here and Vancouver and Seattle.

"Reservations are coming in fast," a spokesman said, "and there is every indication we shall get heavy loads from both Seattle and Vancouver."

Vancouver Coach Lines are also preparing for record traffic, with extra buses operating on all routes.

"Every passenger will be taken care of," said manager Conway Parrott. "Buses will be laid on according to the need."

The hourly service on the B.C. government ferries will continue until Sept. 12.

FAIR CROWDS

Record crowds are expected at Saanichton Fair and there will be track racing at Western Speedway, Millstream, Saturday and Monday, including the fifth annual Daffodil Cup race for two-day total points.

Victoria Bowmen will be hosts to more than 100 archers from all parts of the province and a team from Portland. They will compete in a targets championship at Hampton Park, Tillicum and Burnside, Saturday at 9 a.m. and a field championship at the Dockyard archery range, Wilfert Road, Colwood, Monday at 9 a.m.

At the Beacon Hill Park bandshell Sunday at 2:30 p.m., there will be a concert by Irving Lozier and his Dixieland Band, Mary Grant and Norma McCurdy.

Monday at 2:30 p.m. a concert will be given by a 30-piece Musicians' Union orchestra conducted by James Fraser.

The special illuminations at Butchart Gardens will continue through the weekend. The colorful Just for Fun revue will be staged at 8:15 p.m. Friday, and there will be puppet shows at 7:30 and 9 p.m. Saturday and 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Victoria Symphony Orchestra will give a free open-air concert in Centennial Square Sunday at 3 p.m.

MORRAN WALLER
. . . the man next door

No. 2 Clerk Job Still Vacant

The sign on the office door at city hall reads: "For Rent. Apply next door."

Next door is the office of Morran Waller, Victoria's new city clerk and the sign is posted on the door of the assistant city clerk's office which he vacated Tuesday.

The position of assistant city clerk as not yet been filled and the city clerk's office is operating with a staff of three persons, Mr. Waller, a departmental secretary and another secretary.

Retired city clerk Frank Hunter last week offered to continue working for an extra month to catch up on the work load which he said was far behind schedule.

His offer was declined.

Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of the Civic Service, said: "We cannot impose our problems on one who has given so ably of his time and talents. We deeply appreciate the magnificent offer and the deep sense of loyalty which prompted it."

The city has advertised unsuccessfully up to this time for an assistant city clerk.

Bonner Not Swayed By Reeve's Protest

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today indicated Saanich will not be able to back out of a centralized magistrate's court just because it will be moved into downtown quarters.

But he pointed out there is a possibility the centralized family and juvenile court session will be held in the Saanich facilities, if the municipality consents.

Mr. Bonner also hinted that an entirely new aspect may be introduced soon—a centralized prosecutor's office. He said the municipalities may, in time, realize the logic of such a move which would both save them money and improve efficiency.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis recently wrote the attorney-general's department to protest the decision to move the centralized magistrates court from the Saanich police building into the new and larger quarters built in Victoria's Centennial Square. The letter said Saanich wanted its cases to be heard in its own courtroom.

'WON'T BE IDLE'

Mr. Bonner, answering a Times' inquiry today, said:

"The principle of a centralized court was established in this area when, for a time, all cases were heard in the Saanich courtroom.

"But with the introduction of new and larger facilities, the thinking is that the centralized court should move into the new quarters.

"However, the facilities which Saanich has are not expected to become idle."

He explained a study is under way to see if Saanich's courtroom would be suitable, physically, for accommodating the family court.

'LOGICAL OUTCOME'

Mr. Bonner also said that centralization of the prosecuting services "would be a logical outcome although, perhaps, more difficult to achieve" under the new set-up which includes appointment of a three-magistrate bench for the joint court.

"In a small and integral unit there really is no need for a variety of prosecuting staffs and this is one area where intermunicipal co-operation could produce more efficiency and less cost to the individual municipalities."

He said this was his department's thinking on the subject and it was hoped to enter joint discussions with the Greater Victoria councils—in time.

'He Would Have Ended Up In Hospital'

Two inmates who planned a breakout at the Juvenile Detention Home on the night of Aug. 2 said today if the guard had not obtained a gun they would have escaped.

They gave evidence at the trial of the guard, Kenneth Russell, who is accused of unlawfully pointing a gun.

One witness said: "I think he (Russell) would have ended up in the hospital."

The other agreed with defence lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood that, if Russell had not obtained the gun, "there would have been a tragedy that night."

Both youths gave their testimony under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act, which means their evidence may not be used in support of any charge against them.

LEFT ALONE

The 15-year old said he found out that Russell did not know judo and then asked the night matron to go out and buy him candy so that Russell would be left alone at the home.

This witness admitted, under cross-examination by Mr. Owen-Flood, that he has a record for assaulting his mother, his sister, a teacher and a police officer, and that he has also been convicted of car theft and escaping from custody.

He said that if Russell had not got a gun he would have attacked him that night and escaped.

HIT OVER HEAD

The other witness, who is 16, said he was asked to join the breakout by the first witness and another inmate. He said the plan was to lure Russell from the kitchen into the recreation room where he would be hit over the head with a piece of wood.

The witness said his friends planned to obtain Russell's keys and get out. He said, "I might have gone along."

The witness said the plan misfired because Russell refused to leave the kitchen and go into the recreation room. He said the inmates started shouting and fighting in an attempt to lure him.

The witness said Russell left the kitchen and came back with a gun. He said Russell cocked the gun and pointed it through the partition from the kitchen at one youth's head. But, he added, Russell did not have his finger on the trigger.

The youth said the incident was caused by the planned breakout. He added that if Russell had not had the gun "I think he would have ended up in the hospital."

PAST SECONDARY LEVEL

Student Meet Calls For Free Education

Times reporter Sue Pelland, one of four University of Victoria delegates at a national student conference, reports on the proceedings.

By SUSAN PELLAND

Free education for all students past the secondary level in Canada was urged this morning by delegates to a student conference in Lennoxville, Que.

A motion calling for elimination of all "direct financial barriers" to higher education was passed 25 to nine by one of three commissions at the 29th Congress of the Canadian Union of Students.

Direct financial barriers to a university education were defined as tuition fees, cost of room and board, books and travelling expenses.

MAJOR POLICY

After going to the student congress as a whole for approval later today, the motion will be adopted as a major policy by the student organization.

Immediate goal is the elimination of tuition fees.

Proposed by McGill University delegates, the motion received thunderous applause from the students.

The Congress is attended by 200 student delegates from 40 member universities of CUS across Canada.

Quebec universities, who have formed their own organization, are not represented.

ACTION PROGRAM

Later today western delegates, including those from the University of Victoria, will present an "action program" for putting the first motion into effect.

CUS hopes to achieve increased financial aid for students by drawing attention of both federal and provincial governments to their cause.

'Arf and 'Arf For City's Beer Parlors

More than half the beer parlors in Greater Victoria were shut this morning.

Heavy demands were reported at several pubs, quickly drying up depleted stocks caused by the 10-day strike of 500 brewery workers.

A spokesman for Local 513 of the Beverage Dispensers Union said about 100 members including permit, or temporary, men are out of work.

The rest of the beer parlors were expected to be closed by the weekend, although several are rationing supplies to regular customers only.

In Vancouver, two liquor stores sold 1,800 cases of beer brought from a strike-free brewery in Prince George in one hour.

There was no report of a similar importation into beerless liquor stores in Victoria, although at least one has an order in.

RATIONED

Four taverns on the mainland have managed to stay open by limiting customers to one beer every four hours. The other 124 pubs were closed, leaving 1,500 waiters and tap men without work.

Underseas Gardens Stay Put As Spat Ended With Marina

Oak Bay Marina and the Undersea Gardens have settled their differences over a new lease following a two-hour meeting called by former Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch.

Charles White, owner of the Gardens, and Bob Wright, operator of the marina, said they met and "settled all the points that stood between us."

A new lease has been signed which remains unchanged from the old lease and the Undersea Gardens will continue to operate on its present site.

30-DAY NOTICE

Several weeks ago marina president Wright had given the Undersea Gardens 30 days to vacate their present site following a breakdown in lease negotiations.

Garden officials said they would move and establish the tourist attraction elsewhere.

African Girls Get 'Back to Nature' Call

Sandpaper Treatment for Ruby Lips

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

ZOMBA, Malawi — Figure-hugging skirts, tight sweaters and makeup can get an African girl into trouble these days.

Many black African countries, traditionally touchy about how their womenfolk appear in public, have declared war on some types of artificial glamor.

Hip-swinging African girls who try to imitate their white Western counterparts are coming under heavy fire, not only from their menfolk but also their governments.

"Back to nature," was the call from one government-controlled African newspaper, deploring the use of Western beauty aids.

African youths in the Malawi capital, Zomba, took the law into their own hands, scouring the city for sexily-dressed girls.

Tight-fitting dresses were ripped off. Lipstick-smeared mouths were scrubbed with sandpaper.

●

In neighboring Zambia, the government stepped in. Dozens of girls were brought before the country's ruling political party and warned that disciplinary action would be taken if they continued to use revealing dresses and makeup.

Tight jeans, short skirts, peeking petticoats and high-heeled shoes are definitely out, they were told.

Some Tanzanian males consider un-African all forms of artificial aids to beauty. Many a smartly-dressed girl has been warned that Western beauty aids are a legacy of colonial days and undermine new-found African freedom.

Some of South Africa's more sophisticated girls spend hours in hair-straightening salons, but many are having second thoughts about whether it's all worthwhile.

Razor-wielding African youths shaved the locks of straight-haired girls recently.

Kenya is also up in arms. Many girls found themselves in jail when a roundup of sirens took place in Nairobi.

One African newspaper headlined the question: "Why do you girls use lipstick and powder? Are you ashamed of being African? Take it off."

By JOHN G. NORRIS

WASHINGTON — U.S. Marines in Viet Nam are finding their Ontos multi-barrel anti-tank gun—an army cast-off—to be ideal for fighting the Viet Cong even though the Communist foe has no tanks.

Ontos has become well-nigh the indispensable weapon in Viet Nam, Marine officers say, employed in ways for which it was not designed. The self-propelled lightly armored vehicle can stay out of range of enemy small arms fire and blow concrete bunkers, pill-boxes and fortified huts to shambles.

"It's the greatest thing since sliced bread," commented one enthusiastic marine regimental commander just back from Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The army developed the weapon after the Second World War to fight tanks. It dubbed it Ontos—Greek for The Thing. When it was ready, army chiefs decided to scrap it. They decided the best anti-tank weapon was another tank, or a single recoiless rifle carried on a jeep or by infantrymen.

But the Marine Corps liked the army reject and bought it to fight tanks on a beachhead. Six 106-millimeter recoilless rifles are mounted on the 9½ ton tracked vehicle, each packing the wallop of an artillery shell. It can climb a 60 per cent grade, crawl over a 30-inch vertical obstacle and plow through two feet of water at its 30 miles-an-hour top speed.

★ ★ ★

One feature is a new ammunition-saving aiming device. The gunner of the three-man crew fires a .50 calibre spotting rifle, coupled by co-axial mount to the 106-millimeter firing tubes. When he hits the target, another pull of the trigger puts the artillery in the bulls-eye with pinpoint accuracy. Each marine regiment has 15 Ontos.

Army officials are watching the successful performance of the Ontos with interest but say they have no present intention of ordering any.

'The Old Man' Makes Way For 'The Chief'

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — Probably the most important result of John Diefenbaker's cautious pre-campaign flutter into French Canada has been its effect on Conservative Party morale outside Quebec.

Newman

What gives a leader his internal political leverage is the amount of control he can exercise over the party machine. The doers and shakers of his party must be willing to minimize their individual differences for the sake of maintaining hs leadership.

By demonstrating that he's still a great campaigner, Diefenbaker has provided Conservative workers in Ottawa and across the country with a badly needed psychological lift. The party is far from united behind him, but he has once again established his claim as "The Chief" and is no longer being dismissed cavalierly as "The Old Man."

Reconciliation

Already, the reconciliation process is under way. Several of Diefenbaker's former enemies in the party have been informally approached to stand with him, this one last time. And even hardheaded Conservatives are beginning to talk softly in sentences that begin, "if we win . . ."

Last week's journey into politically hostile Quebec displayed the sense of renewal sparked in the man from Prince Albert by his clamorous contact with "the people."

If his magic can so effectively penetrate the barriers of language and background, what's to stop him from becoming once again an irresistable political force in the rest of the country?

The answer may be that the voters will perceive the fact that the Diefenbaker of the platform in soaring rhetorical flight becomes an indecisive and timorous Diefenbaker when faced with the problems bewildering this nation.

The John Diefenbaker who is irresistible as a campaigner is demonstrably inept as a governor.

He is a politician who belongs to the era of the barricades but finds himself operating in the age of the bureaucrats.

It was this insoluble dichotomy which toppled the Conservative regime so soon after Diefenbaker gained his overwhelming parliamentary majority in 1958. In that great campaign, John Diefenbaker centred in himself the nation's power and hopes. But when his time for greatness came, he dissipated his mandate and the administration he headed never achieved any clear purpose, except to perpetuate its power.

Many of Diefenbaker's postures on public issues look far better in retrospect than they did at the time. His failure was not so much the curse of bad policies as an inability to carry on the ordinary functions of government.

Fashionable

It is now becoming fashionable in some sectors of the Canadian academic community to follow the thesis of George Grant's "Lament for a Nation," in which he blames Diefenbaker's defeat on the intervention of the U.S. state department and the influence of Canadian corporations controlled by American parent companies.

But as Prof. W. L. Morton, himself a leading conservative philosopher-historian has written, "the truth is that Diefenbaker was defeated by his own incompetence as prime minister. He was the most inadequate of Canadian prime ministers since Mackenzie Bowell." (Bowell who was prime minister from 1894 to 1896 was so ineffectual that the business of government virtually ground to a halt during his stewardship. He was forced to resign when half of his ministers left the cabinet in protest.)

John Diefenbaker's greatest challenge is to convince the opinion-makers of this country that he has changed, that he now believes in government as well as politics.

One difficulty he faces in such a massive conversion is the doubtful quality of his potential cabinet team. With the exception of Alvin Hamilton, most of his really able former ministers are either dead, out of politics or disillusioned with his leadership.

Still, the Conservatives' problems don't make the questionable ethics or shaky performance of the Pearson team look any better. The main question for the voters will be to decide which party is more capable of basic reforms.

International Hit for Canada

STOCKHOLM — A $250,000-movie series that Canadians paid for but won't see is getting rave notices here at the third United Nations' Crime Congress.

The six movies — in both English and French — have lots of four-letter words and sex references.

There is violence and brutality.

The Swedes want to buy or rent them.

U.S. Solicitor-General Thurgood Marshall is going to recommend them to President Lyndon Johnson.

And A. J. MacLeod, QC, Canadian Commissioner of Penitentiaries, and National Film Board producer Wally Hewitson are walking a few feet off the ground.

Guard Training

The movie series for the Department of Justice is one intended for the training of new prison guards.

It is unique in the world and was pushed through by MacLeod, at a federal cost of $250,000 and with considerable misgivings by some officials.

But from reaction here in the first overseas showing—there was only one other showing and that in Vancouver last month—the money was well spent and some of it could be recouped.

One movie runs almost an hour and the five others about a half hour.

Apart from a few professional actors, the rest of the cast are convicts. But the movies have a high professional quality.

The men agreed to have themselves appear on the understanding that the films would not be shown for public viewing, and that's why the average Canadian will not see them.

But they would make good television viewing any time as dramatized documentaries.

Each film has a story line, and there is background music for dramatic effect, but both MacLeod and Hewitson point out all incidents portrayed are based on fact.

The movies convey many moods. The clang of the gates shutting at Kingston Penitentiary have a chilling effect. Long shots of the walls and armed guard, and the tiers of cells with their open toilets, show the stark realization of man behind bars.

The movies were shot at Kingston and St. Vincent de Paul in Montreal. And in their showing Canada admits frankly that some of its institutions are not as up to date and modern as would be liked.

Shows Escape

One movie shows how an escape—again based on fact—was made, and how slipshod checking and the lack of routine procedural methods made it possible.

Another shows the different types of inmates a new guard will meet and work with—tough guys, manipulators, and the feeble and misfits that are to be found anywhere, anytime.

One scene shows a diversion made by prisoners while others crowd around to slash the throat of an informer. The series is stark, if not beautiful.

It is impressed on the penitentiary service recruits that prisons can be places full of hate and tension, with the two distinct factions—those incarcerated and those in charge—with no middle ground.

But the series does not convey a feeling of hopelessness in either the system or the men it confines.

The movie points out that guards, using the right approach and motives, can possibly help change a prisoner's attitude and increase his chances of rehabilitation hopes.

There was a special screening of one movie to the whole congress and it was received with acclaim. Some British penal experts also were highly impressed.

Another showing at the Canadian Embassy in Stockholm brought along Solicitor-General Marshall and a large delegation, with invited representatives from some other of the 80 nations at the congress.

First Mistake

Marshall watched one showing the early careers of three new guards. The movie shows how one is too strict, another too pliant, and how only one uses his authority well and commands prisoners respect.

"Oh no," said Marshall as he watched the weak man making his first mistake by taking a cigarette from a prisoner. The guard later is trapped into becoming a smuggler for the prisoners.

After the showing, the solicitor-general—the first Negro in the U.S. to attain a cabinet post—said he will recommend to the President that the U.S. obtain the films for training of its new guards.

U.S. Judge Luther Youngdahl, former governor of Minnesota, is a member of the president's 19-man National Crime Commission.

He said he will recommend to Johnson that the committee travel to Canada to view the movies, and that they be incorporated into the U.S. system.

The Swedes, who pride themselves on a progressive system of penology, also want them, and other countries are voicing interest.

And all this is sweet music to the Canadian delegation, particularly MacLeod and Hewitson.

"We are trying to do something different and worthwhile and I think we have achieved it," said MacLeod.

MACLEOD
. . . sweet music

Hewitson, a 45-year-old British-born producer now living in Montreal, spent about 18 months in planning and filming.

Hewitson said the film making was a welcome diversion for the inmates.

"And there are a few of them that professional theatre could use," he said.

The Canadian Penitentiary Series will never win an Oscar, but it's winning acclaim.

The Weaker Sex And Its Balance of Power

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Modern woman has been lifted out of the obscurity of the ages and exalted to a position of unprecedented privilege and power. The destiny of the human race is largely in her hands; the weight of the future is largely on her shoulders.

Forbes

The man who expressed these ideas was sitting in an easy chair sipping after-dinner coffee. With him were men and women he knew well. They had talked together like this on many occasions.

Something had happened to women in the last 50 years, he insisted. Something full of destiny and danger.

To prove his point he quoted Will Durant, the American philosopher: "When the historian of the future looks back across the period which we call the modern age to evaluate the many revolutionary changes which have come to pass within it, he will set forth as one of the most important and far-reaching of all, the change that has come to pass in the status and position of women."

★ ★ ★

This after-dinner host dipped into ancient history to show how women had for centuries been "subject to the will of their masters."

"She was not a person," he reminded us. "She could not call her soul her own. She belonged to somebody. She was subject to the will of another. She was held under bondage."

At this point his wife said softly: "In some parts of the world womankind is in that condition still."

"Ah-h-h-h!" said her husband. "But the majority of women have been emancipated, exalted, and given new freedom. You can't deny that."

Talk became general as everyone tried to pinpoint the different ways in which women hav been emancipated.

Education came first, of course. Modern woman goes to school and college. We are so accustomed to this that it's hard to realize there was a time when she did not enjoy this privilege.

Only a little over 100 years ago half the women, even in the Western world, could not read or write. They signed the marriage register with an "X." Our British forefathers gave us the Magna Charta, yet British freedom did not include the right of women to share in education.

Politically, the modern woman has been emancipated. She goes to the polls. She has a voice and a vote. She can hold public office in her own right.

It was only in 1918 that women were given the vote in Britain and in 1920 that they received it in North America.

From a legal standpoint women have been emancipated. A little over 100 years ago a woman couldn't sue anybody, couldn't own anything, couldn't even inherit anything.

Everything she had naturally and automatically belonged to her husband and father.

"Don't forget that we've been emancipated economically," said the hostess as she refilled the coffee cups.

"That's right," said a businessman. "Insurance companies tell us that more than half the wealth of the nation is owned today by women."

He put his cup down and started to tick off some points on his fingers.

"They buy and sell real estate, diddle about with stocks, and they've got healthy savings accounts.

"They are responsible for at least three-fourths of the money spent on consumer goods and their collective holdings amount to billions of dollars."

"Modern woman has come of age vocationally too," said another voice.

★ ★ ★

"She not only goes to college, goes to the polls, goes to the bank to cash her own cheque and her husband's, she also goes to work."

She is free now to express herself in many forms of work, it was suggested. A century ago less than 20 occupations outside the home were open to women. Today there are hundreds.

"Modern woman enjoys a degree of freedom and opportunity unique in the annals of human society," said the host. "Now comes the great question. What is she going to do with this freedom?"

There was complete silence.

He stirred his coffee contemplatively.

"Women have always served as the conscience of the race," he said. "They, more than men, are aware of the ultimate objectives of life, its decencies, its enduring values, its meaning and purpose. By what women stands for and how they speak, the soul of the human race lives or dies.

"Today women hold the balance of power to a greater extent greater by far than they realize. Do you wonder then that I say the weight of the future is largely on their shoulders?"

THE GALLUP POLL

Compulsory French

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

There is an ever-growing school of thought in Canada that the French language should be a compulsory subject, like reading, writing and arithmetic, in all grades of our public schools.

In 1943, when a survey on this subject was first done by the Gallup Poll, only 36% said French should be compulsory in all public schools. Today 64% feel this way.

Naturally enough an overwhelming majority of Canada's French population (more than 9 in 10) are in favor of compulsory French language instruction in English-Canada.

This French-Canadian average of 91% in favor of compulsory French is considerably reduced by attitudes in the western provinces where only 35% want to see compulsory French in their schools and 63% are against it.

In the Maritimes and Quebec together, more than 8 in 10 are in favor of compulsory French in all Canadian public schools.

The question: "Do you or do you not think French should be a compulsory subject, like reading, writing, arithmetic, in all grades of public schools in English-speaking Canada?"

SHARP DISAGREEMENT

Synod Debates Divorce Stand

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP) — The strict canons against remarriage of divorced Anglicans may be changed tonight by the church's reform-bent general synod.

This 22nd council of bishops, clergy and leading laymen has already taken a step toward union with the United Church and slimmed down its executive bodies for faster action and better planning.

These decisions were close to unanimous. Disagreement is guaranteed in tonight's debate.

A commission of the church proposes a vast revision and enlargement of ecclesiastical canons on marriage, not only making possible the remarriage of a person divorced, but making provision for marriage counselling and for attempts to save marriages in danger of failure. The proposals would establish a tribunal to weigh elaborate applications for remarriage.

The diocese of Toronto, believing these proposals are too cumbersome, sets out a much simpler system. It gives a bishop or ecclesiastical court authority to declare that a previous marriage had no sacramental validity in the church's eyes.

This declaration would permit remarriage.

OFFER THIRD PROPOSAL

A third proposal comes from church lawyers, who would make the decision of civil courts the basis of the church's decision on remarriage. A person found guilty of adultery in the court's ruling would not be allowed to remarry in the Anglican church.

This judgment of guilt in the previous marriage is expected to doom the proposal to defeat.

The church's deep division on remarriage turns up in the membership of the commission that formulated the canonical revisions.

The majority of members believe the best way to uphold the Christian doctrine of lifelong marriage is to carefully define exceptions to the rule prohibiting remarriage during the lifetime of a former partner.

This majority interprets New Testament teaching as saying that marriage ought not to be dissolved other than by death, although it may be terminated otherwise under certain conditions. The key words are "ought not."

The minority group says the bond of marriage cannot be dissolved by any human authority. The key word is "cannot." The group believes the marriage bond is best upheld by recognizing no exceptions.

The synod took time out Tuesday to absorb the provocative words of Mollie Batten, one of the church's prominent teachers and insistent critics.

Miss Batten, pipe - smoking principal of William Temple College at Rugby, England, said the church must barge into the world to meet both a crisis of communication and a crisis of Christian belief.

It must not resign itself to providing an ark of safety and refuge for people who cannot succeed amid society's conflicts, she said.

She also advocated fewer church clubs and organizations.

"Why should men get together and be churchmen so much? . . . Why couldn't you get together as people and be the church? People do it, you know, in golf. We have pubs in England. Get together as people—not as men and women—in purposeful gatherings. I would think it would be more exciting."

Miss Batten said at a press conference Tuesday she smokes her pipe only in private, and then to cut down on the number of cigarettes.

Inadequate Income For Clergy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Income of clergy in the Anglican Church of Canada has been termed "far from adequate" by a report presented to the general synod of the church.

The report said the annual stipend ranges from $2,950 to $3,600 with an average of $3,188.

When free house utilities and other benefits are taken into consideration the report said a clergyman's stipend of $3,000 is equal to a layman's income of about $5,400.

Investigators asked the Bank of Canada for a chart of relative values which showed that an increase in consumer prices made minimum stipends far from adequate.

"Most of the clergy in the Canadian church have a difficult time to be free from world anxieties so as to devote themselves wholly to the preaching of the gospel," the report said.

Barbs Hurled At Penal, Legal System

MONTREAL (CP)—A psychiatrist and a magistrate hurled barbed shafts at Canada's legal and penal systems Tuesday during the second day of the international criminological congress here.

Dr. Ronald Edward Stokes, a Toronto psychiatrist, said certain potential killers are free to walk the country's streets. Magistrate E. W. Kenrick of Haileybury, Ont., called the prison system a failure.

Magistrate Kenrick said in an interview that it is "obvious that our whole prison system has failed and that there are far too many people in our jails."

Dr. Stokes, assistant director of the forensic clinic of the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, said borderline homicidal cases can roam about free as there are no institutions to put them in, and no legal methods to force them to accept extended treatment if there were.

Magistrate Kenrick said recommendations of the Archambault (1938) and Fauteux (1935) royal commissions on Canada's penal system have not yet been fully implemented and that "I feel like a surgeon with a poised scalpel every time I hand down a sentence."

Pre - sentencing and clinical reports on accused persons were essential "because one fast decision, like that of a surgeon holding a scalpel, can actually mean a person's life.

"We are powerless and frustrated because we cannot fully implement the enlightened suggestions contained in those reports. If we don't improve our sentencing techniques we are going to kill a lot of patients.

"The only way we can reduce our jail population is to better define our sentencing techniques by providing better pre-sentencing information."

'MAJORITY INTERESTED' IN FORD CRUSADE

Few Brush-Offs, No Hostility for Blitzers

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Church Editor

Is Victoria indifferent to the Leighton Ford Crusade?

This has been suggested in some quarters, but many of the 800 men and women who are conducting a door-to-door canvass of homes in the Greater Victoria area say the response is encouraging.

The canvass, styled Invitation Blitz, is to get as many people as possible to attend the two-week evangelistic crusade opening in the Memorial Arena Sunday at 3 p.m.

It is being carried out by members of 51 Victoria churches who are supporting the crusade.

"The majority are interested," said Duncan Henderson, a deacon of First Baptist Church, who has distributed more than 2,000 leaflets in the Fairfield and Oak Bay area since Sunday.

"In a few cases I have been brushed off by people who say frankly they are not interested in religion. Many admit they do not attend church but would like to hear Dr. Leighton Ford.

"Some say they already belong to a church but are not interested in crusades because they think they are emotional rather than spiritual. We try to persuade them there is a need for organized evangelism outside the church."

Mr. Henderson said one woman told him she was a lifelong Roman Catholic but intended to support the crusade because it was aimed at many people who have no religious life.

"There is a great need for missionary enterprise outside the church," she said.

Rev. F. R. Fleming, minister of the Assembly of God Pentecostal Church, 9182 East Saanich Road, is canvassing homes in the Sidney area.

"About 80 per cent of the people I've met are genuinely interested," he said. "I have met with no hostility but some try to brush you off by saying they are not interested.

"A great many have been impressed by the TV broadcasts of crusade meetings conducted by Dr. Billy Graham and Dr. Ford."

A spokesman at crusade headquarters said the majority of callers have had a friendly reception.

"We expect a capacity crowd at Sunday's opening rally in the Arena, with a choir of more than 1,000 voices."

MORE OF EVERYTHING OFFERED

New Era for YM-YW

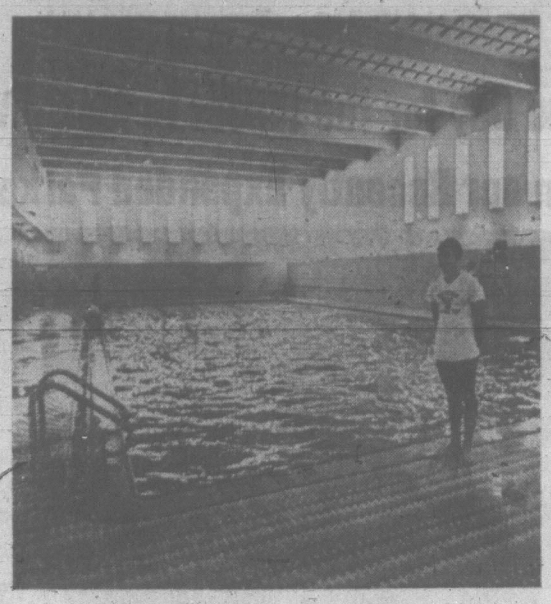

By JACQUES ROUSSEAUX

There is more of everything at the new YM-YWCA.

More staff, facilities and equipment will provide more classes, courses and service for more members beginning this fall.

When Premier W. A. C. Bennett officially opens the new centre, Sept. 10 at 3 p.m., he will be greeted in an airy setting of modern designs and color schemes.

The entire complex has been revamped, with efficiency as its featured theme. In the words of past president Margaret K. Wright, "1965 marks the beginning of a new era for the YM-YWCA of Victoria."

LARGEST Y POOL IN CANADA

Tent Operation

From a one-man, one-tent operation on the shore of Inner Harbor, the Y in Victoria has grown and developed to a $1,387,000 complex manned by a permanent staff of 30. It took 106 years.

The first "Y," the tent on the waterfront, provided shelter, fellowship and a good meal for young prospectors arriving by boat on their way to the northern country. The shelter made Victoria one of the first 10 cities in Canada to form a Young Men's Christian Association.

This first Y flourished only for a time, but 1875 it became a permanent part of the city's community life. The minutes of the organizational meeting stated that possibly in no community was the Y more needed, at the time, than in Victoria.

A small office in a wooden building at the corner of Trounce Alley and Broad Street, 90 years ago, was a far cry from the modern Y building at 880 Courtney Street today.

Raised $100,000

After several meeting place changes the Y men felt the need for a building of its own. A two-week fund raising campaign in 1909 raised more than $100,000, and two years later, Sept. 26, 1911, Premier Sir Richard McBride laid the cornerstone of the Y centre at View and Blanshard.

Thus began an organization through which nearly every prominent athlete and businessman in the city of Victoria has passed.

Briefly, the history of the YWCA in Victoria is this—about 1892 a number of young women connected with the Reformed Episcopal Church of Victoria were meeting once a week for Bible study. At one meeting they were addressed by a YW delegate from England. Soon after the Bible class was formed into a branch of the YWCA.

First public headquarters of the YW was a room on Government Street, adjoining what was then Skeene Lowe's photo studio. The first president was Miss Edith Carr, sister of British Columbia's foremost painter and native Victorian, Emily Carr.

Hot Lunches

Among the first benefits to YW members were hot lunches cooked by the Carr sisters and taken to students by horse and buggy.

The room grew into a flat over Shotbolt's drug store on Johnson Street, which served as boarding house with public rest and offered a reading room for girls.

Subsequent YW facilities were too old and too small to do justice to the many YW projects and in Aug. 16, 1910, Premier McBride used the official trowel to start the former YWCA centre at Blanshard and Courtney Street.

In May, 1960, the YM and YW agreed to amalgamation. The merger was initiated as a means to improving and expanding services to the community and in particular to the 14 to 20 age group.

Five years and one month later on June 21, 1965, the two Y's moved their operations under one roof into the new facilities of the YM-YWCA on Quadra Street, between Courtney and Broughton Streets.

Membership

In 1964 membership rose from 3,309 to 3,687. Users on register during the year was 5,579.

There were 269 members under nine years of age and 468 over 35. The majority of members were between nine and 17 years of age.

Total attendance for all activities was 111,041. Class and course attendance registered 17,356 for informal courses, 23,345 for the gymnasium, 28,844 in swimming and 1,217 for leaders' training.

The food services served 39,916 customers and the residences show records for 31,363 bed-nights occupancy.

The old and new members will benefit from an air-conditioned gymnasium for basketball, volleyball, handball, badminton and gymnastics.

Auditorium

An auditorium with controlled acoustics will serve for dances, ballets, banquets and large meetings. Seven club rooms of various sizes are already heavily booked for the fall educational purposes.

The building has four kitchens of various capacities, with the main one servicing the newly-appointed dining room, which offers a complete menu to residents and outsiders alike.

The fully-appointed adult health club will offer controlled noon-hour exercises under the supervision of qualified physical instructors.

A roof-top grass track is another interesting feature of the new Y.

Residence accommodation is restricted to girls. Y officials have found that today's young men care little for supervised accommodation and transient incidence last year indicated the expenses of a men's residence would not be justified.

Focus point of the complex is the well-lit and tiled, five-lane swimming pool. It is the largest Y pool in Canada.

Simply, the new YW-YMCA says "come and join us and get a kick out of life."

NEW LOOK AT 880 COURTNEY

Dr. 'X' Callous And Negligent

VANCOUVER (CP)—A B.C. Supreme Court judge Tuesday found a Vancouver General Hospital intern negligent for adopting a "casual and perhaps even callous" attitude toward a patient.

In handing down his ruling on the intern, identified only as "Dr. X," Mr. Justice T. W. Brown awarded $1,860 damages to retired lumber executive Clifford Crispin, 63.

Court was told Mr. Crispin's blood pressure dropped dangerously after a December, 1962, abdominal operation. Intravenous injection of an antidote proved successful, but Mr. Crispin complained of pain in his right arm and it was found that not all of the substance was going into the vein.

Corrective measures were taken, but Mr. Crispin complained of pain four days later. When informed by telephone, Dr. X ordered what he called symptomatic treatment.

In a written judgment, Mr. Justice Brown said Dr. X failed in his duty by not seeing the patient personally when informed of the patient's condition.

"I have no hesitation in finding there was negligence on the part of Dr. X . . . I don't think there can be any justification for (his) casual and perhaps even callous attitude . . ." the judgment said.

Court was told Mr. Crispin has a three-inch scar on his arm, occasional numbness of the fingers, and difficulty in writing.

Traffic Tickets Fixed

TORONTO (CP)—A sheriff's officer was remanded Tuesday to Sept. 9 on $500 bail when he appeared in court on a charge of obstructing justice.

Douglas Henderson, 50, of Toronto was arrested Monday at city hall in connection with a traffic summons fixing racket.

Two other men were arrested last week in connection with the same case, police said. George Miller, 27, a clerk in the summons office, and Sydney Winick, 36, both of Toronto were remanded on $1,000 bail each.

Police are still questioning city hall employees to determine the extent of the offence.

PLANES BATTLE OVER KASHMIR

Pakistan Takes 2 Indian Posts

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (CP)—The government claimed Pakistani air force planes shot down four Indian planes supporting retreating Indian ground forces in Kashmir today.

The official announcement said the air battle took place over the Chamb area, which is inside the Indian sector of Pakistan.

Earlier, a government spokesman said Pakistani Kashmir troops had crossed the ceasefire line in that area and had occupied two Indian posts, Chamb and Deva, six to eight miles inside Indian-held Kashmir.

(In New Delhi, an Indian defence ministry spokesman said that Pakistan infantry supported by U.S. - made Patton tanks attacked Indian positions in the Chamb sector. The spokesman claimed three of the tanks were badly damaged.)

A spokesman for the Pakistan government in Rawalpindi said this had been done to forestall any further Indian aggression.

He said this situation had been forced upon Pakistan by continued Indian aggression across the ceasefire line. "This has left us with no choice except to forestall their further aggressive moves," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said the government of Pakistan considered the present situation "very grave," but responsibility for the gravity of the situation lay squarely upon India, who had been aggressing across the ceasefire line during the last few months and then proudly announcing this.

The spokesman said "from today onward, we are in the fighting."

AYUB ACCUSES

In a broadcast speech, Pakistani President Ayub Khan accused India of blatant acts of aggression in Kashmir which, he said, would not be allowed to go unchallenged.

The president also rejected the Indian view of fighting there as the work of infiltrators, calling the attitude a pathetic attempt to delude the world.

Ayub said Pakistan is doing "no more than what we have always pledged to do, which is to support the people of Kashmir in exercising their right of self-determination . . ."

The president said he was making the broadcast under the threat of war which was being forced on Pakistan by India.

He said the people of Kashmir had risen in open revolt and described India's action in crossing the ceasefire lines in Jammu and Kashmir as an adventure in imperialism.

HOSPITAL PLEA IGNORED BY PREMIER

CHETWYND (CP)—Premier Bennett stayed in his railway car here Tuesday night while local residents pressed to see him about a hospital for the area.

A hospital committee said it had contacted the Premier through Stan Carnell, MLA for South Peace, but had received no reply.

The committee says there is only one trained first aid man in this northeastern B.C. community, although there are 700 children of school age.

The nearest hospital is at Dawson Creek, 65 miles away.

GOV'T SLOWDOWN?

Rising Costs May Hurt B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Leaders of the opposition in the legislature said Tuesday a warning by Premier Bennett against financial excesses indicates he is concerned with the rising cost of government projects.

The premier said in a speech at Prince George Monday industry and government leaders must exercise restraint to guard against a recession.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said here the premier made his statement because some government projects are in trouble.

"The costs are ballooning beyond what he told the public and the last session of the legislature," he said.

"He has obviously been given some very sobering information on the effects of rising costs on government projects."

Mr. Perrault suggested the premier could be softening up the public for an announcement of a slowdown in government projects or a cost picture on the Peace River power project.

"Perhaps he is now aware that our dynamic society can be a dynamically expensive society," he said.

BIDS TOO HIGH

New Democrat leader Robert Strachan said the premier's statement indicates he is fearful of the consequences of government policy. Bids on provincial and local projects are too high, he said.

"These estimates are going to cost people millions in extra taxes paid for schools, roads and hospitals.

"The bid on the Mica Dam is $20,000,000 over estimates and that is just for preliminary work."

He said the premier has been successfully hiding much of the Peace project costs in other government accounts.

"Now he's afraid that when it comes time to sell the power the cost is going to be so high that the whole house of cards is going to come down," he said.

The premier told a meeting of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority directors and officials that "a recession builds on itself the same as prosperity.

"Business—private enterprise—must not look for every nickel of profit. Labor leaders, too.

'COULD BE CRASH'

"Unless a balance is kept there could be a crash again."

The premier's warning followed an earlier announcement by Prime Minister Pearson that federal construction projects would be cut back or delayed because of rising costs.

Mr. Bennett warned that if business and labor demand high profits and wages the public could refuse to meet their demands and unemployment and a recession might result.

He warned the public against going overboard on time-payment plans except in cases of "legitimate desires."

WARNING

He said he was issuing his warning after sizing up the situation in B.C., particularly the rising cost of construction.

Hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum has reported costs up 25 per cent. He said about 1,000 men working at the Portage Mountain dam get $5 and $6 every day for the time they spend riding to and from their jobs. The men are paid double time for everything over an eight-hour day.

"Wages are minor compared to the fringe benefits," he said.

John McNiven, assistant secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labour, said wage costs are only a small percentage of rising costs.

"I don't think construction unions are asking too much."

RCMP Probe

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says the RCMP is making an investigation that could lead to the extradition from New York of Hal Banks, former Canadian boss of the independent Seafarers International Union.

Island Crisis Ends; All Sign Peace Pact

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The Organization of American States won a full agreement today terminating the four-month Dominican crisis.

The peace formula ensured the installation of a provisional government Friday as a first step toward general elections in nine months.

Rebel leaders cheered the peace plan. Heads of the armed forces, taking over after the rival civilian - military junta stepped aside, pledged full support to the provisional government.

The peace proposal was signed first by the insurgent regime behind rebel lines Tuesday night. Then Dominican armed forces leaders, meeting at the headquarters of the junta, signed a declaration of support for the peace plan and the provisional government.

The agreement followed nearly three months of peace efforts by the three-man OAS political committee of ambassadors Ellsworth Bunker of the United States, Ramon de Clairmont Duenas of El Salvador and Ilmar Penna Marinho of Brazil.

WILL BECOME PRESIDENT

The formula calls on lawyer-diplomat Hector Garcia-Godoy, 44, to become president of the interim regime. He will be installed Friday.

His provisional government will negotiate withdrawal of the OAS peace force, composed of 9,000 U.S. and 2,000 Latin American troops, still patrolling the battle-scarred capital.

The peacekeeping troops took over after the initial U.S. intervention in the rebellion which erupted April 24 in an abortive effort to bring former president Juan D. Bosch back to power.

WE'LL KNOW FOR SURE WITHIN A WEEK—PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said today he will announce within a week whether or not a general election will be called this fall.

He told reporters after a cabinet meeting that he hopes he can make the announcement before his self-imposed deadline of next Wednesday.

He set the deadline for such an announcement during his visit last week to Western Canada.

Mr. Pearson said he would not answer any questions today about the possibility of a general election in November, speculation about which has been rampant for several weeks.

'WON'T HAVE PEARSON PLAN RAMMED DOWN OUR THROAT'

Strike Threat Hurled by Doctor

A thinly-veiled threat of a Saskatchewan-style doctors strike against the proposed national medicare program was hurled at the federal government Tuesday by a leading Victoria doctor.

In a public speech, Dr. G. Scott Wallace bitterly attacked Prime Minister Pearson's motives and universal medicare plan—using such terms as "bastard" and "complete abortion" to describe his view of the proposal.

"Although I represent no official body of the medical profession today, I can soberly and seriously warn all politicians—federal, provincial and any other kind—that doctors will not accept any particular medicare scheme as a fait accompli and then have it rammed down their throats," he said.

"If such stubborn and short-sighted attitude by government had not prevailed in Saskatchewan in 1962, the unfortunate impasse between doctors and government, with all its attendant bitterness and suffering to public, doctors and politicians alike, need never have arisen."

Dr. Wallace told the luncheon meeting of Victoria Kiwanis Club that "many of the opinions" he was expressing were entirely personal and he was not representing any organization.

(However, the Victoria Medical Association some time ago appointed him as one of two official spokesmen as far as press enquiries are concerned.)

Dr. Wallace said he and many doctors quarrel with the Pearson plan on two counts: That it will provide coverage for all persons even if they can afford to pay; and that the government had not asked the doctors to participate in planning the program.

"Doctors thus can be forgiven for harboring a deep distrust of federal politicians who appear, for political motives mainly, to be hell-bent to conceive a national medicare scheme, to supervise its confinement and delivery and then expect the doctors to rear and develop their child, even if this offspring proves to be a bastard.

"If delivered with the haste which has characterized recent announcements, their conception might even prove to be a complete abortion."

Dr. Wallace said he and many other doctors are opposed to the welfare-statism philosophy inherent in a compulsory medicare plan although they agree with the object of providing medical services to those who cannot afford it.

He said the federal government should care for those that cannot afford the costs and, in addition, should concentrate its spending on providing more and better training schools and facilities for doctors and nurses.

Dr. Wallace described the Continued on Page 2

Ottawa Bids to Halt Strike at CN Hotels

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today a cabinet committee has been set up to deal with the question of payment of minimum wages of $1.25 an hour to employees of Canadian National Railways hotels.

The CNR has refused to apply the $1.25 wage minimum to its seven hotels, claiming it has no legal backing for its insistence the hotel chain does not come under federal law.

Employees of the Chateau Laurier here are threatening to begin a wildcat strike on Labor Day if the CNR does not apply the minimum, laid out in the new federal labor code, to end-of-August pay cheques.

Workers at other CNR hotels are reported ready to stage sympathy walkouts.

A strike Monday at the Chateau Laurier would coincide with the arrival here of 800 international delegates to the inter-parliamentary conference. Nearly half of them have reservations at the Chateau.

CPR Told To Retain 'Dominion'

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners today ordered the Canadian Pacific Railway to call off its plans to discontinue the Dominion passenger train service Sept. 7.

The board clamped a freeze on the cancellation plan pending a series of public hearings at which the railway and communities along its transcontinental line will be given an opportunity to air arguments for and against the proposed move.

Hearings have been set for Winnipeg Sept. 27, Vancouver Oct. 5, Calgary Oct. 12-13, Regina Oct. 14-15, Ottawa Oct. 19-20-21 and Port Arthur at a date still to be set.

The board is reported to have received a flood of complaints, chiefly from Western Canada, since the CPR's announcement early in August that it planned to abandon the Dominion, its secondary transcontinental passenger train.

It ordered a special study of the situation and decided the complaints warranted a full public investigation. A postponement order was issued after a one - hour board meeting this morning.

REPORT ORDERED

The order instructs the CPR to file with the board by Sept. 15 a complete report of its reasons for wanting to cancel the train.

It asks for details of revenues and expenditures on the Dominion in the period between Jan. 1, 1964, and August of this year, a report on the displacement of employees that might result and the railway's alternative transportation arrangements.

Abandonment of the Dominion would concentrate the CPR's transcontinental passenger traffic on its No. 1 train, the Canadian.

The hearings will also look into complaints that the CPR has been rejecting passenger reservations for sleeping and parlor car space when space was available. The board has ordered the CPR to present a full outline of its reservation procedure.

ROWDYISM MUST STOP

REGATTA BOYCOTT THREATENED

Yacht Club Calls in Judo Experts

MAPLE BAY—Judo experts and a German Shepherd dog will patrol the yacht club grounds here for the Labor Day regatta.

The special security patrol has been called in by club commodore Alan Stewart.

His unprecedented action follows a threat by Vancouver and Seattle Yacht Clubs to boycott the annual affair.

Their move to strike the event from the official calendar came as a result of rowdyism on club premises in previous years.

Last year one man almost drowned and there was a knifing incident.

In a bid to clean up the event, Mr. Taylor has called off the traditional evening dance.

It was here that most of the unruly behavior took place.

Although officially open to members only, the dance attracted fun-seeking youths from Duncan and neighboring areas.

Said Mr. Taylor: "We have been slack in keeping discipline in the club.

"Things were done which did not please our visitors.

"This year we are going to be absolutely insistent no member of the general public is allowed on club property."

His plan to call in judo experts from Duncan Judo Club, and a patrol dog, were announced in a Maple Bay Club bulletin put out Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Stewart said today: "If the public wants to watch and enjoy the regatta from other vantage points, fine. But we are not a public club."

Last year the regatta attracted 250 power and sail boats.

Present indications are there will probably be more this year.

Vancouver and Seattle have agreed to attend with the new restrictions in force.

Said club member W. Bradshaw Harrison: "When an event gets as big as the Maple Bay regatta has done, it needs patrolling.

"The club should have foreseen this and surely from some 700 members find enough to undertake such a patrol on Labor Day.

"I blame the club for some of the past trouble.

"When there are so many people about, and so much liquor, some control should be exercised."

The regatta is the second largest on the Pacific Coast.

200,000) had been offered to him by the U.S. government to keep quiet about the arrest of an American Central Intelligence Agency official from Bangkok who sought to buy secret information in Singapore.

In confirming the Rusk letter, state department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said that a formal denial made Tuesday by the state department was in error.

McCloskey said that "those who were consulted within the government on this matter yesterday were not fully aware of the background of an incident that occurred 4½ years ago."

"The secretary did write a letter expressing this government's regret over the incident," McCloskey said.

McCloskey refused to discuss the subject or comment further.

In another press conference Tuesday Lee said that if the United States did not retract its denial of his original charge he would name the intermediary "who tried to bribe me."

'S. Viet Nam Not Ready For Talks'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times reports today that South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said his country was "not ready now" to begin peace negotiations.

In a dispatch from Saigon, The Times quotes Ky, in an interview, as saying Tuesday that South Viet Nam would not begin negotiations until there were firm guarantees that North Vietnamese troops would leave his country and that U.S. troops would stay until Saigon asked them to leave.

Ky also told The Times his regime was not yet ready to face the expected threat of Communist political agitation after a negotiated cease-fire.

His regime could not face this threat until it has time to start overcoming what he called the many social and economic injustices in South Viet Nam, Ky indicated.

Statistics Back Boom Prediction

A monthly review by the provincial bureau of statistics released today showed early-year business activity reports back up Premier Bennett's prediction this year will see B.C.'s biggest boom.

"During May and June the provincial economy remained buoyant in most sectors with indications that 1965 will be a record year," the release from Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark's office said.

2nd Trustee Resigns

SOOKE—School trustee Percy Buttrum Tuesday submitted his resignation.

Mr. Buttram disqualified himself from holding office when he moved from the district and sold his property.

A member of the board for less than a year, he is the second trustee to resign in the past two months.

Trustee Fred Boulter left in protest over allaged harassment of school boards by municipal and provincial politicians.

The board will ask the municipal affairs department if it can defer election of two new members until the December elections.

Businessmen Protest Liquor Store Shift

DUNCAN — A group of city businessmen will protest to city council the proposed moving of the liquor store from downtown to the Trans-Canada Highway.

Norman Gourlay will lead a delegation of downtown merchants. He will submit a 72-name petition.

The Liquor Control Board is considering locating its Duncan outlet in a proposed new shopping complex at the intersection of Trunk Road and the highway.

Besides petitioning council, the downtown merchants have sent copies of the petition to the LCB, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black and Works Minister W. N. Chant.

Mr. Gourlay said Tuesday the only acknowledgment so far received was from the Liquor Control Board.

The protest will be considered at the next board meeting.

City clerk Gordon Berry said council only had power to make a recommendation to the LCB.

Meantime council has referred the proposal to its advisory planning commission "for study and recommendation."

The commission meets Thursday and council does not meet again until Sept. 13.

Mr. Gourlay said Tuesday: "Most of the city's revenue comes from the downtown section and if council does not look after it the downtown will become a distressed area."

He said the merchants were not trying to fool anyone.

They wanted the liquor store to remain in the downtown area because it was a good drawing attraction for business generally.
